Perceptions of Canada as a Trading Partner

The economic leaders were asked to compare Canada with other trading partners of the U.S. In answer to the question, roughly equal numbers felt that Canada was more fair as felt that Canada was the same as other nations. In sum, 86% had positive or neutral responses to Canadian fairness as compared with other trading partners. Yet, it would seem to be more likely that Canada would benefit from the positive feeling with which the U.S./Canadian relationship is held, if Canada received a more strongly positive response among the group that felt that Canada welcomed U.S. trade and investment and among those who felt that the U.S. should
