Roman roads and Roman law have left a deep impress all over continental Europe. Both were established on a scund basis and the legal maxims current in Rome still are found in the current in Rome still are found in the text books of modern systems—among these is one "Caveat Emptor"—"let the buyer beware," or as it may be translated—"The buyer's eye is his market." And so it remains after all these long centuries.

LIST OF CANADIAN

Central Y. M. C. A., Also the Officials.

Everything is in fine shape for the Cabadian swimming championships at Central Y. tonight, and plenty of real classy racing is assured. The Montreal contingent will arrive this morning and the Buffalo splash artists will be on hand for a final tryout this afternoon.

Central's chances look good, despite the fact that they will be without Wood, who this year is swimming for Varsity.

In the long plunge, Barnes of West End will fight it out for Canadian honors with D. O. McKinnon and R. G. Bingman, both of Central, and the probabilities are that a new Canadian record will be made, as both Barnes and Dingman went the length of the Broadview plungs last Saturday.

The list of entries and officials is as follows:
50-yard championship race—C. Croli, Buffalo, F. Wood, University of Toronto; P. Roberts, Detroit.
100-yard championship—C. Croll, Buffalo, P. Roberts, Detroit, F. Wood, University of Toronto; V. Kerry, Montreal; H. Hainsworth, Buffalo, Tod-yard back championship—R. Carlyle, Central; F. Wood, University of Toronto; J. Kerry, Montreal; H. Hainsworth, Buffalo, T.; Lyon, U. of T.: A. Allan, Everything is in fine shape for and won 20. Truly an Iron Man to the last;

Joe's career extended over 20 years—
11 of them he played in the big leagues. All told he has won 415 games, and next to Cy Young has won more games than any other nitcher who ever lived. His greatest triumphs were achieved while a member of the Giants. In 1904 the Iron Man topped the pinnacle of his successes, pitching 43 games and winning 35 of hem. In 1903 he hurled his good right arm thru 50 contests, and won 31 of them.

When He Won Title.

hem. In 1903 he hurled his good right arm thru 50 contests, and won 31 of them.

When He Won Title.

It was in the former year, 1904, that he won the sobriquet of "Iron Man." During the month of August, in a drive for the pennant, he pitched and won three doubleheaders, one against Boston, one against Philadelphia, and one against Brooklyn.

Meteinnity broke into the majors in 1899 as a member of the famous Baltimore National League team. Later he played with Brooklyn (and helped them win the pennant). Then he came to New York in 1902. He obtained his release from the Giants in 1909 and became manager of the Newark Club in the International League. In 1913 he bought an interest in the Tacoma team in the Northwestern League.

Strangely at one time this wonderful athlete imagined himself a failure as a ball player. In 1894 he was "canned" from the Kansas City Club and was so discouraged that he quit the game and became a saloon keeper, and for four years did not play professional ball.

Soon Became Known.

When Joe discovered and perfected "Old Sal" he soon became known as one of the great pitchers. It was his most effective ball, and batters by the soore were mowed down by him. In pitching this ball he held it as if for an outcurve. But he pitched it with a very deep underhand movement, so his fingers almost touched the earth of the pitching mound. It was aimed just below the batter's shoulders, so that starting from the ground it rose at least five feet and was going up when it reached him. At the same lime the picher had twisted his wrist in a peculiar way, so that the ball also curved up. It was the nearest thing to an upcurve ever tried. Batters struck under, and few of them ever solved it. While most pitchers knew how McGinnity threw "Old Sal" none succeeded with it as he did. Nor is there any more mystery about Mathewson's "fadeaway." Any pitcher can throw either—if he can control it—and if he knows when to use it. Control and brains were the only secrets of the two great pitchers. BRITISH RUGBY FOOTBALL.

The annual general meeting of the above club will be held at the Caris-Rite Hotel on Wednesday next, March 19, at 8 o'clock. The annual financial statement will be presented and a number of important matters brought forward for discussion, in connection with the approaching Rugby season. The club hope for a full attendance of members, and any intending members will be heartily welcomed. Any information pertaining to the above club may be had by communicating with J. H. Thomas, secretary, 60 Gloucester street, city.
