Established 1878. THE WEEKLY MONITOR.

CARDWELL, a constituency of western the native costumes. Ontario, is soon to be the scene of a contest, which might be characterized as the first which might be characterized as the first gun to be fired in the approaching dominion election. The constituency is to be opened by the appointment of Mr. R. S. White, the present member, to the position of Collector of Customs of the port of Montreal, one of the best offices, by the way, in the gift of the dominion government. An election in that constituency, while a matter of but trifling importance in itself under ordinary circumstances, becomes just now one of deep interest to both parties, owing to the peculiar conditions surrounding it. It is one of the ridings of western Ontario where the followers of McCarthy are most gun to be fired in the approaching dominion to make the most stubborn fight. The y, too, have a strong hold ance of the general election, nev. An election now, rnment and their friends on as from their point of t may indicate as most prudent This is doubtless the reason ell has been opened now. The ignore their whilom supporter as they have been trying to do ever since he began his recalcitrating exercises. On the other hand should the result be adverse, the government may make some effort to conciliate McCarthy and his following before the general election.

A good many people are predicting that the next dominion election may result as the recent Ontario local contest evidently diedin leaving the two parties fairly evenly divided, with the patrons and independents holding the balance of power. It will be much ing the balance of power. It will be much easier to judge of the value of such a prediction after the strength of the independent factions is discovered, as it doubtless will be in the approaching contest in Cardwell. At any rate that fight is going to be an interesting one to watch during the next few weeks.

-Hon. Mr. Laurier, the able and popuing a tour through western Canada. He will deliver addresses upon the political issues of the day in many of the chief towns in western Ontario, Manitoba, the North West and British Columbia. This is a portion of the dominion which has of late been giving the liberal leader but scant support. Mr. Mar. lar leader of the liberal party, is about makliberal leader but scant support. Mr. Martin, one of the representatives of the city of Winnipeg, being his only follower in the House of Commons from a constituency west of Ontario. In a good many of these western of Ontario. In a good many of these western constituencies the influence of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, with its thousands of employees, has been all powerful. The votes of these employees together with those of the north-west mounted police have always turned the scale in favor of the government candidates. But just before the late Winnipeg by-election the announcement was made that the C. P. R. Company was out of politics for good. Should this prove correct, and should the changes in the tariff made at the late session of parliament prove as far short of satisfying the people of the north-west as the liberal papers claim, then Mr. Laurier may reasonably hope for much better treatment, politically, from the western sections of the dominion than he has been receiving.

This latter company will claim the dominion subsidy voted at the receive at session of the house, and if it can fulfil the conditions required, will doubtless receive it. So there seems a fair probability of Shelburne having two roads. And when Mr. Hervey gets his line built from Shelburne to New Germany, the railway wants burne to New Germany, the railway wants of the people of Shelburne ought to be pretty well supplied.
