"They look to their own Parliament or the redress of grievances which may be proved to exist and for the adoption of such measures of improvement as may be calculated be promote their happiness and prosperity."—Opening Speech of the Section happiness and prosperity."—Opening Speech of the Session.

Such were the words of my Lord Elgin, pomposity pronounced amidst all the fooleries of booming cannon, braying trumpets, tawdry lace, and miserable fustian, attendant upon that important period in the present year when the assembled wisdom of the Province gathered round the brass rods of the Upper House, and listened to the opening speech. My Lord was annihilating the volgar cry for Annexation, showing the power belonging to the loyal Canadian people, when he read out this pleasing declaration; and the assembled wisdom retired from the brass rods much pleased at their evident importance. The sentence quoted, and another-following it, hinting broadly at the necessity of dealing "unsparingly with abuses," did much to throw a dash of sprii into a rather milk-and-water, and meaningless address, and the satisfaction of members was received to a certain extent from their constituents. To-day the cannot will again belch forth their salute, the trumpets will again belch forth their salute, the trumpets will again for the amusement of the invention of the mistronolia, the echoed to a certain extens the content of the their salute, the trumpets will again beloh for the their salute, the trumpets will again for the amusement of the juveniles of the metropolis, the lace of military officials will glitter in the aua, my Lord Elgin will meet his "faithful commons" and the "honorable gentlemen" in althing lory of Windor uniform and feathered cap, and the hard-worked Parliament will be dismissed from its arduous duties.

Whilst Toronto is tarsed topsy-turvy withis ceremony, and the representatives of the people are congratulating themselves upon the release from labor, it will be well to calmide the second to the people are constituted to the second to the se view their work, and to see in how much the have followed the good advice tendered to the by the Governor General on the 14th of May-In doing this I am sware that I shall be in son measure anticipated by those Ministerial prin measure anticipated by those Ministerial prints who have the work of laudation to perform, and do not lose an hour in satting about the remunerating task. The form of their paise is not new, and the words of their song are already ringing in my ears. "See," say they, after the usual floutishes, "we have a new Jury Law, a new contested Election Law, a capital School Bill. Cheap Postage, Free Trade with the other Colonies, a settlement of the Clergy Reserves, and—and—and a quantity of other valuable reforms too numerous to mention." Such is now, and will be, the tone of the ministerial hacks for some weeks to come. The people, happily, do not depend solely upon preses of this character for information. That some good has been effected by Parliament during its long Session, it would be dide to deny, but it would be equally vain to assert that it has come up to the expectations of the people. The Clergy Reserves question has been threst aside, but not disposed of—the Usury Laws have been disgracefully allowed to remain to sully the statute-book—Household Suffrage has been shirked by a quibble from Mr. Baldwin—the Elective Principle has been thrown overboard amidst the laughter created by the ignorant witticiams of a representations of 55 electors. Retrenchment has been ble from Mr. Baldwin—the Elective Principle has been thrown overboard amidst the langhter created by the ignorant wittlefams of a representative of 95 electors—Retreuchment has been miserably shunned by the appointment of a Committee whose actions were nullified and Report rejected—the School Act has been modified to suit the Prussianizing views of Egerton Ryerson—the Baltot has been met with cold water thrown upon it by the Prime Minister—the Representation Bill was purposely forced to a division when members were absent—the Penicariary Report, as extravagent political pap-boat, has never been alluded to, although the Speech expressly pointed it out as fit subject for Legislative action—Law Reform has been suffered to die still-born—an Elective Legislative Council has been spurned as "unconstitutional" and "revolutionary"—and every other proposed reform, coming from certain members of the House, has been unceremoneously laid down by a tyrant majority, as strongly Tory in principle as they have hitherto been Liberal in profession. If the people have really looked "to their own Parliament for the redress of grievances which Parliament for the redress of grievances which may be proved to exist," miserably have they been disappointed, for never since the cession of Responsible Government to this Province did greater "shams" sit in the House of Assembly. Last year when the test questions were skilfully avoided, patriots were as thick as pigeons in the newly-cut grain field, but the first cloud has newly-cut grain field, but the first cloud has proved the numerical poverty of the band who may be depended upon to maintain the people's dearest rights. Where were the pledges of 1847, when Mr. Price's Resolutions were before the House? Where were the hustings' speeches of that date when Electoral Reform, the School Act, Law Reform, the Usury Laws, and Re-trenchment were discussed? I Lost in oblivion that date when Election Reion, its State Act, Law Reform, the Usury Laws, and Retrenchment were discussed? Lost in oblivion—thrown into the waste-paper basket, and com-thrown into the waste-paper basket, and comfortably forgotten.

In how much have our Legislators dealt "unsparingly with abuses?" I can array but a slight line of good measures in rely. A Postal Reform, which would have come from any government, Liberal or Tory, stands first; then there is an Assessment Law, so patched, disfigured, and amended as to be unknown to its originator; then a School Bill, admitting sectarian divisions and distinctions of race; then a Jury Law, which may be good, but has never yet been read by 100 persons in the Province; then a Joint Stock Companies' Act, so crippled by a clause, enforcing, the payment of capital in two years, as to render it a dead-letter; then a measure for providing Free Trade with other British North American Possessions; then a Currency Act; and then—nothing else. This is the sum total of a palayer extencing over three months, and paid for by the people at extraord. is the sum total of a palaver extending at emmons months, and paid for by the people at emmons cost. What is there here which the Tories in their palmiest days would have objected to?—What is there that will live in the pular when the great Act of a king mAdmemory as the great Act of a Reministration? Can it be believe fruits of a whole Session, wher ty comprises two-thirds of the light ty comprises two-thirds of the third are so patry, so poor, so few? Howe, such the Liberal may feel disposed to disbelove it, the fact is before his eyes, and he must unwillingly acknowledge that he has been between

The chance for Reform rests now only in Another general election. The present House is not worthy the confidence of the people. Second-rate measures may be passed—little concessions may be made emall sops may be thrown to the multitude, in the session of next year, but no grand principle will be confirmed, or comprehensive reform be attempted by the half-Tories sive reform be attempted by the half-Torics who now hold seats in our House of Commons. The Ministry guiding the Members, or keeping them in check, are as little worthy of confidence as their parliamentary supporters. I am aware that these are strong words to use, and that they will fall harshily on the cars of many a sterling Reformer, but it is high time for the friends of popular beats to be on the alert, and tear the mask from the face of them protected guardians. I know, too, that party union is all-essential to the success of contemplated by the contem plated changes, but I would sooner suffer from disunion for a while than see civil and religious freedom daily sacrificed to the greedy and self-preservative schemings of our leading men. Firmners to principle— regard to measure—and determination to regard to measure—and determinated to place implicit faith in no men whatever— are the three requisites for all desirous for Canadian prosperity. Neglect of them has hitherto defeated the numerous attempts to reform—has presented to Canada such a humiliating scene as that witnessed at its close to-day, and has done more to create discontent, retard general progress, and de-feat liberalizing tendencies, than all the Tory legislation ever yet inflicted upon the country. There is a period at hand when every elector may profit much from his experience of the past, and I hope it will be turned to good account.—Dundas Warder.
