THE THEATRES

MAUD ADAMS, WHO COMES TO THE GRAND MONDAY

Talented Actress is Delightful in Barrie's "Peter Pan."

Maud Adams comes to the Grand next Monday, and with her will be that fifth young of Barrie's delightful imagination, "Peter Pan," the boy who wouldn't grow up. Miss Adams is always welcome, but it seems as if she is going to be doubly so in the Scotch dramatist's fairy play, for the engagement gives promise of being the most successful one of the season in this city. The revival of the play on the new dress stages, the older generation will fall to answer the call to pay homage to the actress that has so often charmed them, for they will be in their places, enthusiastically clapping their hands at Peter's query if they believe in fairies and is not ashamed to own up to the belief. The return of Peter means the return of that bold pirate, Captain Hook, and his band of ragging desperadoes; of the friendly Indians, Wendy, John and Michael; of Curly and Nibs; of the pack of wolves, the lion, the ostrich and the crocodile; the boy who was foolish enough to swallow an alarm clock that ticked so loudly in his inside that you could hear his approach; sea; the twins and of little Liza. Then there are the old scenes to be unfolded in new dress, the nursery, the cave under the weeds, the deck of the pirate sloop and Peter's little house swaying in the rain or shine, under a brand new spread of canvas, the most finely ventilated and most thoroughly waterproofed tent in the world today. The afternoon performance will start at 2 o'clock, and the evening show at 8 o'clock, and a fine solo, "Gypsy Fantasy," by Sarasate, which was rendered with dazzling technique by Mr. J. N. Rorher.

ORPHEUM'S NEW BILL IS WELL BALANCED

Instrumental music rendered with ensemble which approaches the ideal, is one of the enjoyable features of a well-balanced bill which the Orpheum management have provided for their local patrons this week. Theodore Bendix and his symphony players are a distinct addition to the vaudeville ranks, and Mr. Bendix has shown commendable judgment in the choice of his selections, and has not found it necessary to descend to cheap musical claptrap in order to win popular favor. His concert band has composed "Hungarian Dance," an arrangement of Nevin's "Rosary," and an Irish potpourri, "Jockey," and a violin solo, "Gypsy Fantasy," by Sarasate, which was rendered with dazzling technique by Mr. J. N. Rorher.

Another musical act of an entirely different character but which is, nevertheless, thoroughly enjoyable, is the character singing of the famous American comedienne, Irene Franklin, and her husband-composer, at the piano. Miss Franklin has a wide range of songs and gives them in her own inimitable style, some of the facial expressions she introduces in her songs, "Expressions," produce no end of merriment. Mr. Green is an adept in the art of accompanying.

The sketch of the week is a rapid-fire farce-comedy, "The Girl in the Child's," in which some excellent acting is furnished by Hal Davis and Inez Macaulay, with the assistance of Sara Lewis, Mary Butts, through the description of her husband, was driven to the necessity of distributing coffee and sinkers in one of the famous restaurants, and desiring a change of environment she seeks a position in the household of Henry Bull, where unexpected complications keep the husband on tenterhooks. The sketch is well put on, and received a good hand from the audience last night.

The Carson brothers, two Swedish athletes, introduce some gymnastic feats and classic posing with light effects; there is nothing particularly new in the act, but it is well staged and the uniform size of the two men assists in making the turn effective. Fred Watson and Rena Santos present a song and dance act in which the redeeming feature is a humming chorus by Miss Santos which is cleverly done. McIntyre and Hartly give a similar act with considerable horse slang, but which seemed to make a hit with the crowd.

Moran and Wiser conclude the bill with a very novel exhibition of hat juggling; they have the hat manipulation transfer their operations into the auditorium, when there isn't enough room to complete the bill.

Berlin, June 5.—The budget committee of the reichstag decided today that foreigners residing and making a living in Germany were liable to taxation under the new military contribution bill. LETHBRIDGE ON EVE OF PROSPEROUS SEASON

Splendid Growing Weather Would Indicate Banner Crop Year

Lethbridge, June 5.—The reports of monthly figures for May reflect the stringency that there is an excellent omen in the sky in the increase of customs receipts, and with the excellent crop prospects and the best growing weather for many seasons there is a general belief that Lethbridge is on the eve of its most prosperous season in history. Building operations are under way on a large scale, and although there is a falling off in permits for the past month and for the five months of 1913 as compared with the same period in 1912, it is considered that some of the permits for the work now under way were taken out a year ago, and that prosperity is marked more by the actual circulation of cash through construction work than in the preliminary arrangements and intentions. The new post office is progressing rapidly, one storey of steel work being in place, and the bricklayers are keeping pace with the advance of the steel men. The foundations are being laid, and there is a doubt if more will be done for the present on account of the tightness of the money market. The Catholic cathedral foundations are being laid, and will be completed in a week or so, and it has been considered that some of the permits for the work now under way were taken out a year ago, and that prosperity is marked more by the actual circulation of cash through construction work than in the preliminary arrangements and intentions.
