STATE FUNERAL FOR IBSEN.

President of Parliament Refers to Country's Great Loss
Christiania, Norway, May 26.—The funeral of Henrik Ibsen, who died here May 23, will be given a state funeral, a motion to that effect having been unanimously approved at yesterday's sitting of Parliament. The president in introducing the motion feelingly referred to the country's loss as follows:

"Since the last sitting of the House our country has suffered a grievous loss in the death of one of her best sons, Henrik Ibsen. The people of Norway will ever feel deeply grateful to him for all he has given and taught us, and for the world-wide honor which, through him, has descended on our fatherland. In agreement with the Premier, I move that Henrik Ibsen be buried at the expense of the state." The whole House rose in silent acquiescence.

It has been decided that the Ibsen funeral will take place May 31.

WHY SUFFER FROM RHEUMATISM?

Why suffer from rheumatism when one application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm will relieve the pain? The quick relief which this liniment affords makes rest and sleep possible, and that alone is worth many times its cost. Many who have used it, hoping only for a short relief, suffering, have been happily surprised to find that after awhile the relief became permanent. Mrs. V. H. Loggatt, of Yum Yum, Tennessee, U. S. A., writes: "I am a great sufferer from rheumatism, all over from head to foot, and Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the only thing that will relieve the pain." Sold by all druggists.

Big Earthquake in China.

Victoria, B. C. May 26.—Mail advices from the Orient state that an earthquake, causing great loss of life and considerable damage to property, occurred early in May at Uinkai and vicinity at Mongolia. The Pekin Times reports that a chasm several feet wide was caused by the earthquake. The walled city of Uinkai was almost completely destroyed, the loss of life being very heavy.

A GOOD FAMILY LINIMENT.

Every family should be supplied with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. For cuts, bruises, burns, scalds and similar injuries, which are of frequent occurrence, there is nothing so good. It soothes the wound and not only gives instant relief from pain, but causes the parts to heal in about one-third the time required by the usual treatment. As it is an antiseptic all danger from blood-poisoning is avoided. Sold by all druggists.

Ashley Moorehouse's Body Found.

May 26.—The body of Ashley Moorehouse, son of Dr. Moorehouse of Toronto, who with a companion was drowned off Mimico on April 7, was found floating near Point Nelson, near Burlington, yesterday morning. The remains will be shipped on the 7 a. m. G. T. R. train to Toronto this morning.

THE WORST OF A COLD

Is how suddenly it comes. No time to hurry to the drug store, cough develops, the lungs are affected with pneumonia or tuberculosis, and it's too late. Keep Chamberlain's Cough Remedy on hand—it kills colds instantly. Something magical about the way it cures Croup and Bronchitis. Chamberlain's is the best remedy, because it purges the nature's way, it soothes, soothes and restores permanently. Carry a Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in your pocket, use it occasionally and you'll never catch cold—that's worth remembering.

HALF-SICK PEOPLE.

The world is full of them. Just sick enough to be lazy and listless; to have no appetite; to sleep poorly. Quite often you're half-sick yourself. Chances are the trouble is in the stomach and bowels. Best prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they tone up the entire system, strengthen the stomach, elevate your spirits, and make you well in one night. Dr. Hamilton's Pills work wonders with people in your condition. Mild in action, effective and easy to take. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills to-day, 25c. per box at all dealers in medicine.

THE THIN MAN'S DANGER.

He can't resist disease germs, that's why he's such a mark for consumption. In this land of plenty, thinness is wickedness, especially when it's caused by overeating with Ferrerozone. This remarkable tissue-builder makes you fat quickly; it does so by forming blood that's rich, nourishing and health-giving. Ferrerozone supplies the nutrient needed by worn-out nerves, rapidly constructs muscle and fatty tissue. The Form fills out, the cheeks redden, proving that weight is being added. To be well and stay well, use Ferrerozone. Fifty chocolate-coated tablets in a box for fifty cents or six for $2.50 at all dealers.

THE RACE AT MARATHON.

He won the race at Marathon, Our young Canadian son; The maple-olive garland won, And all the world was looking on.

