The appointment of the Rev. J. A. Thompson of the Woodburn-Tapeleytown Church to the vacant position of Canon and Barton Churches was asked for last night at a conference of the wardens and Bishop Charles A. G. O'Connell, who accepted the invitation, will succeed Rev. (Capt.) George Pussey, who is chaplain of the Canadian Mounted Rifles.

Found in a fainting condition on the streets last night, Roy Falls was taken to the city hospital, where he was found to be suffering from a severe wound in the head. Falls was unable to give any information as to how he sustained his injuries.

On being refused an increase in their wages yesterday, 54 foreigners employed by the Dominion Steel Casting Company, walked out of the works, and the company stated that the demands of the men are not likely to be met with, as they are most unreasonable.

Daniil Santiano, an Italian, residing on Burlington street, was found dead in his bed yesterday morning. It is not likely an inquest will be held, as death was due to heart failure. He leaves a wife and nine children in Italy.

important results. In certain sectors of the battlefield they opened a vigorous offensive at dawn, after they had captured a trench on a front of 1000 yards, and had repulsed determined attacks on their new lines southwest of Thiépval. Proceeding forward in this region in the midst of violent fighting, they took a portion of the immensely strong Leipzig redoubt, which the Germans had exerted all their ingenuity in fortifying for twenty months. East of La Boisselle they also carried a maze of German trenches on a front of nearly 2000 yards to a depth of 500 yards. In the direction of Ovillers their advance has forged into the village after piercing 500 yards of the German front, and north of Fricourt they have driven the Germans from two woods and have captured three lines of trenches.

The latest offensive undertaken by the Russians is the offensive of Gen. Evert against a hundred-mile front between Vilna on the north and Baranovich on the south. In these operations the struggle has scarcely emerged from the bombardment stage excepting at Baranovich, where infantry fighting has been proceeding for several days.

On the whole the Germans and Austrians are now suffering from a combination of the most formidable attacks yet experienced in this war, and the natural question is, what will the German staff do about it? In the meantime the Germans are still hammering at Verdun and they took some trenches from the French by the Thiaumont work. Paucity of ideas seems still to be the great drawback of the German high command. The way they have persisted before Verdun seems to prove that their sole preparations for this year's campaign were directed to the undertaking of an offensive against France by way of Verdun and that failure here has thrown their plans in such great confusion that they have no other notions than to keep on repeating the same idle tactics.

Contalmaison, situated on the borders of the British line of advance, was stormed on a rapid descent on the British line of advance, and the British army, but these famed guards were crushed by an overwhelming fire and sent speedily off about their business after leaving 700 prisoners, survivors of various leading regiments, in British hands. The castle in the distance on the enemy in the fighting were severe. British artillery caught a large number of Teutons in the open and blasted them out of existence. A new use was found for his aeroplane by a British aviator. He descended to a height of 300 feet from the ground and turned his machine gun on a German battalion, decimating it by a raking fire. Long range guns completed its destruction, and its colonel was captured. Besant in Paris, who filed to overflowing with German troops, was shelled and practically demolished.

Thus, on the whole, the British army did a satisfactory day's work. With the Germans confronting it in large force and throwing against it the best troops in their service that army broke down all opposition and forged ahead. The German stamina was tested to the utmost and it was found wanting. It is not surprising that the German high command and the British Empire greater than they hate and fear the French or Russians.

On the eastern front the Russians appear to have started the Germans and Austrians on a rapid descent from their previous high mark. General Volynski is enlarging the bulge that extends towards Kovell and Vladimir-Volynski by striking the enemy so hard in front of Czartorysk that he has been compelled to retreat hastily to a line beyond the branch railway which connects with the Sarny-Kovel line, yielding to the Russians the railway station at Manevitch, and two villages. Cossacks are riding on ahead of the Russians, charging batteries here and sabring battalions there and terrifying the Teutons everywhere. If Brusiloff keeps on with this sharp and direct sabre thrust he will soon have turned both flanks of the Austro-German groups of armies between the Pripet marshes and the Volynian frontier. Then will come the time for one vigorous general shove to send them reeling and scattering backward to the countries whence they came. Under each heavy blow the enemy is becoming visibly weaker.

On the Russian northern front, Kuropatkin's artillery has begun to roar and the fighting with Von Hindenburg's troops is beginning to warm up. At Baranovich the Russian hammer blows are threatening to turn the southern flank of the Von Hindenburg group of armies. Next will come envelopment, and next hasty retreat or destruction.

Diabolizing the Austrians from mountain positions to which they cling like crabs, the Italians continue to report further progress. Renewing the attack on the strongly fortified line of the enemy between Monte Interotto and Monte Campioletto, on the Sette Comuni Plateau, they wrested from the Austrians two important points in their defences near Casera Zibon and Malza Pozza, taking 359 prisoners. They then drove off violent attacks on those positions. They also continued to clear Austrian detachments from the slopes east of the Majo, taking 103 prisoners. The Austrians are fiercely resisting the advance on the front between the Adige and the Astico by directing a violent artillery fire against all the approaches and bombarding the slopes of Monte Majo.

OPERA COMPANY MANAGER VANISHES

Bert Angeles Leaves Chorus Girls Stranded in Toronto.

