A CONTEMPTIBLE ATTACK ON LIEUT.-COL. LEYS

Mr. Beck Assails the Char- cere Col. Leys was. What he read was as follows: acter of the Liberal Candidate.

A MADE-TO-ORDER ACCUSATION

A Despicable Roorbach Manufactured in Muskoka for Use in London Election.

A meeting was held last night at Collins' Hall, West London, that was supposed to be a Robson meeting. It had been called in the interests of the Conservative nominee in the east riding, and Capt. Robson and Mr. Hume Elliot, who were there, spoke as well as they could for Conservatism in that district. But Robson interests sank away out of sight when the mayor took the floor. He was all for Beck, with Robson as a

'It is a crying shame that such a solution was the situation was there
'It is a crying shame that such a solution was the solution was the situation was the solution wa fore the more remarkable when the mayor got up, and thrust Capt. Robson's interests aside to launch into panegyric of Adam Beck, and invective against Col. Leys.
His attack upon Col. Leys was ex-of Sarnia, are visiting Mrs. Murray, of tremely bitter, and was delivered with well-known efforts made by Col. Leys to restock the waters of this district with fish, to decrease the number of licenses for seine fishing, and to remove obstructions that prevent fish from passionate feeling. It related to the obstructions that prevent fish from coming up the river to the waters about London. In this work Col. Leys has been successful. His efforts have been appreciated, and it was in an attempt to offset the effect of this feeling that his political opponent forgot the pleadings he made on nomination day for a clean contest, devoid of personalities, a contest in which political opponents could remain friends, and swept tiser, a typographical error in ward 4, sub-division 3, made it read Wm. Sym instead of Wm. Lind. into an irruption of abuse that surpris-ed everyone who heard and remember-ed what he said on the day that he was nominated. He insinuated that the colonel's stand on the fisheries question, a stand which was taken because the member for London believed that the people of this city, and of the country near here, were unfairly treated—that this was a huge farce. He repeated the story that there has been no change in Cashmere dam except that caused by the spring freshet. He went so far as to say that he had it on good authority that the same train upon which Col Leys returned to London bore more licenses to the seine fishers in the west, the inference that he sought to convey being that this was with Col. Leys' "He isn't the sincere sport that he would have his friends believe," the mayor exclaimed, and in proof of the colonel's insincerity he rehashed a yarn published recently in the Muskoka Herald, a copy of which he said had just been placed in his hands.

"He pretends to protect game," he said, with a sneer, and he promised to read them something from the Muskoka paper that would show how sin-

Doctor Talks About Food.

It is often the case that doctors themselves get into bad habits of food and drink although they know better, but doctors are human, you know, like the rest of us, but when they get into trouble they generally know better how to get out of it, and the "food route" is a common one among them.

Dr. H. Barber, of Laurel, Ind., concluded that coffee and badly-selected food was the cause of his stomach trouble and his loss of weight from 184 pounds to 153 pounds, with nerves impaired and general nervous break-

"Like the liquor law of this province, this game law seems to be ena very partisan manner. Many poor settlers have been pounced upon by game wardens and fined for killing a deer for their own use; but when a wealthy supporter of the government comes to our district and wil-fully breaks the law he is permitted freshmen year the increase in mem-to go unpunished. A case in point was that of Col. Leys, the Liberal member for London. He illegally killed one or more deer. Mr. F. P. Warne, who was a game warden at that time, laid an information, and had evidence which placed conviction beyond a doubt. The influential supporter of Mr. Ross communicated at once with the government and Mr. Warne was promptly instructed to allow the case to drop and give Col. Leys his game, which was done. "No settler was ever known to be so generously dealt with by the Gov-ernment of Ontario, and so disgusted was Mr. Warne because of this interference and injustice that he resigned the position of game warden immedi-"On the other hand, Wm. (Signed) SAMUEL BRIDGLAND. With the exception of his usual remarks about sawlogs and scrapiron assessment, the remainder of the mayor's speech was a representation of his views upon the subject of wrongdoing in elections. He warned the electors that an attempt would be made to buy them up, body and bones, just as he had warned the men of East London the night before, and in this connection he repeated a statement that he had made at the time of the bye-election in that riding two years ago, that Col. Leys then said that he would return to Toronto with that riding in his pocket. Still playing his role of pursuer of unpersonal politics, the mayor made the pleasant suggestion that the colonel would probably not repeat the boast this time, as he would be engaged elsewhere and would not have time to prepare the pocket. He again spoke of Ald. Greenless. He acknowledged that he may have misquoted him the night before at the East End Hall, but made no apology for so doing. Instead, he exclaimed at "the extraordinary pressure" that must have been brought to bear upon Mr. Greenlees to get him to come out in this half-way, as he designated Mr. Greenlees' letter published in this paper yesterday, and say that he had not condemned the Liberal party, as the mayor had wrongfully said, but did censure, as the great majority of Reformers did, the evildoers at the municipal election.

The speeches of Capt. Robson and Mr. Elliot were composed of the usual campaign material and excited no very remarkable enthusiasm.

STUDENTS RECEIVE DEGREES

Bishop of Huron Delivers an Inspiring Address-Review of the Year's Work.

Yesterday afternoon the convocation of the Western University was held under the most favorable of circumstances. There was a good attendance of relatives and friends of those receiving degrees, and no doubt more of the general public interested in the welfare of the college would have been present but for the inclemency of the weather. The students of the college -freshmen, second and third-year men -attended, and as each of their college mates stepped on the platform to receive their degrees, voiced their approval by hearty rounds of applause. The convocation commenced at about 3 o'clock and was brought to a close shortly before 5. Several of the students during the proceedings and afterwards were presented with pretty bouquets by their admiring lady

THE YEAR'S WORK. THE YEAR'S WORK.

The impressive ceremonies were opened by Prof. N. C. James, provost of the university, who presented his report on the year's work at the college The report, though containing not only praise, but criticism, gave indications of a bright future for the college.

"The college is doing as well as we expected," was the provost's opening remark. The past year, he continued, had been far more encouraging than was expected and a distinct advance Although many on previous years. difficulties had been faced, the greatest had been overcome, and hopeful signs were evident in the internal growth of bership was noticeable. There was last year a 50 per cent increase in this class, and in other branches increase had been almost equally successful. He termed it successful, because from members attending the school the finances came, and the more men the more money. The attendance during the year had been adequate for the finances, and if next year turned out to be as gratifying the heads of the institution would indeed have reason to be thankful. The students, in point of excellence in study and work in the schoolroom, excelled those of many past years. There had always been a imited number of hard workers in the college, but Provost James could conscientiously say that last term's students excelled as far as devotion to erary and musical societies formed during the year had met with great had been established.