He won the race, he wears the wreath Upon his conquering brow; Well done! Well done! Courageous son, Who brought us fame at Marathon.

"The mountains look on Marathon," And all the world on thee; Young son of Canada, so sweet, Pure, brave, thy soul, as fleet thy feet, And all our sons like thee! —A. L. O. O., in The Globe.

"BILLY" SHERRING.

Just because you're not a Roman or a Greek It seems to me it wouldn't quite be right If no song or verse of praise, however meek, Should proclaim aloud your prowess and your might. A welcome from your country far and wide, For having borne the Maple Leaf so proudly From Marathon to Athens with your stride. No wonder that the Greeks should cheer you loudly!

For centuries this ancient race has been A famous test of speed, endurance, skill; And you have won it, and the world has seen A splendid race, that makes one's quills thrill. —Doyle, in Mail and Empire.

ANGLO-AMERICAN ALLIANCE.

Former M. P. P. Inspired by Andrew Carnegie Turns to Poetry.
Mr. Carnegie, in his address to the Canadian Club, Toronto, on April 26th, espoused the alliance of the two great English-speaking nations, Great Britain and the United States, with Canada as the medium, joining their hands in perpetual friendship.

It says to the Old Motherland, "At last," After long years of unceasing strife With the foes that have envied thy life, The goal of your efforts is now within view.

Your cause is united with power to do; United in bonds that Time cannot sever, United for Freedom and Justice forever. "At last!"

It says to the mighty Republic, Stand by the race from which you have sprung, Whose glorious deeds your fathers have sung, Whose blood in your veins is bounding with pride, And should never be shed in foul fratricide; Now grant in strength, grown noble and grand, For Humanity's good with the Motherland stand. "Stand fast."

It says to our own loved Dominion, "You're in," Your glorious place the keystone between The two greatest powers that ever have been; With one hand to the left and one to the right, Cement them together in still greater might—Be your wheat fields and mines their base of supply When they stand 'gainst the world to conquer or die. "You're in."

It says to our far-scattered race, "Come in," From the land of the Nile and Sudan, Broad Australia and far Hindustan, From the Southern Cape and the Isles of the Sea, From each land where our banner floats o'er the free, From each spot where the sun in his course looks down On a Briton striving for bread or renown— "Come in."

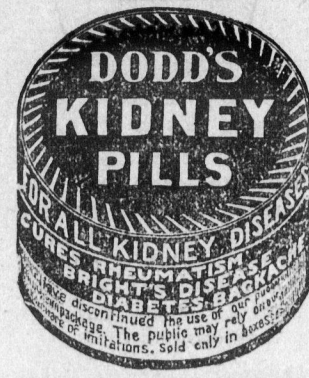

It says to the far-lords of Europe, "Take care!" Your days as oppressors have ended; Henceforth will the weak be defended; Never again will a Poland be 'sundered Nor child of the Cross be hunted and plundered; You may growl, gnash your teeth and rage, if you will, But a Master is risen who bids you be still. "Take care!"

It says to the nations of Earth, "Beware!" The Stars and Stripes and the three-fold Cross Are dear to a people who count no loss Of blood and of treasure too great in the fight For Freedom, for Justice, for Truth and for Right; Their union foretells who the victor will be. When Great Armageddon downfalls on thee— "Beware!" —H. J. Pettipiece, in The Globe, Forest, Ont., May 1.

English Tendency in Matrimony.
We always tend to run to extremes in our social fashions, and it is therefore not without some interest, one may even say anxiety, that we shall watch the decided tendency of society women to marry men much younger than themselves. There may come a day when an age limit may have to be instituted.—London World.

Convicts Bold Attempt to Escape.

