Dublin, Feb. 17.-An unmistakable reaction in all parts of England is setting in against Gladstone. The working elements bave lost faith in him. This is true of the mechanics in the manufacturing towns and the farm laborers in the agricultural districts. All are disappointed in his administration. They say he is no better than a Tory. Beaconsfield, who is watching the progress of events with sleepless eyes, is highly pleased at the turn of affairs. Gladstone's acts give the lie to all the fine promises he made before election and justify Beaconsfield's policy. Indeed, it is better for Beaconsfield's final triumph that his Whig antagonist, who had declaimed so grandiloquently against coercion by the Tories, should have the responsibilities of the present thrust upon him. Time works for him. The Wnigs will come out of this conflict ruined as a party. Tories and Democrats will grind them to powder.

The secret service fund is being actively disbursed. Detectives are everywhere. Spies are sent to America. Letters are opened. Instructions have been given to emissaries to find out the numerical strength, aims, resources, and plans of every Irish society at home and abroad. The movements of every officer in these societies will be closely watched. Irishmen should be watchful and sober. Rumors are maliciously circulated to excite distrust in the minds of the people against the officers of the Land League.

They are taunted with cowardice. If they go to Paris to put the funds in a safe place they are called runaways. Physical force men-"men who have the courage of their convictions and fight for their principles on the field of battle"-are now the sort of men the English press have learned to admire. Detectives go to meetings in the guise of newspaper reporters. Indeed there is reason to believe that many press reporters are de-tectives drawing double pay. Once more let Irishmen be watchful. Every move of the Government indicates a disposition to provoke Ireland into desperation and rebellion and then butcher the people by the thousand.

The Arms Bill, which the Government is now pushing through the Commons, has for its object the disarmament and reduction of and vigor, and the secretions undergo a the Irish people to the level of prisoners of healthy change when it is used. Purchasers war. By it the police will be empowered to should see that the bottles (sold at 50 cents enter any house at any time of night or day, and $1) have the firm's name blown in them, and search the premises for arms. They may and that the wrapers bear a fac simile of our likewise search the person, male or female, of signature. Sold by all druggists. Prepared every one in and about the house.

Obstruction still confronts coercion. The bill for the "Protection of Person and Property in Ireland" in the Committee of the House, makes very slow progress. All other business is at a stand-still. Gladstone has been shouting urgency for weeks. His failure to press his bill excites the contempt of the London papers. The Times sneeringly remarks: "The despatch of measures in urgency is not to be easily distinguished from the leisurely movement of ordinary bills in committee." Some Englishmen are beginning to see that Ireland is a thorn in the side of the British Empire. There are robberies and butcheries to be attended to in Africa and elsewhere, but they scarcely receive attention For two months Ireland has been the subject of debate.

DUBLIN, Feb. 19 .- The Orange Emergency Committee met to-day. After disposing of routine business they drew up a telegram, which was despatched to the Grand Master of Canada, requesting the aid of the Orangemen and other Protestants of the Dominion to enable the committee to further oppose the Land League, and assist the persecuted Pro-

A telegram received by the Land League anounces that Mr. Parnell will arrive on Saturday, and intends to speak at the Clara land meeting, in Kings County, on Sunday afternoon. It is anticipated that Miss Parnell will speak at a public meeting at Rathdowney, County Meath.

LONDON, Feb. 19 .- Parnell started to-night for Ireland. The Norwegian ship "Juno," which laid two months in Limerick, undergoing repairs, sailed for the United States with a quantity of American rifles, which formed the original cargo of the vessel. British marines will accompany the ship out of the river, in order to frustrate any attempt to transfer the cargo.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 20 .- There were three Land League meetings in the Eastern districts this afternoon. There was much enthusiasm. McKay, recently from Ireland, declared that Parnell and Dillon had nothing to do with the revolutionists of the Continent, as the cablegrams said. The result of the agitators would be the independence of Ireland. They would wait till they could strike a sure blow, then they would do it.

A Catholic priest presided at the Clara meeting, and the Stars and Stripes waved over him. The News understands that the Cabinet considered the Land Bill for the first time on

It was not supposed the authorities were more concerned about the North of England than Ireland. Fenian movements here are more formidable than in Ireland, and the Socialistic agitation there causes much uneasiness. Men are leaving Ireland and find congenial companionship and welcome among the colliers and operatives in Lancashire and the iron workers on the Tyne side. Fenian Head-Centre Stephens is reported as saying that the Irish question will yet have to be settled "by a stand-up fight," and once Ireland has gained her independence she will be happy to ally herself with England.

