*Marshall BrosYou Can.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"I simply can't put my mind on my work when I know I've got to stop in an hour or two," I complained the other day. "Can't you change the first four words of that?" suggested my confidante cheerfully. "To what?" "To 'I simply will put my mind on my work.'"

It was a very old thought in an application concrete and personal enough to make it seem new.

"There is no such word as 'can't' in the bright lexicon of youth."

We all know that saying so well that it has passed into the class of trite sayings that only humorists and back numbers think of quoting.

How We Pamper Those Little Weaknesses.

Yet, as is the case with many sayings whose familiarity prevents their making any impression upon us, the thought behind it is a force that cannot grow old. Moreover, to judge from the way we pamper our little notions about what we can and cannot do, the habit of applying that force to our every day affairs is by no means a matter of course with most of us.

"Yes, I know I worry more than I need to and I know it makes me unhappy," says a friend of mine, "but I can't help it. That's the way I'm made."

Suppose she substituted "but I will help it" in her mind for "I can't help it," and kept on thinking "I will help it" every time she found herself worrying, wouldn't it just have to make some difference in her ability to control her tendency to worry?

"I can't concentrate when anyone is in the room. I must have perfect quiet to do my best work," is one of my favorites.

I Ought To Be Ashamed Of Myself "Shame on you," I ought to say to myself. "Think of what Jane Austen did in that busy parsonage library. Say 'I will concentrate, no matter what is going on around me!'"

We are altogether too prone to regard certain faults, certain weaknesses, especially those we think we have inherited, as necessary and hence excusable.

No fault is necessary and hence no fault is excusable.

We inherit tendencies to faults just as we inherit tendencies to disease.

but we don't have to give either free rein.

Disease thrives on bad air and lack of bodily exercise.

Faults thrive on "I can't" and lack exercise of the will.

Say "I will" to your fault and keep on saying it until the fault is exterminated.

WITH MY LETTER FRIENDS.

Question—Should parents oppose the choice of their children in marriage?

Answer—Of course, if they have some really good reasons, such as their positive knowledge of the physical or mental unfitness or bad habits of the party chosen. But if they don't wish to defeat their own ends, they had better use tact in the manner of their opposition.

Question—I would like to know your opinion of kissing games.

Answer—All right for children to whom a kiss means no more than a hand clasp (and who don't usually care to play them); out of the question for young people who have reached an age where a kiss has more import.

FISHERMEN EARN TEN POUNDS A WEEK.

Chiefly owing to the high prices, a record in the earnings of men in the crab and lobster fishing is reported at Sheringham, on the Norfolk coast. In one week thirty-eight boats, with two men to a boat, averaged £3 10s. Every man of a Sheringham crew earned £20 in three weeks' general fishing.

Wives.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

Wives are what fiancées become when they have descended from the seventh heaven into a kitchen and a gingham apron.

A wife is a divider of man's sorrow, a multiplier of his joys, an adder to his family, a subtractor from his surplus and a compound, complex and major fraction of his existence. No home is complete without a wife. She can take a one-room cabin, and in her winsome way can make a paradise out of it with a few kind words and some curtains. But she can also take a ninety-six room mansion and make a purgatory out of it by going to Europe and only returning for Christmas every third year.

Wives are very ornamental and are the very finest possible home decorations. They are not so successful as street ornaments. A woman can embellish a home with a smile that doesn't cost anything per candle power at all, and yet after she has gone down the street in $1,150 worth of imported clothes and has done her very best to improve the thoroughfare, it is no better for it and the clothes aren't either.

Wives are common in all parts of the world and too blamed common in some parts, such as Turkey and Utah. If women ever get suspicious and particular, wives will become much rarer than they are now. Most men acquire wives at an early age under the belief that two can live as cheaply as one. They find later that not only can two live as cheaply as one, but that they have to do it. As in the case of an automobile the first cost of a wife is a mere bagatelle. It is the upkeep which counts. The ordinary income goes into a wife once with nothing left over. But those who have tried to keep an automobile in mufflers, hoods, jackets, collars, shoes, belts and aprons declare that a wife is by far the most satisfactory investment. No automobile has yet been invented which will come and sit in your lap when you are tired and tell you that if you had your just deserts you would be elected president, vice-president and member of congress for life.

The first wife was EVE. She cost Adam a rib, but he got off easily at that, for he didn't have to match American beauties with some rival for her. The finest collections of wives in history were accumulated by Solomon and Henry the Eighth. Wives are famous as conversationalists and many a man who has spent his entire afternoon with his feet on his desk talking baseball has remarked that a woman never seems to get through talking at the supper table.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

The formation of good teeth has to begin in childhood if they are to remain good through life. The best of care should be given to the child's mouth. He must not be allowed to suck his thumb, as that throws the upper jaw above the lower jaw. If he has adonitis so he has to breathe through his mouth they must be removed or his mouth will become misshapen and his teeth will not grow against each other as they should. If they do not grind properly they will be more likely to break.

The child should be taught early to wash the teeth well after each meal. Teeth should be washed with an up and down motion rather than with a side motion. The side motion fails to remove the food particles which lodge between the teeth.

WOMEN WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED

May Find Help in This Letter.

Swan Creek, Mich.—"I cannot speak too highly of your medicine. When through neglect or overwork I get run down and my appetite is poor and I have that weak, languid, always tired feeling, I get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it builds me up, gives me strength, and restores me to perfect health again. It is truly a great blessing to women, and I cannot speak too highly of it. I take pleasure in recommending it to others."—Mrs. ANNIE CAMERON, R.F.D., No. 1, Swan Creek, Michigan.

Another Sufferer Relieved.

Hebron, Me.—"Before taking your remedies I was all run down, discouraged and had female weakness. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash, and find today that I am an entirely new woman, ready and willing to do my housework now, where before taking your medicine it was a dread. I try to impress upon the minds of all ailing women I meet the benefits they can derive from your medicines."—Mrs. CHARLES ROWE, R.F.D., No. 1, Hebron, Maine.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (Confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.
