

"NATIONALISM" IN COBK.—"Nationalism" appears to be rapidly extending itself in this locality...

THE GALWAY CONTRACT.—A serious hitch has occurred at the last moment to delay still longer the restoration of the Galway contract.

DISEASE IN SISTER.—The disease among sheep in many parts of the North of Ireland has assumed a virulent type, and numbers of them die in the fields.

A SHANDER REVERED.—We (Dublin Telegraph) are authorized to correct directly and unequivocally the following statement made by the Daily Express.

CONVICTION OF THE COUNTY LIMERICK.—A correspondent informs us that there have been recently heavy falls of rain and piercing cold in the county of Limerick.

Mr. John Ennis, M.P., the chairman of the Midland Great Western Railway, made some very suggestive remarks on the state of the country at the half-yearly meeting of the company, which was held yesterday.

Several young men have been leaving Ireland for the last few months, ostensibly to emigrate to America, but actually for service in the Federal Army...

Upwards of 600 persons from Sligo and the neighboring counties, proceeded from this port early on Saturday morning, in the Shamrock steamboat, Capt. Stewart, master, for Liverpool, en route for America.

The exodus has already commenced, and never were so large a number anxious to leave the country, had they the means to defray the expenses of the voyage.

Another Marriage Bill.—Mr. Butt's Bill for the Registration of Roman Catholic Marriages in Ireland was distributed on Monday with other Parliamentary papers.

The following is an address from the Dublin corporation to the Queen, and to the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of Dublin.

Most Gracious Sovereign, We, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the city of Dublin, most humbly approach your Majesty to express our most sincere congratulations to your Majesty upon the happy and interesting event of the marriage of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales with her Royal Highness the Princess Alexandra.

We venture to assure your Majesty that the citizens of our loyal and ancient city entirely share in the general joy of the nation, and in the universal hope that the Royal marriage, so suitably celebrated, may be productive of much comfort and unmixed satisfaction to your Majesty, and of lasting advantage to the vast empire over which your Majesty reigns.

We pray that, under divine Providence, your Majesty may have a long and prosperous reign over a contented and united people, and that the illustrious union may be as happy and blessed as your devoted people wish.

THE PRISON MIXTERS ACT.—Among the bills at present before Parliament, we know of none which has stronger claims upon the support of every real friend and advocate of the broad principles of civil and religious liberty than the bill entitled 'Prison Mixers Act of 1863,' introduced by Sir George Grey, as one of the measures of reform promised by her Majesty's Government.

THE GREAT BRITAIN.

THE FOLLOWING IS A COPY OF THE PETITION SIGNED AT THE DIFFERENT CHURCHES AND CHAPELS OF THE METROPOLIS, BY DESIRE OF HIS EXCELLENCE THE ARCHBISHOP OF WESTMINSTER.

TO THE HONORABLE THE KNIGHTS, CITIZENS, AND BURGESSES OF THE UNITED KINGDOM, IN PARLIAMENT ASSEMBLED.

Members of the Roman Catholic Church of the Assumption, Warwick-street, London, sheweth:

That by the present laws all Roman Catholic prisoners in Borough and County Gaols, excepting those under sentence of death, are subject to the care of the Protestant Chaplain of the Gaol; and that such Roman Catholic prisoners cannot be visited by a Priest of their own Church, except on their special request.

Therefore your Petitioners do humbly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased to exempt by law all Roman Catholic prisoners from the care of a Minister of another religion, and to provide by law that all Roman Catholic prisoners shall be visited by a Priest of their own Church for religious instruction and consolation.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

In the discussion in the House of Commons relative to the Alabama, Mr. Laird declared that he had received proposals from an agent of the Federal Navy Department to build iron-clad and rams, completely armed and equipped, and he offered to place the correspondence in the hands of Lord Palmerston.

He asked which was the greater breach of neutrality, to sell ships without guns, or to send to New York cargoes of rifled cannon.

He stated that since the commencement of the war there had been shipped from Liverpool to the Northern ports more than 65,000 muskets, 370,000 rifles, 62,000 percussion caps, and many cargoes of 'hardware.'

These were from Custom-house manifests which had passed through the hands of the American Consul in Liverpool.