Paris, Feb. 19 - The Justice, M. Clemenceau's organ, and the Intransigeant, Roche fort's paper, this morning contain long and eulogistic articles on Parnell and the Land Leaguers. The Justice considers the manifesto a masterpiece, and exults at the annoyance Parnell's visit to Paris is causing the French Government. The Intransigeant makes the Land Leaguers a key on which to have a violent attack on Gambetta and Andrieux. This is just the sort of thing Mr. Parnell ought to have expected from the French Socialists. They are not dangerous as enemies, but they are very dangerous as friends.

LONDON. Feb. 19 .- A really strong feeling of discontent with the Government is rapidly being developed in the ranks of its supporters, and this is more palpable in the House than people are likely to think who base their estimates of the situation on anything which appears in newspapers. Among his followers in the Commons it is freely said that Mr. Gladstone is resuming the arbitrary course which an influx of general traders is looked for in broke up his last administration, and venturing boldly upon proceedings which would rates will no doubt be reduced. Travellers ruin Conservatives in a week. Among the are still doing remarkably well and payments actions concerning which complaint is made are fair. is, as may be naturally imagined, the opening of private letters in the post office. Liberals of all sections rightly think it a be revived in the present day and under a this, and it will in all probability produce an excitement fatal to his political prospects Both he and Chief Secretary Radical resentment. The new gag law proposed by Mr. Speaker Brand on Thursday has also affronted a large division of the Ministerial party. It was intended to put it in force on Friday night, but this morning a two o'clock the Speaker announced some modifications, the rising storm of opposition being much too grave to be disregarded. The rules as introduced, apply to discussions in committee on bills in precisely the same way as the previous question in the United States Congress, shutting off all debate at a given hour. The Conservative party combined with the Radicals in objecting to the adoption of such a system, and the general feeling of the House was shown by the tollowing incident in Friday night's debate Mr. Gladstone, in the course of his speech, happened to ask, "What are the arrangements of the Constitution," when some one promptly answered, "Anything you This remark and cheers and laughter it occasioned greatly irritated the Premier. Radicals of the stamp of Mr. Cowen, M. P. for Newcastle, felt strongly, and declare boldly that the first Liberal Ministry since 1874 should not have allowed itself to become identified with one of the harshest coercion acts of modern times, a gag law in Parliament and the secret opening of private letters. Mr. Gladstone not unnaturally chafes under these criticisms and his regular and most faithful supporters, and altogether the relations of the Ministry with its party are far less cordial than they were at the beginning of the sesion.

WEEKLY REVIEW - WHOLESALE MARKETS.

There has been a good general movement of staple wares for the week just ended, and with a continuance of fine weather our business will gradually continue to develop until, with the opening of navigation, the spring trade bursts into activity and the real work of the year begins. Remittances continue to be met promptly on time in the majority of cases, and wholesele merchants before long will probably be again proposing shorter terms of credit, particularly as the system has been most succe seful and in every respect satisfactory in the United States. The 4th of March, another important day of reckoning among business nien, is drawing on apace, and although there is naturally some anxiety as to the turn things cosy take, the indications are that the result will be encouraging rather than otherwise.

Boots and Shoks .- Manufacturers contiue to be employed turning out large quantitles of goods, travellers having succesded very well on their annual Spring trip Co. signments are already being forwarded East and West, and remittances falling due meet with prompt attention, quote:-Men's thick boots, wax, $2 25 to 2.75; do split, $1 60 to 2 25; do kip boots, $2 75 to 3 25; do calf boots, pegged, $3 to quotations. DRY Goods. -The enquiry for Spring goods continues very fair and business in Canadian Tweeds, now about over, shows an astonishing increase over the operations of last Spring. Efforts are being made to induce the railway companies to enforce a reduction of rates for the benefit of Western buyers on or about March 1st, and no doubt they will be successful. Very few customers have been in the city attending personally to their wants but March when not only passenger but freight Agricultural.

Cow Peas.-Cow peas are not desirable to plant in the Northern States; they do not make much growth on poor land, and on good land clover is a better crop. The seed can be procured at any of the seed stores in DISEASED EYES IN A HORSE. -For inflammation of the eyelids of a horse use the remedies recommended for pink eye, mentioned elsewhere. It would be well to shade the eyes while under treatment, as the light is very irritating.

INDICATIONS OF SWARMING .- The bee-keeper will very soon learn to know when the bees are attending to business in the usual manner, and will notice at once when anything wrong or unusual is going on in the hive. When such a disturbance occurs about the season of swarming, the indications cannot be missed. By using the frame hives the combs may be examined every day, and all that need be known can then be learned with ease.