Bert Angeles, manager of the Vandenberg Opera Company, which recently resolved after a run at the Grand Opera House, and who was charged with non-payment of one week's salary by six members of the chorus in yesterday afternoon's police court, has disappeared after routing his account at the King Edward Hotel, where he was quartered.

Mr. Angeles ordered him to pay the wages or serve a jail sentence. Angeles admitted that he owed the wages but declared that he would pay them as soon as he could get the money. The money was to have been paid within twenty-four hours. The defendant left the hotel a few hours after leaving court in company with his wife, who has been convalescing after an illness resulting from an accident at the King Edward Hotel.

The whereabouts of Angeles at a late hour last night could not be ascertained thru inquiries at the hotel, where the only information volunteered was to the effect that the manager of the company and his wife after paying their hotel bill had departed.

It was rumored among members of the company that they had left for New York on the evening train. It was also reported that Angeles is now in Buffalo, but neither rumor could be confirmed.

The company was disbanded following the presentation of "The Mikado" at the Grand Opera House. Angeles is now in Buffalo, but neither rumor could be confirmed.

As far as can be ascertained no salaries were paid for the last week, but many members declined to take action for the recovery of their money.

Many who are applying for the increases are City Solicitor Weddell and Engineer Wardrop.

Accident death was the verdict returned by the jury last night at the trial of the death of James LaRose. He was killed last night by being crushed by a crane in the yards of the Dominion Steel Casting Company.

CANADIAN FRONT HEAVILY SHELLED

German Infantry Attack Was Awaited, But Failed to Come.

MORTARS' GOOD WORK Canadian Guns Prove Superiority—Dashing Raid by New Brunswickers.

OTTAWA, July 7.—Major-Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, minister of militia, has received the following communiqué from the general Canadian representative at the front:

Canadian Army Corps Headquarters, via London, July 7.—Artillery duels were frequent during the past week on the Canadian front. At times our positions were so heavily bombarded as to suggest that an attack was imminent. On these occasions the enemy trenches and batteries were subjected to an intense retaliatory fire from our guns.

During the course of one night the Germans repeatedly shelled a section of the area recently taken over by our troops, and subsequently a hostile reconnoitering party endeavored to approach our lines. It was at once detected and driven off by our rifle and machine gun fire.

French Mortars Superior. In trench contests our batteries maintained the upper hand, returning approximately six shells for every one thrown by the Germans. In many places the hostile trenches and entanglements were severely damaged by our mortar shells.

With finer weather rapid progress was made on the consolidation of our new positions and the construction of other works. A large amount of enemy small arms ammunition was discovered in some old German trenches. In some cases the bullets were found to have reversed.

Patrols Are Busy. Great activity was displayed by our patrols. Every night reconnoissances of German lines were made all along our front. The enemy was found everywhere on the alert and busily engaged in strengthening his wire and trenches.

Numerous hostile working parties were located and dispersed by our fire. A patrol of our men being taken to a Montreal battalion encountered a party of 20 Germans advancing in open order. Our patrol opened fire with bombs and rifles. The enemy withdrew hurriedly.

A Dashing Raid. A raid on the trenches on its front was carried out by a New Brunswick battalion. The raiding party was led by Capt. G. G. Gunn. A passage thru the outer wire entanglements was cut by hand. With the aid of a ladder the party was detected by the enemy, who opened rapid fire. Our men were obliged to retreat to the obstacle and reached the parapet. Most of the garrison fled. One man continued to fire thru a covered loophole until he was killed.

On the whole, the Canadian front is quiet, but the enemy is still active in strengthening his positions. Our troops are well supplied with food and ammunition, and are in excellent health.

PREDICTS EUROPE WILL BE BANKRUPT

Francis W. Hirst Issues Warning in Regard to War.

WANTS PEACE AT ONCE Retires from Editorship of Economist Owing to Pacifist Views.

LONDON, July 7, 11.40 p.m.—Francis W. Hirst, the prominent financial writer, in his valedictory resignation of the editorship of the London Economist after a tenure of nine years, says: "In my view the financial fabric of Western Europe is in imminent peril, and in a few months it will no longer be possible to disguise the bankrupt condition of several great nations. Civilization, as we have known it, and representative institutions are doomed unless thru the exertions of individuals the rights, without which an Englishman, at any rate, will hardly care to live, are speedily restored. To this end freedom and independence must somehow be won back for parliament and the press."

Mr. Hirst has been an opponent of the restrictions enforced by the Defence of the Realm Act and "secret diplomacy." Replying to The Times, which has just published his resignation, he says: "I am accused of being a pacemaker. The accusation is not distressing to me. I plead guilty to it. It has been my principal object during the past year to prepare the public mind for peace by separating passion and fiction from truth and fact. I could believe I had hastened it advent by one day and saved the precious lives and limbs lost in twenty-four hours should feel myself to have done a little worth all the titles that emperors shower on their favorites and ministers on their supporters."

Wants Peace Now. "That the negotiation of peace is a difficult task I admit. That the attainment of it is a task of the highest importance I do not deny. That the present situation is beyond the region of competent diplomacy I deny. That peace is desirable by all belligerent nations I feel certain, and the fact that the fulfilment of the Economist has touched its height during the last few weeks amply attests the feeling of our business men."
