

DEW DROPS

VOL. IV.

TORONTO, JUNE 30, 1900.

No. 26.

OFF TO THE PICNIC.

How happy these little children look! And Fido, too, seems full of glee. They were at their Sunday-school picnic last week, and had such a good time that they are pretending that they are on the way to it again. They went by rail twenty-five miles away, and now that the happy memory of the day is still with them they are making believe that an old log is the train and that they are actually going to the picnic again.