Sir G. Grey's statement in reference to the extraordinary mission of two English police officers to Warsaw, at the request of the Russian Government, is not considered satisfactory.

The Right Hon. Baronet, who denied that a siege had been declared in Poland prior to the mission of the police officers, and that they had made a report on their return, now admits the state of siege had been proclaimed long before the officers went to Warsaw, and that they had made a report.

This subject has created a great deal of excitement out of doors, as it is felt that, however well-intentioned Her Majesty's Ministers might have been in their desire to see a metropolitan police system established in Poland instead of martial law, still that they exhibited a grave want of discretion in complying with an application which they must have known was never intended to be acted upon, but which must, necessarily, leave the British Government open to much misapprehension on the Continent.

The matter of the detective force arrangements requires a sharp eye on the part of the British public, especially now we learn that our spy system beats even the Russian. More need not be said.—Court Journal.

Speaking of this matter, the London Morning Advertiser says:—'Mr. Hennessy, (who brought the subject of English detectives before Parliament) must persevere in the praiseworthy task he has undertaken. He must probe the matter to the bottom. The veil must be removed, in order that we may clearly see the real state of affairs. It is, to say the least, a very suspicious fact, that Sir George Grey's reply to Baron Brunnow's application for English detectives, is not given. Why has it not been withheld? There must be a reason for its non-production. Until the public know what passed between the Russian Ambassador and the English Home Secretary, they will not be satisfied. But be the ultimate result what it may, we only give expression to the universal feeling among all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, when we say that Mr. Hennessy has rendered an important service to the cause of Constitutional Government, by the able and energetic manner in which he has acquitted himself in this matter; while to the cause of Polish rights and independence, he has done a service which will never be forgotten by the noble people who he is laboring to rescue from the fangs of the Muscovite oppressors.'

THE GREAT BRITAIN.

THE FOLLOWING IS A COPY OF THE PETITION SIGNED AT THE DIFFERENT CHURCHES AND CHAPELS OF THE METROPOLIS, BY DESIRE OF HIS EXCELLENCE THE ARCHBISHOP OF WESTMINSTER.

TO THE HONORABLE THE KNIGHTS, CITIZENS, AND BURGESSES OF THE UNITED KINGDOM, IN PARLIAMENT ASSEMBLED.

Members of the Roman Catholic Church of the Assumption, Warwick-street, London, sheweth:

That by the present laws all Roman Catholic prisoners in Borough and County Gaols, excepting those under sentence of death, are subject to the care of the Protestant Chaplain of the Gaol; and that such Roman Catholic prisoners cannot be visited by a Priest of their own Church, except on their special request.

Therefore your Petitioners do humbly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased to exempt by law all Roman Catholic prisoners from the care of a Minister of another religion, and to provide by law that all Roman Catholic prisoners shall be visited by a Priest of their own Church for religious instruction and consolation.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

In the discussion in the House of Commons relative to the Alabama, Mr. Laird declared that he had received proposals from an agent of the Federal Navy Department to build iron-clad and rams, completely armed and equipped, and he offered to place the correspondence in the hands of Lord Palmerston.

He asked which was the greater breach of neutrality, to sell ships without guns, or to send to New York cargoes of rifled cannon.

He stated that since the commencement of the war there had been shipped from Liverpool to the Northern ports more than 65,000 muskets, 370,000 rifles, 62,000 percussion caps, and many cargoes of 'hardware.'

These were from Custom-house manifests which had passed through the hands of the American Consul in Liverpool.

Sir G. Grey's statement in reference to the extraordinary mission of two English police officers to Warsaw, at the request of the Russian Government, is not considered satisfactory.

The Right Hon. Baronet, who denied that a siege had been declared in Poland prior to the mission of the police officers, and that they had made a report on their return, now admits the state of siege had been proclaimed long before the officers went to Warsaw, and that they had made a report.

This subject has created a great deal of excitement out of doors, as it is felt that, however well-intentioned Her Majesty's Ministers might have been in their desire to see a metropolitan police system established in Poland instead of martial law, still that they exhibited a grave want of discretion in complying with an application which they must have known was never intended to be acted upon, but which must, necessarily, leave the British Government open to much misapprehension on the Continent.

