sts of Hamilton. It is true it was a quieter jubilation than has marked former years, the absence of the time-bonored parade in the morning being chiefly noticeable. The programme this year was somewhat of an innovation, and the officers of the Trades and Labor Council were unanimous in pronouncing Council were unanimous in pronouncing it a success. Nothing necessary to make it such was left undone by the Labor Day

Nothing the Labor Day committees, and a crowd of over ten thousand people, who flocked to Dundurn Park in the afternoon was proof positive that their efforts were not in vain. The dark, lowering clouds that swept over the sky in the horning and threatened to interfere with the plans, lad cleared before noon, and a more ideal day for the programme at the park could hardly have been desired.

Big Crowd at Park.

The Games Committee had provided a more than usually attractive programme of aports, the prizes being more value, able than in previous years. Before 1 oclock the crowds were treking there and it was cetimated that over ten thousand had passed through the gates during the afternoon. Chairman H. J. Halford, of the General Committee, a staff of other officials and a squad of assistants, stationed just inside the grounds, did a rushing business on prizes. Many people brought lunches and stayed all day.

The sports were run off at Harvey Park and proved a magnet that attracted an immense crowd. Promptly on time the starter's revolver cracked for the opening event and before 5 'o'clock the last race had been run. Those in charge of this end of the programme, worked hard and fast and were certainly deserving of credit for the clock-like precision with which the, events were conducted. The valuable prizes attracted a good entry list for nearly every number and the competition was keen. The results:

cors, an engineer, went to the Washington dental parlors yesterday afternoon to have an aching tooth extracted, and a few minutes later was carried to the Emergency Hospital with a fractured skull and the affected molar still firm in his mouth. In the meantime he had wrecked the dental parlor and caused a commotion which required a squad of policemen to quell.

Bowers insisted upon taking gas against the advice of Dr. R. B. Leonard. When it was administered, Bowers started in to break up the furniture and to attack the dentist. Two assistants and a colored porter came to his rescue, but Bowers had them all down and out in quicker time than if would have required to extract the tooth.

Finally, in defence of his life, Dr. William H. Winter seized a hammer and struck Bowers on the head with it, fractured his word. The provided here attacking his wife. When he reached the hospital he had forgotten all about the toothache. He will recover from the fractured skull.
