His only reply was a passionate kiss upon her brow. Oh! why had Vinson tempted him to do this dastardly act." In what words should he reveal to the confiding girl, whose head lay on his anxiety had taken a new form.

"It is my fault that she is ill! She has been so worried lately; and I have been engrossed in my own troubles, and never remembered how fatigued, how harrassed she must be. Unkind ungrateful that I am."

"My Eden, it is not in your nature to be either," she was softly assured. "Indeed, I have been both to mam-ma. Oh! Frank, it is true—true! Ever since I have known you I have neither loved nor obeyed her as I ought to have done.

"Of what use shall I be if I am so weak, so childish?" and by a great effort she conquered her hysterical affection, and lay passive in the arms of her companion, who was drawing breath in gasps, and shrinking, with unspeakable dread, from the moment when his share in the treacherous deed must be revealed to her. "How good it was of you to come with me!" she sighed, gratefully, still dwelling on his endeavors to soothe and sustain her. "Miss Tibbitts would have accompanied me, I daresay; but she would have increased my alarm with all sorts of dreadful surmises,

"Oh! don't, Eden—don't call me that!" he groaned. "I have behaved like a scoundrel to you, but not deliberately—no, not deliberately! My precious darling, do believe this. "Give me time-time! and pledge yourself to forgive me," he exclaimed. But she scarcely heard the incoherent prayer, for she had suddenly raised herself to her feet, and was leaning over to touch the silent Dacy.

did not hear what he said. She was watching for the white post that marked the cross-road to which she alluded. "There it is," she exclaimed, with an air of relief. "Another five minutes and I shall be with mamma."

But the exclamation—half-thankful-ness, half-dread of the condition in which she expected to find Mrs. Aubrey-was followed by a cry of dismay, for the whip came down on the mare's flanks, and she shied at the post, and, like lightning, they were born past

His halfinsolent tones were instantly recog-nized, and Eden's first impulse led her to seek protection from him in the arms of Frank Lyssendon. But as, like a frightened dove, she cowered down on his breast, she recollected what the detected lieutenant had said, and struggled to release herself.

"What does this mean?" she asked, piteously. "Where are you taking me? Where is my mother? Why don't you answer? Don't you see that I am perplexed-that-that you are frightening me dreadfully?"

THE NATURE

Significant Address by a Great British Scientist.

Direct Influence of an Almighty Pow -The Least Unscientific Conclusion.

London, England, March 29.-The largest meeting held this year by Victoria Institute took place at its house, Adelphi Terrace, London, this month, to hear one of its new members, Prof. Beale, F.R.S., the president of the Royal Microscopical Society, give an address descriptive of the results of 40 years' work as a professor of physiology and of microscopical research in regard to matter. In doing so, he described how all organisms, including man himself, in the earliest stage of development, were represented by a very minute particle of living matter, from which numerous particles, also living, were derived; these proceeded to take up different positions, grow and endangered. form. All living forms were once living A list pre matter, or bioplasm, and owed their peculiar structure and proprieties to the vital power of living matter by which were formed, and at all periods of life the senses-touch, taste, pended on the vital power of bioplasm. During the living state the matter of the living particle was altered according to a definite and prearranged plan and purpose. He concluded as follows: "Having long thought over the evidence I have been able to obtain as regards the Nature of Life during the past forty years-from the study of the actual Living Matter, the Bioplasm, its character, arrangement, and its relation to tissue as existing during its life, and shortly after death, in the case of organisms of very different orders, in various conditions of vital activity, in health and disease, with the aid of very high magnifying powers (up to 5,000 linear)—I now feel it a duty to publicly advocate the doctrine of the constant operation in all life, throughout the whole living world, of Vital Power-Power as distinct from all forces, potencies, and properties belonging to or derived from any kind, of the peace and crown attorney for resulting from any physical or chemical state, of Cosmic matter. I have failed to discover any facts which would tend to cause a thoughtful student of Living Nature to hesitate as to the existence of Vitality, and so far I have been unable to discover or frame any hypothesis which could be advanced as a reasonable explanation of the facts of any kind of living matter without admitting the The citroton

Her companion spoke to her, but she other way for the facts, have entirely soler. failed. Looking from a purely scientific point of view only, it seems to me that the cause of all vital phenomena from the very beginning of Life—in the present state of our knowledge, can only be referred to the direct influence of an Almighty Power, and I feel confident that each succeeding advance in natural knowledge will be found to be, natural knowledge will be found to be, in the words of the Victoria Institute motto, 'Ad Majorem Dei Gloriam.'

An animated discussion followed, in which many took part.

The election of Prof. Sir William Turnner, F.R.S., and other new members having taken place, the meeting was then adjurned.

MR. TARTE'S INNINGS

A Ratling Two Hours' Address-The Postage Stamps Again.

Ottawa, March 29.-The feature of the debate on the address yesterday was the two hours' speech by the minister of public works, in which he dealt at length with the attacks upon prime minister and himself by the opposition. He exposed the hollowness of the cry raised by the Conservatives of French domination, after they had been kept in power for twenty years by the support of the Province of Quebec, and vigorously defended the expenditure of the government on public works, which were intended to foster Canadian trade and divert it from United States channels. In the afternoon Mr. Clancy attacked the administration of the government, and was especially severe upon the postmastergeneral, whom he accused of having issued jubilee stamps of large denominations which were utterly worthless to purchasers, and which the depart-ment had refused to exchange for smaller denominations. Hon. Mr. Mulock, in reply, explained that the stamps of large denominations had proven so convenient that it was intended to continue the issue, and showed that every stamp issued could be utilized for post-

THEY RIDICULE IT.

Many People Ridicule the Idea of an Absolute Cure for Dyspepsia and Stomach Troubles.

Ridicule, However, Is Not argument, and Facts Are Stubbern Things.

Stomach troubles are so common and in most cases, so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be a radical, permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such pride themselves on their acuteness in never being hum-bugged, especially in medicines.

This fear of being humbugged can be carried too far, so far, in fact, that many people suffer for years with weak digestion rather than risk a little time and money in faithfully testing the claims made of a preparation so reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspensia. Tablets Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different in one important respect from ordinary proprietary medi-cines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine, no secret is made of their ingredients, but analysis shows them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pure aseptic pepsin, the digestive acids, Golden Seal, biscathartic, neither do they act powerfully on any organ, but they cure in digestion on the common-sense plan of digesting the food eaten thoroughly be-fore it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success. Cathartic pills never have and never can cure indigestion and stomach troubles because they act entirely on the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is really in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food not digested or half digested is poison as it creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh and appetite and many other troubles which are often called by some other name.

They are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. Address F. A. Stuart Company, Marshall, Mich., for little book on stomach dis-
