THAT ORANGE ADDRESS .- Mr. Cameron, Orange Grand Master, arrived at Toronto from England on Wednerday, the 20th ult. A large mob of rowdies-composed of the class who insulted and attempted violence towards H.R.H. the Prince of Wales-were in waiting to greet the chief of their gang, and to present him with a congratulatory address. Mr. Cameron returned thanks, and in so doing again distinguished himself in the Baron Munchausen line. He said:--

"It is very satisfactory to me that I have been enabled to perform the mission entrusted to me by the Grand Lodge, and that Her Majesty has not only recognised our Order in British North America by receiving our address, but it was received publicly from my hands as your Grand Master."

He also in another passage asserted that the Queen had officially recognised the infamous Secret Society, of which he is the representative: "Our Order has been Officially recognised by Her Majesty, and the repulse that was intended for our mortification in this country, and to be a great blow to our institution, has resulted in our triumph."

Fortunately, the means for ascertaining the truth or falsehood of the Grand Master's assertions are of the very simplest kind. If the Queen has officially recognised the Orange Order in British North America, there is but one means by which Her Majesty can have done so; and that is by having given an Official Reply to the Address presented to her by the Grand Master in the name of the Society .-Where then is that Official Reply? If it has been given, Mr. Cameron must have it in his possession, and will of course publish it. If lish, it is because he has no such document in his possession; which again implies the fact that the Queen has not even deigned to return any Offcial Reply to the Canadian Orangemen's Address: or in other words-that Her Majesty has treated that Address, and the Orange Society from which it emanated, with marked contempt. Every thing resolves itself into this-Did the Queen reply to the Orangemen's Ad-Reply, and in what terms is it conceived ?

upon, in vindication of his personal honor, to and of their strict obedience to all the precepts answer. If the Queen did not officially reply to of their Church, no argument against Catholicity the Orange Address by him presented to Her | can be founded thereupon. Though we say this i existence of the Orange Order in British North America-and Mr. Cameron stands before the probable, that the accusation under which he world a convicted her. If Her Majesty has lubors is but an ordinary "Protestant Lie," of have replied to its Address, and that Official the same time we know that there will always Reply it is the duty of Grand Master Cameron | be impure priests, or, in the words of the conto publish. The whole affair lies in a nut-shell.

The truth is, that the Queen did not reply to the Address-and that Her Majesty has consequently treated it and the Society from whence it emanated, with marked and sovereign con- vertiser brings serious charges against the macan even be conceived, noder a Government like against M. By one of! Such charges should not be lightly made, heir apparent to the throne, the Orangemen had cusers' name. An anonymous accusation always been snubbed in Canada. The latter deputed of him who makes it, for only liars and cowards their Grand Master across the Atlantic, to lay are afraid to become responsible for their statea statement of their greenance at the foot of the ments. The fact then, that the writer in the throne; and the Sovereign, before whom that Commercial Advertiser does not give his name statement was laid, vouchsafes no more reply to the public affords strong presumptions—we do not say assurances—that his charges are the theceunto, than she would to the yelping of a offspring of falsehood and malevolence. troublesome cur, whose offensive importunities. If however, "Justice," as he signs himself, has room. These are facts which, if the Orangemen dare to gainsay, we substantiate by calling upon them to publish the Queen's Official Reply to their Address.

Mr. Cameron was presented at Court; not, however, in his capacity of Grand Master, not with Orange insignia, and the Regalia-but as a simple British subject, clad in the costume which gentlemen invariably wear when admitted to the Royal presence. The Address was presented, for, as the proverb says, "a dog may look at a King;" but - we say it advisedly - Her Majesty deigned not to return any reply or answer thereunto. Again then have the Orangemen been signally and deservedly saubhed; and again has Mr. Cameron been proved to be a man utterly regardless of truth.

PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT .- The proceedings of the past week have been quite devoid of interest. On Monday, the Legislative Assembly met, after the Easter recess, and some routine business was transacted. All kinds of rumors are affoat, as to the precarious position of the Ministry, and as to certain new political combinations said to be in contemplation. The standard of political morality is so low in Canada-so far below zero indeed-that we should not be surprised if these rumors were based upon fact, and if an alliance betwixt Mr. George Brown and the rump of the present Ministry were to be actually contracted. Into these matters we, however, enter not, for to us the squabbles of the Ins and the Outs are a matter of perfect indifference .-From neither have we any reason to expect justice, unless we can extort it by force; and it would be as impolitic, as it would be injurious to the honor of the Church, to represent her as in any manner mixed up with either of the parties already well grawed bones of Ministerial patronage.

"A BRAND."-The Montreal Herald, the Quebec Gazette, and others of our Protestant cotemporaries, copy from the Continental Protestant, or anti-Catholic press, a long account of the exploits of a certain Abbe Mallet, accused of the seduction of two young girls. Of the truth or falsity of the statement we know nothing; but from the fact that one of the authorities cited by our Canadian cotemporaries is the Opinion Nationale, a rabid and unscrupulous anti-Catholic journal, we are inclined to suspect that the details have been much exaggerated, if they are not altogether false.

