Fred Ellis Had Close Call From Being Killed at St. Marys. [Special to The Advertiser.]

St. Marys, Nov. 17.—Fred Ellis, the 14-year-old son of John Ellis, who resides near the G. T. R. junction, had a narrow escape from being killed under peculiar circumstances on Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock, while doing some chores around the barn, he was struck in the face with a stray bullet, which pierced his left cheek. Investigation proved that two boys on an adjoining farm had been carelessly handling firearms. Dr. Brown, who was called to dress the wound, was unable to locate the bullet, but does not anticipate any serious results un-

It All Depends on the Liver

So important is the liver and so great is its influence on the other ital organs of the body that it may said you have little to fear from the ordinary ills of life so long as the liver is in a healthful working order. The digestive processes are so dependent on free action of the liver that any derangement of this organ soon brings trouble. Biliousness and constipation follow with headache and depressed spirits. Additional work is thrown on the kidneys, and soon the whole eliminating system is deranged and the blood arries poisons through the body Careful eating is a great help towards seeping the liver right, but when it loes get wrong there is nothing like Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to restore the liver to healthful action. Improper Stowage of Cargo and Non-Dockage of Ships for Years Two Causes.

THANKS THE ADVERTISER

Believes This Newspaper's View of Great Tragedy "Hits the Nail On the Head."

To the Editor of The Advertiser: Your very excellent article published in The Advertiser of the 12th inst. hits the hail on the head: the main reason with the Ingersoll situation citizens for the terrible loss of human life is the greed for gain

When the investigation into the frightful death toll has been completed, it will be found that improper stowage of cargo, too light or too deep draught, insufficient or incompetent crew—men who are not all sailors, and as a consequence unable to meet an emergency—peorly-equipped lifeboats, decayed lifebelts, rotten ships or else ships that had not been properly (note the 'properly'') docked for years, like the Curry of last season's record, will very largely figure in the list of causes. in the list of causes.

It is a common thing for these vessels to be virtually "top heavy" when they to be virtually "top heavy" when they proceed to sea; consequent to stowage of cargo for convenience rather than safety; and until an entirely different mode of handling cargo is adopted, matters will not improve.

A rather busy time prevents my dealing with the subject more fully just now, but with your kind permission I shall return to the question at length very shortly.

In the meantime, the gratitude of the sea in ships" those who "go down to the sea in ships" are due you for your fearless editorials on the subject. Yours faithfully.