The matter of the detective force arrangements requires a sharp eye on the part of the British public, especially now we learn that our spy system beats even the Russian. More need not be said.—Court Journal.

Speaking of this matter, the London Morning Advertiser says:—'Mr. Hennessy, (who brought the subject of English detectives before Parliament) must persevere in the praiseworthy task he has undertaken. He must probe the matter to the bottom. The veil must be removed, in order that we may clearly see the real state of affairs. It is, to say the least, a very suspicious fact, that Sir George Grey's reply to Baron Brunnow's application for English detectives, is not given. Why has it not been withheld? There must be a reason for its non-production. Until the public know what passed between the Russian Ambassador and the English Home Secretary, they will not be satisfied. But be the ultimate result what it may, we only give expression to the universal feeling among all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, when we say that Mr. Hennessy has rendered an important service to the cause of Constitutional Government, by the able and energetic manner in which he has acquitted himself in this matter; while to the cause of Polish rights and independence, he has done a service which will never be forgotten by the noble people who he is laboring to rescue from the fangs of the Muscovite oppressors.'

THE GREAT BRITAIN.

THE FOLLOWING IS A COPY OF THE PETITION SIGNED AT THE DIFFERENT CHURCHES AND CHAPELS OF THE METROPOLIS, BY DESIRE OF HIS EXCELLENCE THE ARCHBISHOP OF WESTMINSTER.

TO THE HONORABLE THE KNIGHTS, CITIZENS, AND BURGESSES OF THE UNITED KINGDOM, IN PARLIAMENT ASSEMBLED.

Members of the Roman Catholic Church of the Assumption, Warwick-street, London, sheweth:

That by the present laws all Roman Catholic prisoners in Borough and County Gaols, excepting those under sentence of death, are subject to the care of the Protestant Chaplain of the Gaol; and that such Roman Catholic prisoners cannot be visited by a Priest of their own Church, except on their special request.

Therefore your Petitioners do humbly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased to exempt by law all Roman Catholic prisoners from the care of a Minister of another religion, and to provide by law that all Roman Catholic prisoners shall be visited by a Priest of their own Church for religious instruction and consolation.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

In the discussion in the House of Commons relative to the Alabama, Mr. Laird declared that he had received proposals from an agent of the Federal Navy Department to build iron-clad and rams, completely armed and equipped, and he offered to place the correspondence in the hands of Lord Palmerston.

He asked which was the greater breach of neutrality, to sell ships without guns, or to send to New York cargoes of rifled cannon.

He stated that since the commencement of the war there had been shipped from Liverpool to the Northern ports more than 65,000 muskets, 370,000 rifles, 62,000 percussion caps, and many cargoes of 'hardware.'

These were from Custom-house manifests which had passed through the hands of the American Consul in Liverpool.

Sir G. Grey's statement in reference to the extraordinary mission of two English police officers to Warsaw, at the request of the Russian Government, is not considered satisfactory.

The Right Hon. Baronet, who denied that a siege had been declared in Poland prior to the mission of the police officers, and that they had made a report on their return, now admits the state of siege had been proclaimed long before the officers went to Warsaw, and that they had made a report.

This subject has created a great deal of excitement out of doors, as it is felt that, however well-intentioned Her Majesty's Ministers might have been in their desire to see a metropolitan police system established in Poland instead of martial law, still that they exhibited a grave want of discretion in complying with an application which they must have known was never intended to be acted upon, but which must, necessarily, leave the British Government open to much misapprehension on the Continent.

The matter of the detective force arrangements requires a sharp eye on the part of the British public, especially now we learn that our spy system beats even the Russian. More need not be said.—Court Journal.

Speaking of this matter, the London Morning Advertiser says:—'Mr. Hennessy, (who brought the subject of English detectives before Parliament) must persevere in the praiseworthy task he has undertaken. He must probe the matter to the bottom. The veil must be removed, in order that we may clearly see the real state of affairs. It is, to say the least, a very suspicious fact, that Sir George Grey's reply to Baron Brunnow's application for English detectives, is not given. Why has it not been withheld? There must be a reason for its non-production. Until the public know what passed between the Russian Ambassador and the English Home Secretary, they will not be satisfied. But be the ultimate result what it may, we only give expression to the universal feeling among all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, when we say that Mr. Hennessy has rendered an important service to the cause of Constitutional Government, by the able and energetic manner in which he has acquitted himself in this matter; while to the cause of Polish rights and independence, he has done a service which will never be forgotten by the noble people who he is laboring to rescue from the fangs of the Muscovite oppressors.'

