THE INCOME TAX OF OLD ENGLAND

Immense Revenue Received Last Year-The Fighting Organization of the Terrorists.

London, Nov. 14.—Those who believe in an income tax will find a great deal of consolation and encouragement in the recent report of the inland revenue commissioners of the British Government who have charge of that branch of the finances. The latest returns show receipts of £30,966,401, or $155,000,000, in round numbers, of our money; 50 per cent of which came from the incomes of commercial and manufacturing concerns, professions and employments, 25.4 per cent from "the ownership of lands and houses," 8.2 per cent from salaries of government and public company officials, and 6.7 per cent from "profits from British, colonial and foreign securities." The total wealth of the British nation, as shown by the income tax returns for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, is $3,120,000,000, an increase from $2,840,-000,000, returned for the previous year It is agreed by all concerned that the income tax, although a shilling to a pound, or 25 cents on every $5 income is the fairest division of taxation, the least felt and the most easily collected of any revenues except that from saloon
