

|            |   |               |                  |  |          |
|------------|---|---------------|------------------|--|----------|
| 1739       | Irish wool, &c. to be shipped only to 8 ports   | iii, 110      | 1376             | No unfilled cloth to be exported   | i, 581   |
| 1731       | Importation of wool allowed in neutral vessels  | 688           | —                | Irish wiles, &c. favoured in England   | 581      |
| 1788       | Wool said to be exported to a great amount, but the smuggling exportation proved to have diminished since the treaty with France—the law made more rigorous | iv, 172       | 1379             | Foreign weavers very numerous in London, and very ill used   | 590      |
| 1790       | British wool degenerated—the best in Shetland—the recovery of the ancient superiority recommended   | 205           | 1388             | Scarlet cloth made in England  | 594, 606 |
| 1799       | Quantities of Spanish wool imported 1772-1799   | 470           | —                | Cloth fraudulently made to be forfeited  | 595      |
| —          | Spanish wool admitted in any vessels  | 477           | 1388             | Bristol the centre of a considerable manufacture   | 608      |
| 1800       | Wool of the king's Spanish sheep made into cloth, and also sold   | 525           | 1390             | Coarse cloth freed from rules for length, &c.—law to prevent frauds, and for seals   | 601      |
| —          | Estimate of wool used in the manufacture  | 526           | 1391             | Gildford cloth not to be sold unfinished   | 604      |
| —          | Quantities of wool imported 1791-1799   | 527           | 1394             | Cloth may be of any measure, must be sealed  | 607      |
| —          | Woolen manufacture—See Wool, Dying, Norwich for stuffs.   |               | —                | Single worsteds may be freely exported   | 607      |
| 588*       | Practised in Tyre   | i, 88         | 1399             | Coarse cloth exempted from sealing and duty  | 610      |
| 14         | In Patavia, Miletus, Spain  | 123, 125, 128 | 1400             | Woolen manufacture of England noted by the Greek emperor   | 611      |
| —          | Apparently in Britain   | 134           | 1417             | Woolen manufacture spread from Normandy into Bretagne by the English invasion  | 632      |
| 500        | Woolen plaids apparently made in Britain and Ireland  | 223           | 1426             | Woolen goods made in Scotland and exported   | 640      |
| 960        | Begins to be great in Flanders  | 270           | 1428             | Variety of kinds exported from England   | 643      |
| 1111       | Fine cloth made in England by the Flemings  | 316           | 1433             | All cloths to be sealed—traits may be only 12 yards  | 643      |
| 1153       | The manufacture confined to the burghs in Scotland  | 324           | 1437             | English cloth not to be finer than that of Ypres Nor as that of Barcelona  | 651      |
| 1156       | Some woolen cloth, &c. made in Ireland  | 333           | 1449             | English cloths had now made their way even into the Netherlands, where they are prohibited; and the male and female manufacturers of England suffer by the prohibition   | 663      |
| 1189       | Some cloth exported from England  | 345           | 1454             | Diminution of sale apprehended from an additional duty   | 671      |
| —          | Manufacture widely extended over England  | 347           | 1458             | Regulations in Scotland for the manufacture  | 672      |
| 1197       | Manufacture regulated by King Richard I   | 357           | 1461             | Manufacture seems considerable in Yorkshire  | 674      |
| —          | Apparently pretty considerable—few fine goods   | 359           | 1463             | Woolen goods exported, exempted from new duty  | 675      |
| 1213       | And increased in the reign of King John   | 382           | —                | Importation of woolen cloth prohibited   | 676      |
| 1261       | All persons ordered to wear English cloth   | 412           | 1465             | Law for length, breadth, quality, &c. foreign cloth to be forfeited  | 678      |
| 1264       | And many wear undyed cloth  | 413           | —                | Manufacturers allowed to contract for wool   | 679      |
| 1265       | Flanders the chief seat of the manufacture Which is also flourishing in Catalonia   | 415           | —                | Engl. cloth again prohibited in the Netherlands  | 679      |
| 1271, 1276 | Export of wool, and import of cloth, prohibited   | 421, 426      | 1467             | Clothiers in Devon allowed to use flocks—export of woolen yarn and unfilled cloth prohibited   | 682      |
| 1272       | Some Irish cloth in England   | 422           | 1468             | Law for set cloths   | 684      |
| 1297       | An inspector of cloth, foreign and home-made The office more ancient  | 462           | 1484             | Law for quantity and quality of various kinds of cloth   | 701      |
| 1313       | Cloth exported from England to Norway   | 477           | —                | Foreigners still in the manufacture in England, but now prohibited   | 702, 703 |
| 1327       | Worsted stuff made in Norfolk (See Norwich)   | 500           | 1487             | No cloth to be exported till barbed, rowed, and thorn  | 708      |
| 1328       | Law for measuring foreign cloth—statute measure for sundry kinds—coloured cloths doubled, raye cloths single  | 501           | 1489             | Prices of cloth fixed by parliament  | 711      |
| 1331       | Flemish manufacturers begin to settle in England—apparently founders of the fine manufacture  | 505           | 1497             | Woolen cloth, said to be one of the greatest commodities of England, to be received without any duty in the Netherlands, except Flanders                                 | ii, 16   |
| 1336       | And others come from Brabant and Zealand  | 516           | 1505             | It may now be sold in Flanders—before now English cloths were dressed and dyed in Flanders—that practice now abolished   | 28       |
| 1337       | All, except the royal family, obliged to wear home-made cloth—cloth may be made of any breath—foreign cloth to be forfeited—foreign makers encouraged       | 518, 519      | 1515             | Laws for preventing frauds   | 48       |
| —          | This law immediately broken   | 518, 519      | 1519, 1526       | Manufacture still great in Aragon, &c.   | 55, 66   |
| 1338       | And Flemish cloth imported, and also exempted from the inspection law   | 523           | 1528             | Stagnation of the manufacture by war   | 69       |
| —          | Brabant cloth also imported and favoured  | 524           | 1534             | The manufacture in Worcester-shire confined to 5 towns—a remark on the migration of the manufacture from expensive parts of the country, and further migration predicted | 77       |
| 1339       | Manufacturers persecuted at Bristol   | 525           | 1537             | Woolen manufacture distressed by restraints on the importation of linens   | 82       |
| —          | The manufacture not seated where the best wool is produced  | 530           | 1540             | An act in Scotland for inspecting cloth, &c.   | 86       |
| 1344       | Foreign manufacturers maltreated in London  | 532           | 1549, 1551, 1552 | Acts for inspecting, &c.   | 105, 108 |
| 1348       | Cloth charged with duties on exportation  | 537           | 1551             | Exports, 44,000 cloths by Hanse, 1,100 by English  | 109      |
| —          | The manufacture around Lincoln engrossed by the weavers of that city  | 540           | 1554             | Hanse merchants may export cloth unshorn   | 216      |
| 1351       | The aulneger, or inspector, sworn to his duty   | 544           | 1555             | Act for confining the manufacture mostly to towns—York and other northern thires exempted  | 118      |
| 1353       | Foreign cloth not obliged to be of standard measure—duties imposed on all cloths—scarlet and other grain colours made in Engl.                              | 550           | 1588             | Act for regulating the manufacture in Essex  | 125      |
| 1354       | Exports and imports of cloth this year  | 553           |                  |  |          |
| 1360       | Very fine fays made in Ireland  | 562           |                  |  |          |
| 1363       | Manufacture seemingly well established in England—exportation of cloth restrained   | 568           |                  |  |          |
| 1373       | New regulation for measure of cloth   | 580           |                  |  |          |