Kington, May 26.—A convict named McGee, sent for life, from Kingston, cut his way through the rear wall of his cell and secured an entrance into a conduit, through which pipes passed to the sewer. Thursday night. He crawled along the conduit across the main building, and near to one wall he found the entrance to a chimney which was in course of construction. He found a rope dangling and he tried to crawl up it, a distance of over 60 feet. He had got up to the top when his strength failed, and he fell to the bottom, breaking a leg and injuring his spine. It is the third attempt he has made since his incarceration. He is a noted criminal, and has spent several terms in prison, his last sentence for life being given for his diabolical attack on the wife of a guard whom he found alone in her home. She had to fight most desperately to save her life.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited, Yarmouth, N. S.

Gentlemen,—In January last, Francis Leclaire, one of the men employed by me, on working in the lumber woods, had a tree fall on him, crushing him fearfully. He was, when found, placed on a sled and taken home, where grave fears were entertained for his recovery, his hips being badly bruised, and his body covered with cuts from his ribs to his feet. We used MINARD'S LINIMENT on him freely to deaden the pain and with the use of three bottles he was completely cured and able to return to his work.

Doctors' Latin.

At its best it must be admitted that doctors' Latin is, in the words of a distinguished professor, "doggy and medieval." For our own part we would go so far as to say that it is more "doggy" than medieval. At its worst it is a monstrous horridum with which no respectable dog would own kinship.—British Medical Journal.

CLIMB IN THE ROCKIES.

First Exploit of Canadian Alpine Club—Alpenstock in the Descent—Lady Describes the Trip.

Katherine McLennan, special correspondent of The Mail and Empire, writes from Banff, B. C., under date of May 2:

The enthusiasm about mountain climbing has grown apace since the organization of the Canadian Alpine Club in Winnipeg last month. So much so that already a few energetic members have tasted the pleasures and difficulties of a mountain climb in April.

It would be difficult for anyone with a heart in tune with Nature to resist the alluring sunshine and the exhilarating atmosphere of Banff. So when we found ourselves in this beautiful spot, surrounded by mountains and with all conditions favorable, it was not surprising that Mt. Rundle, rearing its magnificent outline against a cloudless sky, attracted us to take a view from its summit.

At 6 o'clock on April 13 a party, consisting of a lady and five gentlemen, members of the club, was to be seen leaving the Grand View Villa, filled with the spirit of conquering glory and well equipped to battle with rocky ascents and slippery snow slopes. Each member of the party was provided with an alpenstock or an ice-axe, these being indispensable to a successful climb. Two rucksacks, well-stored with a variety of good things to eat and drink, a rope in case of emergency, and wraps to put on when we ascended the summit, were carried by different members of the party. After a pleasant walk down the bridge path, and thence for a short distance through a wood of pine and balsam, we arrived at the base of the mountain. For some distance the ascent is made through a sparsely wooded district, but gradually the face of the mountain grows more rocky, until at the height of 2,000 feet above the valley of the Bow River one encounters very steep, rocky cliffs. At this stage our expedition we rested frequently, being refreshed by the contents of the rucksacks and enlivened by the well-told stories of our Scotch and Irish friends; for our party had a fair representation of each of these countries, which have given us so many tales of wit and humor. Looking north-westward from our first resting place, we were much impressed by the ever-winding Bow River, threading its silvery course in and out among the mountains. In the background, Pilot Mountain, looking like a sleeping giant, and Mount Bourgeois were conspicuous.

Presently peak after peak arose as far as the eye could see; and ascending a little farther, we were filled with delight by sighting, in the far distance, Mount Assiniboine, towering 11,800 feet above sea level. Having passed entirely out of the timber district, we encountered a snow-field, which, being frozen, retarded us very little. For an hour we had a fairly difficult pull up the last snow-clad steep to the arête, seen at sky line from the valley. But we were well rewarded when at twelve o'clock we found ourselves at our point of destination—the lower of the twin peaks. We had hoped to attain to the higher peak, but found the gulch between the two quite impassable. The ascent to the second peak can be made by following the valley of the Spray River farther to the south, and starting from the other side of the col. However, even to be on this lower peak is a great privilege and not so small a climb either, as it means a height of over 4,500 feet above the valley. From here one looks westward for miles upon an ocean of snow-capped peaks, each one apparently grander than the other, and changing almost momentarily, as they are shadowed by fleeting clouds or lighted up by the sunshine. A sensation of awe overcomes one when looking down the eastern face of Mount Rundle. This side of the mountain is a sheer precipice, falling 3,000 feet to rock ridges below, which impresses one with the grand scale of Nature's architecture. In the valley is seen again the graceful Bow, with its bare cut banks from which rise those strange formations known as the Hoodoos. These are pillars of clay, standing erect from the cliffs and much feared by the Indians. To the north are the sparkling blue waters of Devil's Lake, so-called because tradition maintains that evil spirits inhabit its shores. On either side of it rise Mount Inglismaide and Mount Aymer, the latter the highest peak in this vicinity.