THE GREAT BRITAIN.

THE FOLLOWING IS A COPY OF THE PETITION SIGNED AT THE DIFFERENT CHURCHES AND CHAPELS OF THE METROPOLIS, BY DESIRE OF HIS EXCELLENCE THE ARCHBISHOP OF WESTMINSTER.

TO THE HONORABLE THE KNIGHTS, CITIZENS, AND BURGESSES OF THE UNITED KINGDOM, IN PARLIAMENT ASSEMBLED.

Members of the Roman Catholic Church of the Assumption, Warwick-street, London, sheweth:

That by the present laws all Roman Catholic prisoners in Borough and County Gaols, excepting those under sentence of death, are subject to the care of the Protestant Chaplain of the Gaol; and that such Roman Catholic prisoners cannot be visited by a Priest of their own Church, except on their special request.

Therefore your Petitioners do humbly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased to exempt by law all Roman Catholic prisoners from the care of a Minister of another religion, and to provide by law that all Roman Catholic prisoners shall be visited by a Priest of their own Church for religious instruction and consolation.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

In the discussion in the House of Commons relative to the Alabama, Mr. Laird declared that he had received proposals from an agent of the Federal Navy Department to build iron-clad and rams, completely armed and equipped, and he offered to place the correspondence in the hands of Lord Palmerston.

He asked which was the greater breach of neutrality, to sell ships without guns, or to send to New York cargoes of rifled cannon.

He stated that since the commencement of the war there had been shipped from Liverpool to the Northern ports more than 65,000 muskets, 370,000 rifles, 62,000 percussion caps, and many cargoes of 'hardware.'

These were from Custom-house manifests which had passed through the hands of the American Consul in Liverpool.

Sir G. Grey's statement in reference to the extraordinary mission of two English police officers to Warsaw, at the request of the Russian Government, is not considered satisfactory.

The Right Hon. Baronet, who denied that a siege had been declared in Poland prior to the mission of the police officers, and that they had made a report on their return, now admits the state of siege had been proclaimed long before the officers went to Warsaw, and that they had made a report.

This subject has created a great deal of excitement out of doors, as it is felt that, however well-intentioned Her Majesty's Ministers might have been in their desire to see a metropolitan police system established in Poland instead of martial law, still that they exhibited a grave want of discretion in complying with an application which they must have known was never intended to be acted upon, but which must, necessarily, leave the British Government open to much misapprehension on the Continent.

The matter of the detective force arrangements requires a sharp eye on the part of the British public, especially now we learn that our spy system beats even the Russian. More need not be said.—Court Journal.

Speaking of this matter, the London Morning Advertiser says:—'Mr. Hennessy, (who brought the subject of English detectives before Parliament) must persevere in the praiseworthy task he has undertaken. He must probe the matter to the bottom. The veil must be removed, in order that we may clearly see the real state of affairs. It is, to say the least, a very suspicious fact, that Sir George Grey's reply to Baron Brunnow's application for English detectives, is not given. Why has it not been withheld? There must be a reason for its non-production. Until the public know what passed between the Russian Ambassador and the English Home Secretary, they will not be satisfied. But be the ultimate result what it may, we only give expression to the universal feeling among all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, when we say that Mr. Hennessy has rendered an important service to the cause of Constitutional Government, by the able and energetic manner in which he has acquitted himself in this matter; while to the cause of Polish rights and independence, he has done a service which will never be forgotten by the noble people who he is laboring to rescue from the fangs of the Muscovite oppressors.'

THE GREAT BRITAIN.

THE FOLLOWING IS A COPY OF THE PETITION SIGNED AT THE DIFFERENT CHURCHES AND CHAPELS OF THE METROPOLIS, BY DESIRE OF HIS EXCELLENCE THE ARCHBISHOP OF WESTMINSTER.