Queen Cells - Queen cells in bee-hives are easily distinguished from the other cells. The ordinary cell is six-sided, and is built in the comb in a regular manner. A queen cell projects from the comb, and is shaped somewh t like a jug with the neck broken off. It is much larger than the common cell, and is formed by building up the wax around a common cell, so that it projects from the comb, and always with its mouth downward.

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS .- Inflammation of the kidneys is usually accompanied by the presence of blood or reddish matter in the urine. It may easily be caused by smutty fodder or corn, or sometimes by a strain of the loins or cold. It is generally treated by a dose of 12 ounces to 1 pound of salts, which are diuretic and cooling as well as laxative, followed by half-ounce doses of saltpetre: warm bran mashes are useful, as is also slipperv elm bark tea.

PLASTER ON CLOVER .- Plaster alone without lime is sufficient upon clover. No other special fertilizer is so useful for this crop as plaster. Wood ashes also will be very useful and may be used with the plaster. A barrel of plaster per acre with as much ashes as can be procured may be applied as soon as the clover has started to grow. The ashes cont in a large proportion of lime and some potash and phosphoric acid, and with the plaster will make a nearly complete fertilizer for DYSENTERY IN A Cow .- Dysentery cannot be cured by astringent medicines; those only increase the trouble. The disease is caused by disorder of the blood and the intestines, chiefly the liver, and the remedy must be such as to affect the source of the disease. A laxative is required. Give a pint of linseed-oil and 12 hours afterwards one ounce of hyposulphite of soda. Repeat the latter every day for ten days, adding to it one dram of powdered gentian root of Peruvian bark. SCALY LEG IN FOWLS .- The thick scales which appear on the legs and feet of fowls, more particularly those of the large Asiatic breeds, are caused by a parasitic scab mite which burrows in the skin. It is similar to the sheep scab mite, and acts in a precisely similar manner. It can be destroyed by putting the feet and legs of the fowl in a can or jar of kerosene-oil and keeping them in the oil for a minute, until it penetrates under the scales and kills the insect.

CULTURE OF OATS .- Oats should be sown early on Fall-plowed land if possible. The earlier they are sown the more they tiller and the less seed is required. Two and a half bushels per acre are a liberal seeding for early sown oats. Later sowings should be When the ground is not fully occupied a full crop cannot be grown. A moist soil is preferable for this crop, which pays well to be sown on good ground and to be well manured.

WHITE OR YELLOW CORN .- Seed should be selected with judgment when a change is made and if the seed turns out well it should be kept and resown for some years. One can improve seed very much in this way. White corn is said to yield more than yellow this is a common opinion among farmers, but we know of no reason why it should. It may be that the seed of fore become more prolific than the yellow corn of the North.

WHAT ARE MALT SPROUTS .- When barley is to be made into malt it is soaked in water for two or three days until it has absorbed half its weight. It is then spread on a malting floor in a heap a foot thick, at a temperature of 60°. The barley begins to heat and sprout, and the plumule, or first shoot, and the roots begin to grow. To prevent overheating the grain is turned with shovels and spread more thinly. When the roots and sprouts have grown to a certain length, which indicates that the starch of the grain has been changed to sugar, the growth is stopped by kiln-drying the grain. It is then slitted, and the roots and sprouts become broken off and fall through the screens with the dust. It is these screenings from the malt which are the malt sprouts so often spoken of as a nowever, unusually meagre, and outside prices ruled. Apples sold at $2 to $3 per barrel, according to quality and all descriptions of fruits and vegetables maintained former values. We revise quotations of dairy produce.

Chus. Stark, Esq.:

DEAR SIR,—The Climax Gun that I bought of you a snot time ago proved satisfactory in every respect, and I have no hesitation in recommending those Guns to any one. I have killed ducks at eighty yards by actual measurement, and I consider it takes a superior Gun to do that.

Your truly,

Yours truly, M. STEWART. TORONTO, Nov. 25, 1830.

TORONTO, NOV. 23, 1830.

Mr. Chus. Stark:

DEAR Sig.—I have cut open to barrel of the "Climax" Gun, and find the material to be precisely the same as the Suder-Enfelds as used by our Canadian Volunteers, which for quality and safety is equal to genuine twist. I have also tried the Guowith 3 drachms of powder and 15 ources vo. 6 shot, with the following results:—Forty pellets in a target 8 x 7 is ches at fine yards, which is considered good shooting for $0 Guns.