We would linger long on the summit to drink in all the glories of the surrounding landscape, but a cold penetrating wind forbade more than a comparatively short stay. Having secured a few photographs, and once again taking in the panorama which lay all around us, we retraced our steps, and as rapidly as possible descended this highest slope. Striking the timber line again, we sat around a friendly fire, and enjoyed a lunch as only mountaineers can enjoy it. Here we rested and took a few more photographs.

Then occurred the most exciting part of the day's outing, when after the initiation of the lady in the proper use of the alpenstock much of the distance was covered by glissading down the snow. We were reminded of the days when tobogganing was in vogue as we stood up, and putting both feet together, were able to slide down the snow slopes with much rapidity. The sensation resembles that of sking on a large scale.

Six o'clock found us again at the village—little tired and footsore, but well repaid by having experienced the delights of a climb in the hot sulphur basins. A plunge in the hot sulphur basin soon made us forget that our muscles had been a bit tired. Indeed, some members of the party were already looking for more fields to conquer. But these we decided to leave until July 9th, when many hope to become "original members" of the Canadian Alpine Club, by graduating at the official climb of "The Vice-president," which is to be held at the first summer camp, to be held at the summit of the Yoho Pass.

Missing Statuary.

"Statue me" said the old lady with eyes that were as dry as dust. "but haven't you got any more statues in marble?" "They are all, madam," replied the pompous attendant. "they have all been stolen and put away looking for 'em." "I wanted to see the statue of limitations my husband was talking about."

Art Above Nature?

Art is one of the greatest phenomena of our world. It is one of the most serious of things. Nature has no art. Nature is grotesque and wild, but art is ours; it is human. Art means anything. A system of philosophy is as much art as beauty in sculpture and rhythm and cadence in poetry. There is the art of living, the art of meeting people. No bird gives real music. The finest nightingale sends out only weird tones, but it isn't music. The only musical sound in nature is the sound of water dripping from a rock. Art is hypernature, antinature. It is neither imitation nor rivalry, but something we give to nature.—Dr. Emil Reich.

The English "Society for the Prevention of Consumption" presided over by the Prince of Wales, was recently addressed by Sir William Broadbent, who stated that it was definitely known that every case of consumption began with a germ communicated from some other case. There is no such thing as inherited consumption. There may be local weakness which tends to consumption, but the germ has absolutely to be planted in the weak spot before consumption can ensue. This ought to comfort thousands of people who have "weak chests" or "weak lungs." They are not foredoomed victims of this dread disease. All that is needed to bid absolute defiance to this deadly scourge, is to be able to strengthen the weak lungs, and build up a strong body. The answer to this need is found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It so purifies the blood and increases the blood supply, that disease is thrown off, and the weak organs are nourished into perfect health, which defies germs of every kind. People, given up by doctors, emaciated, bleeding at the lungs, with obstinate, lingering coughs, are being cured every day by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery." It is strictly temperance containing no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant.

A Cubic Foot of Gold.

If some millionaire agreed to give you a cubic foot of pure gold if you should put it in a sack and carry it a mile, do you think you would be equal to the task? Certainly you are confident of your ability to perform the task, but there would not be the least danger of the man of money losing his gold cube. Such a lump of virgin gold would weigh a few grains over 1,203 pounds.

There is one thing that you can bank on. The present day young men are keener, brighter, and better looking and more self-reliant and less dependent. They all take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets.