TO THE HONORABLE THE KNIGHTS, CITIZENS, AND BURGESSES OF THE UNITED KINGDOM, IN PARLIAMENT ASSEMBLED.

Members of the Roman Catholic Church of the Assumption, Warwick-street, London, sheweth:

That by the present laws all Roman Catholic prisoners in Borough and County Gaols, excepting those under sentence of death, are subject to the care of the Protestant Chaplain of the Gaol; and that such Roman Catholic prisoners cannot be visited by a Priest of their own Church, except on their special request.

Therefore your Petitioners do humbly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased to exempt by law all Roman Catholic prisoners from the care of a Minister of another religion, and to provide by law that all Roman Catholic prisoners shall be visited by a Priest of their own Church for religious instruction and consolation.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

In the discussion in the House of Commons relative to the Alabama, Mr. Laird declared that he had received proposals from an agent of the Federal Navy Department to build iron-clad and rams, completely armed and equipped, and he offered to place the correspondence in the hands of Lord Palmerston.

He asked which was the greater breach of neutrality, to sell ships without guns, or to send to New York cargoes of rifled cannon.

He stated that since the commencement of the war there had been shipped from Liverpool to the Northern ports more than 65,000 muskets, 370,000 rifles, 62,000 percussion caps, and many cargoes of 'hardware.'

These were from Custom-house manifests which had passed through the hands of the American Consul in Liverpool.

Sir G. Grey's statement in reference to the extraordinary mission of two English police officers to Warsaw, at the request of the Russian Government, is not considered satisfactory.

The Right Hon. Baronet, who denied that a siege had been declared in Poland prior to the mission of the police officers, and that they had made a report on their return, now admits the state of siege had been proclaimed long before the officers went to Warsaw, and that they had made a report.

This subject has created a great deal of excitement out of doors, as it is felt that, however well-intentioned Her Majesty's Ministers might have been in their desire to see a metropolitan police system established in Poland instead of martial law, still that they exhibited a grave want of discretion in complying with an application which they must have known was never intended to be acted upon, but which must, necessarily, leave the British Government open to much misapprehension on the Continent.

The matter of the detective force arrangements requires a sharp eye on the part of the British public, especially now we learn that our spy system beats even the Russian. More need not be said.—Court Journal.

Speaking of this matter, the London Morning Advertiser says:—'Mr. Hennessy, (who brought the subject of English detectives before Parliament) must persevere in the praiseworthy task he has undertaken. He must probe the matter to the bottom. The veil must be removed, in order that we may clearly see the real state of affairs. It is, to say the least, a very suspicious fact, that Sir George Grey's reply to Baron Brunnow's application for English detectives, is not given. Why has it not been withheld? There must be a reason for its non-production. Until the public know what passed between the Russian Ambassador and the English Home Secretary, they will not be satisfied. But be the ultimate result what it may, we only give expression to the universal feeling among all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, when we say that Mr. Hennessy has rendered an important service to the cause of Constitutional Government, by the able and energetic manner in which he has acquitted himself in this matter; while to the cause of Polish rights and independence, he has done a service which will never be forgotten by the noble people who he is laboring to rescue from the fangs of the Muscovite oppressors.'

THE GREAT BRITAIN.

THE FOLLOWING IS A COPY OF THE PETITION SIGNED AT THE DIFFERENT CHURCHES AND CHAPELS OF THE METROPOLIS, BY DESIRE OF HIS EXCELLENCE THE ARCHBISHOP OF WESTMINSTER.

TO THE HONORABLE THE KNIGHTS, CITIZENS, AND BURGESSES OF THE UNITED KINGDOM, IN PARLIAMENT ASSEMBLED.

Members of the Roman Catholic Church of the Assumption, Warwick-street, London, sheweth:

That by the present laws all Roman Catholic prisoners in Borough and County Gaols, excepting those under sentence of death, are subject to the care of the Protestant Chaplain of the Gaol; and that such Roman Catholic prisoners cannot be visited by a Priest of their own Church, except on their special request.

