THE CULTIVATOR, a monthly Journal devoted to the interests of the Farmer, the Gardener, and the Fruit Grower, illustrated with numerous engravings of Farm Houses and Buildings, Cattle, Horses, Sheep, Pigeons, Poultry, Farm Implements, &c. The Cultivator entered upon its 7th vol. of the New Series on the 1st Jan'y, 1850. For a period of years, it has enjoyed a circulation, and exerted an influence, not exceeded, it is believed, by any other Journal. Keeping steadily in view its great object for which The Cultivator was established,—“To improve the soil and the mind,” no effort has been spared to fill its pages with such matter as is best adapted to call into action the mental and physical energies of its readers, to awaken enquiry as to the best and most profitable methods of farming and to incite to efforts to carry them into effect. The whole series, or such volumes (except the one for 1848) may be wanted to complete sets supplied, and the numbers for the present year furnished as published.

THE HORTICULTURIST, and Journal of Rural Art and Rural Taste, devoted to Horticulture, Landscape Gardening, Rural Architecture, Botany, Pomology, Rural Economy, &c., published monthly in octavo form of 48 pages, each number accompanied by Engravings of Rural Cottages, and Villas, Farm Houses, Gates, Lodges, Ice Houses, Vineries, Flowering Shrubs, &c. 4 vols. of this work are now completed. To persons alive to the improvement of their Gardens, Orchards or Country Seats—to scientific and practical Cultivators of the soil—to Nurserymen and Commercial Gardeners, this Journal, giving the latest discoveries and improvements, experiments and acquisitions in Horticulture, and those branches of knowledge connected with it, will be found invaluable. Its extended and valuable correspondence presents the experience of the most intelligent cultivators in America; and the instructive and agreeable articles from the pen of the Editor, makes it equally sought after by even the general reader, interested in country life. The 5th vol. commenced on 1st July, 1850.

THE PLOUGH, THE LOOM, AND THE ANVIL, Edited by J. S. Skinner, and published monthly, vols 1 and 2 may be had neatly bound, and the numbers of the 3rd vol commencing with July 1850, furnished as published. “We must again commend to the attention of our readers Mr Skinner's excellent periodical, the first Agricultural Journal, in which the attempt has been made to teach farmers and planters how much their interest is involved in encouraging the growth and extension of manufactures and the mechanic arts throughout the country among themselves, it is a work which deserves the support of mechanics and manufacturers, as well as farmers.”—North American and United States Gazette.
