CONSERVATIVE MEMBER RAN LAURIER'S RECEPTION

"Bill" Staples Thought It Too Bad
the Premier Shouldn't Get a Welcome.

SOMERSET, July 17.—(Special.)—Political heresy might be charged against William Staples, "Bill," as he is known to his constituents, member of parliament for Macdonald, for the reception which he and his ilk gave to Sir Wilfrid Laurier on Saturday afternoon.

Meetings in these French-Canadian districts assume more the character of a village or family picnic, rather than a political demonstration, and when a few hundred people are drawn together they represent a wide range of country. The government association did not know that Sir Wilfrid was actually coming until twenty-four hours before he arrived. There was a dilemma; the prime minister was coming to see people of his own race and no preparation made to receive him. Consternation reigned; a number of heads got together; Tory led and Lib followed. Ways and means were devised. A messenger was despatched sixteen miles away to bring the nearest band at a cost of $100. Willing hands undertook to building a temporary platform in the village green; streamers and bunting were made ready; and even the indispensable motor car was procured for the grand march. When Sir Wilfrid arrived the crowd of several hundred were serene and expectant. No Scotch chiefdom ever received a more cordial welcome than the Canadian prime minister gets from his compatriots. "Vive Laurier" is the cry everywhere. Sir Wilfrid does not mind any such occasions. While he was glad to speak to them of the traditions of the French race, they must not consider him as a French-Canadian, but as a Canadian.

Sir Wilfrid's discussion about the Manitoba boundary was earnestly received. "I pledge myself," he said, "to the government of which I am head. I pledge the majority in parliament, that we will give them fair treatment, because the Dominion of Canada is wealthy enough to treat any province justly," he declared in making a passing reference to the question.

Hon. G. P. Graham, minister of railways, kept to his own text, transportation. He asserted that the national transportation bill was the basis of a tariff of thru rates between Canadian and United States points, to avoid excessive local rates to and from boundary points.

Then "Bill" Staples, who had been sitting beside Sir Wilfrid all the time, spoke. He felicitated the prime minister, confining his remarks to pleasantries. In fact one would almost have thought that Sir Wilfrid's sunny smile made "Bill" feel at ease, that he was a Conservative. But he voiced the sentiment of an old time Tory, speaking to the world: "We are not going to let the leader of Canada come here and not give him a reception."

All this is interesting because the riding of Macdonald is the Conservative stronghold of the province. The majority is nearly always around 500. The provincial ridings of Manitou, where Hon. Mr. Rogers is said to be impregnable, comprises part of Macdonald.

On the return trip the train was stopped at Carleton Place and Sir Wilfrid received an address of welcome from the mayor and council.

HOW TO KILL FLY BEFORE HE POISONS HOUSEHOLD

THE DEADLY HOUSE FLY.

Fly kills a greater number of human beings than all the beasts of prey and poisonous serpents, for they spread disease.

Fly kills odors of filth; a pleasant-smelling substance, the fragrance of flowers, geraniums, mignonette, lavender or any perfume will serve to drive them away. Sprinkle your garbage can with lime or kerosene oil.

Here are some cheap ways to get rid of flies:

Heat a shovel and put 20 drops of carbolic acid on it. The vapor will kill them.

Dissolve one dram of bichromate of potash in two ounces of water and add a little sugar. Put the solution in shallow dishes about the house.

A spoonful of formalin or formaldehyde in a pint of water, exposed in a room, will kill the flies.

Burn pyrethrum powder in the room. This stupefies the flies so that they may be swept up and burned.

crime, proving that either Crippen is still in London, or a confederate is receiving letters in his behalf.

MODERNIZING THE FORCE

Scotland Yard Breaks Its Custom of Not Confining to the Newspapers.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The London correspondent of the New York Times cables: At last Scotland Yard is beginning to move with the times, and before long it is likely that even telegrams may be sent.

On your side of the assistance of the press in the Crippen murder case, the most remarkable feature has been the slowness of Scotland Yard in its preliminary stages. The case was laid before the public on June 30 with ample evidence that Dr. Crippen had made contradictory statements respecting his wife's disappearance and death, and her friend, Elsie, in England and America, suspected foul play. There was an interval of ten days before Crippen's flight with the typewriter.

During that interval the detectives received a fresh series of statements from him, which ought to have warned them to keep him under constant surveillance, and yet they did not take any precautions to prevent the escape of the suspected criminal.

The excuse offered for this astonishing negligence is that they wanted to frighten him into flight and thereby force him to incriminate himself. If they had been cleverer, they would have induced him to run away and kept watch on him, so as to arrest him at an opportune moment. As it is, they are now dependent on the cooperation of the amateur detectives of the press, and are overwhelmed with hundreds of false clues based on mistaken identity, in every section of the kingdom.

As Crippen disappeared only four days before the horrible discovery of his mutilated body of the woman under the coat cellar, the scent is fresh, and the arrest of the suspected murderer is highly probable, especially as the typewriter is seeking to frighten him into betraying him in order to escape his own responsibility as an accessory before or after the fact.

The London police have fixed the date of the tragedy at the Crippen house in Hillford Crescent as the night of Jan. 31, or the early morning hours of Feb. 1. The Crippens, it is now said, were entertained a few friends on the evening of Jan. 13, and they left before midnight. The following date of the vaudeville artists' guild, of which Mrs. Crippen, of Belle Elmore, as she was known on the stage, was the treasurer, received a letter signed by the King of the Crippens, or had gone to America on business. The mis-spelling of the name, it is now remembered, caused comment at the time.

Particular attention is being given by the police to cities in France, where Crippen is known to have visited or lived at various times, and only have to watch carefully for a man answering Dr. Crippen's description, but English detectives have been sent in the hope that they might come upon him in some of his old haunts.

The conviction is becoming stronger that Crippen is still in Europe. One of the Sunday newspapers reports that a man was detained at Birmingham last night in connection with the Crippen case, but this has not been confirmed.

GENERAL'S REPORT SAID TO CONDEMN OUR FORCES

Whole Conception of Strategic Requirements is Said to Be Wrong.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.) LONDON, July 17.—A correspondent of The Times says he understands that Gen. French's report, when published, will disclose state of military inefficiency in the Dominion that will probably be a revelation to most Canadians.

The correspondent adds: "I believe it will be found that Gen. French in the first place condemns the whole existing conception of the strategic requirements of the Canadian militia. This, coupled with the non-existence of a sound peace organization and effective staff, suggests from the very outset that the Dominion defence forces are in bad way. If such a staff as exists does not understand the first principles in strategic distribution of its forces, then it is impossible for it to have a sound peace organization."

The writer thinks, however, that Gen. French may ruthlessly condemn what Canadians thought good, yet he will furnish them with a model, wherein it may be possible to build quickly and surely, as he was rightly impressed by the material and intelligence and robust earnestness of the Canadian forces.

THE OPPOSITION adds: "I believe it will be found that Gen. French in the first place condemns the whole existing conception of the strategic requirements of the Canadian militia. This, coupled with the non-existence of a sound peace organization and effective staff, suggests from the very outset that the Dominion defence forces are in bad way.