Therefore your Petitioners do humbly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased to exempt by law all Roman Catholic prisoners from the care of a Minister of another religion, and to provide by law that all Roman Catholic prisoners shall be visited by a Priest of their own Church for religious instruction and consolation.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

In the discussion in the House of Commons relative to the Alabama, Mr. Laird declared that he had received proposals from an agent of the Federal Navy Department to build iron-clad and rams, completely armed and equipped, and he offered to place the correspondence in the hands of Lord Palmerston.

He asked which was the greater breach of neutrality, to sell ships without guns, or to send to New York cargoes of rifled cannon.

He stated that since the commencement of the war there had been shipped from Liverpool to the Northern ports more than 65,000 muskets, 370,000 rifles, 62,000 percussion caps, and many cargoes of 'hardware.'

These were from Custom-house manifests which had passed through the hands of the American Consul in Liverpool.

Sir G. Grey's statement in reference to the extraordinary mission of two English police officers to Warsaw, at the request of the Russian Government, is not considered satisfactory.

The Right Hon. Baronet, who denied that a siege had been declared in Poland prior to the mission of the police officers, and that they had made a report on their return, now admits the state of siege had been proclaimed long before the officers went to Warsaw, and that they had made a report.

This subject has created a great deal of excitement out of doors, as it is felt that, however well-intentioned Her Majesty's Ministers might have been in their desire to see a metropolitan police system established in Poland instead of martial law, still that they exhibited a grave want of discretion in complying with an application which they must have known was never intended to be acted upon, but which must, necessarily, leave the British Government open to much misapprehension on the Continent.

The matter of the detective force arrangements requires a sharp eye on the part of the British public, especially now we learn that our spy system beats even the Russian. More need not be said.—Court Journal.

Speaking of this matter, the London Morning Advertiser says:—'Mr. Hennessy, (who brought the subject of English detectives before Parliament) must persevere in the praiseworthy task he has undertaken. He must probe the matter to the bottom. The veil must be removed, in order that we may clearly see the real state of affairs. It is, to say the least, a very suspicious fact, that Sir George Grey's reply to Baron Brunnow's application for English detectives, is not given. Why has it not been withheld? There must be a reason for its non-production. Until the public know what passed between the Russian Ambassador and the English Home Secretary, they will not be satisfied. But be the ultimate result what it may, we only give expression to the universal feeling among all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, when we say that Mr. Hennessy has rendered an important service to the cause of Constitutional Government, by the able and energetic manner in which he has acquitted himself in this matter; while to the cause of Polish rights and independence, he has done a service which will never be forgotten by the noble people who he is laboring to rescue from the fangs of the Muscovite oppressors.'

THE GREAT BRITAIN.

THE FOLLOWING IS A COPY OF THE PETITION SIGNED AT THE DIFFERENT CHURCHES AND CHAPELS OF THE METROPOLIS, BY DESIRE OF HIS EXCELLENCE THE ARCHBISHOP OF WESTMINSTER.

TO THE HONORABLE THE KNIGHTS, CITIZENS, AND BURGESSES OF THE UNITED KINGDOM, IN PARLIAMENT ASSEMBLED.

Members of the Roman Catholic Church of the Assumption, Warwick-street, London, sheweth:

That by the present laws all Roman Catholic prisoners in Borough and County Gaols, excepting those under sentence of death, are subject to the care of the Protestant Chaplain of the Gaol; and that such Roman Catholic prisoners cannot be visited by a Priest of their own Church, except on their special request.

Therefore your Petitioners do humbly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased to exempt by law all Roman Catholic prisoners from the care of a Minister of another religion, and to provide by law that all Roman Catholic prisoners shall be visited by a Priest of their own Church for religious instruction and consolation.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

In the discussion in the House of Commons relative to the Alabama, Mr. Laird declared that he had received proposals from an agent of the Federal Navy Department to build iron-clad and rams, completely armed and equipped, and he offered to place the correspondence in the hands of Lord Palmerston.

He asked which was the greater breach of neutrality, to sell ships without guns, or to send to New York cargoes of rifled cannon.

He stated that since the commencement of the war there had been shipped from Liverpool to the Northern ports more than 65,000 muskets, 370,000 rifles, 62,000 percussion caps, and many cargoes of 'hardware.'

These were from Custom-house manifests which had passed through the hands of the American Consul in Liverpool.