If true, we must however congratulate Protestantism upon another illustrious and worthy accession to its ranks in the person of this same Abbe Mallet; who, if the reports as given by our cotemporaries are true in whole or in part, is just such another as Achilli, and Chiniquy, and Leahey, and Gavazzi, and others of those "brands snatched from the burning" whom the evangelical world so gladly welcomes to its ranks, and whom the saints of the conventicle so tenderly clasp to their bosoms. If the Albe Mallet be the impure scoundrel be is represented to be, we may expect shortly to hear of him as a great evangelical denouncer of Popery, as a distinguished orator at Exeter Hall, and perhaps as the delight and the ornament of the evangelical Protestant pulpit; as the rival of Gavazzi and Achilli in the affections of the Protestant public, and as a fellow-laborer with Chiniquy in the great work of bringing Papists to a know-Mr. Cameron has no such Official Reply to pub- ledge of the truth," &c. Impure priests, bad monks, and unchaste nuns, are the very stuff out of which converts from Popery to Evangelicalism are invariably made.

Nor need Catholics be scandalised at the occasional defections of priests and religious. Bad and immoral Catholics there ever have been and will still be in the Church; for otherwise there could have been no Luthers, no Cranmers, there would be no Leaheys, no Achillis and no Chinidress?-and if Her Majesty did-where is that | quys; but unless the immorality of the men can be shown to have been the logical consequence These are questions Mr. Cameron is called of their faithful adherence to Catholic principles. the Abbe Mallet; for it is possible, may highly venticle, "brands snatched from the burning."

ST. PATRICK'S DAY IN ST. SOPHIE DE LACORNE. To the Editor of True Witness.

Mu. Entron-Knowing the interest you always take in the manner that the Anniversary of Erin's Patron's Saint is celebrated throughout the world, will let you know how we spent the day in this Parish. As the 17th fell on Sunday, we deferred the celebration until the Wednesday following; and a finer day we could not wish for. The sun, in all his refulgence, rose bright and clear, and the air possessed an invigorating freahness, rurely felt at this senson of the year. From an early hour in the morning our little church was densely crowded, both by th children of St. Patrick and our breitness of French origin, who joined us heart and hand in paying due respect to the Day we delight to honor. To our worthy Pastor, the Rev. A. Payette, too much praise cannot be given for the truly Christian zeal he showed on the occasion. He had the church beautifully decorated; and the pain bent was tastefully ornamented with the emblems of the Day. Solemn High-Mass was channied by the Rev C. Champeaux, Cure of St. Anne des Plaines; and at its conclusion the Rev. A. Payette delivered a soul-stirring sermon. He dwelt long on the many eminent virtues of St. Patrick, and the firm attachment of his children throughout world to the faith of their fathers. After Vespers, he gave the Benediction of the Most Holy Sacrament; after which the people all dispersed, highly pleased and edified with the ceremonies of the

This answer, if truly reported, is highly creditable to Mr. Alleyn. It is a pity, however, that the rule therein implied, is not generally carried out in Canadian appointments. Hitherto the profession of Orangeism has been treated rather as a qualification, than as a disqualification for Upper Canadian Swindling.-The Correspondent of the Montreal Heraid attributes the agitation for a Bankrupt Law to the desire of the U. Canadisms to obtain an increase of legal facilities to defend their creditors : -

DISCOVERY OF THE SUPPOSED BODY OF MR. J. S. ROBAR. - The intelligence reached town yesterday that on Saturday evening some persons out shooting found a body in challow water in a march, East End Poronto. It was supposed to have come down the River Don with the late freshet and been driven into the marsh by a westerly wind. Several persons identified it by the ciothes as that of Mr. Hogan M. P. P. for Gray, whose disappearance has excited so much surprise. No marks of violence were found upon the remains but from the waist upwards only the skeleton remained. The St. Catharines Constitutional relates that one Edward McCaul died on Thursday last from excessive intemperance, want of proper food, and exposure to the cold. The spectacle presented at Farga's house, where the man died, was most horrible. And so it is Yet, but one man has gone; he representing in his own good person the twelve offices enumerated. There is no secret in the matter now. Mr. William Davidson is off. Mr. Dewe, Post Office Inspector, has charge of the Post Office; the Express Inspector of the Express office; Mr. J. A. Patterson has been appointed to the Division Court; the absconder's effects have been distrained for ren; and the 'highest executive officer in the county' is seeking the departed. We are sorry to say-sorry for the sake of those connected with Mr. Davidson's family -thet facts are coming to light which show fraud in the Post Office. To-day, two merchants in Berlin took their affidavits in presence of Mr. Dewe, that a money-order for $500 said to be issued by them in favor of a party in Toronto, was never ordered, and it is said that a telegraph went to Toronto last night to arrest the payee and another as accomplices in the fraud. This, it is asserted, is but a small part of the guilt likely to come to light. Meantime, everybody is wondering how William Davidson-of all men-could do such a thing, and in this wonder we join."