Sir G. Grey's statement in reference to the extraordinary mission of two English police officers to Warsaw, at the request of the Russian Government, is not considered satisfactory.

The Right Hon. Baronet, who denied that a siege had been declared in Poland prior to the mission of the police officers, and that they had made a report on their return, now admits the state of siege had been proclaimed long before the officers went to Warsaw, and that they had made a report.

This subject has created a great deal of excitement out of doors, as it is felt that, however well-intentioned Her Majesty's Ministers might have been in their desire to see a metropolitan police system established in Poland instead of martial law, still that they exhibited a grave want of discretion in complying with an application which they must have known was never intended to be acted upon, but which must, necessarily, leave the British Government open to much misapprehension on the Continent.

The matter of the detective force arrangements requires a sharp eye on the part of the British public, especially now we learn that our spy system beats even the Russian. More need not be said.—Court Journal.

Speaking of this matter, the London Morning Advertiser says:—'Mr. Hennessy, (who brought the subject of English detectives before Parliament) must persevere in the praiseworthy task he has undertaken. He must probe the matter to the bottom. The veil must be removed, in order that we may clearly see the real state of affairs. It is, to say the least, a very suspicious fact, that Sir George Grey's reply to Baron Brunnow's application for English detectives, is not given. Why has it not been withheld? There must be a reason for its non-production. Until the public know what passed between the Russian Ambassador and the English Home Secretary, they will not be satisfied. But be the ultimate result what it may, we only give expression to the universal feeling among all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, when we say that Mr. Hennessy has rendered an important service to the cause of Constitutional Government, by the able and energetic manner in which he has acquitted himself in this matter; while to the cause of Polish rights and independence, he has done a service which will never be forgotten by the noble people who he is laboring to rescue from the fangs of the Muscovite oppressors.'

THE GREAT BRITAIN.

THE FOLLOWING IS A COPY OF THE PETITION SIGNED AT THE DIFFERENT CHURCHES AND CHAPELS OF THE METROPOLIS, BY DESIRE OF HIS EXCELLENCE THE ARCHBISHOP OF WESTMINSTER.

TO THE HONORABLE THE KNIGHTS, CITIZENS, AND BURGESSES OF THE UNITED KINGDOM, IN PARLIAMENT ASSEMBLED.

Members of the Roman Catholic Church of the Assumption, Warwick-street, London, sheweth:

That by the present laws all Roman Catholic prisoners in Borough and County Gaols, excepting those under sentence of death, are subject to the care of the Protestant Chaplain of the Gaol; and that such Roman Catholic prisoners cannot be visited by a Priest of their own Church, except on their special request.

Therefore your Petitioners do humbly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased to exempt by law all Roman Catholic prisoners from the care of a Minister of another religion, and to provide by law that all Roman Catholic prisoners shall be visited by a Priest of their own Church for religious instruction and consolation.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

In the discussion in the House of Commons relative to the Alabama, Mr. Laird declared that he had received proposals from an agent of the Federal Navy Department to build iron-clad and rams, completely armed and equipped, and he offered to place the correspondence in the hands of Lord Palmerston.

He asked which was the greater breach of neutrality, to sell ships without guns, or to send to New York cargoes of rifled cannon.

He stated that since the commencement of the war there had been shipped from Liverpool to the Northern ports more than 65,000 muskets, 370,000 rifles, 62,000 percussion caps, and many cargoes of 'hardware.'

These were from Custom-house manifests which had passed through the hands of the American Consul in Liverpool.

Sir G. Grey's statement in reference to the extraordinary mission of two English police officers to Warsaw, at the request of the Russian Government, is not considered satisfactory.

The Right Hon. Baronet, who denied that a siege had been declared in Poland prior to the mission of the police officers, and that they had made a report on their return, now admits the state of siege had been proclaimed long before the officers went to Warsaw, and that they had made a report.

This subject has created a great deal of excitement out of doors, as it is felt that, however well-intentioned Her Majesty's Ministers might have been in their desire to see a metropolitan police system established in Poland instead of martial law, still that they exhibited a grave want of discretion in complying with an application which they must have known was never intended to be acted upon, but which must, necessarily, leave the British Government open to much misapprehension on the Continent.

The matter of the detective force arrangements requires a sharp