BETTER, SAYS GIRLS' MENTOR

Flappers' Morals and Manners Improve, Picture Producers Aiding

The manners and morals of Hollywood's flappers continues to improve, says Miss Marjorie Williams, director of the Studio Club in that Californian motion-picture centre. In her capacity as supervisor over 80 women ranging in age from 16 to 35 years she has had which the last few years have wrought in conditions in the "movie" colony. The Studio Club is under the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association, and Miss Williams is in New York to make her annual report on the administration and the financial situation of the club. Last May the club moved into its $225,000 clubhouse. The building, Miss Williams explained at the National headquarters of the Y. W. C. A. in New York, is one of the handsomest of its kind in the West. So important is the club considered by those interested in making Hollywood a better city that all but $20,000 has been paid for the clubhouse by prominent figures in motion pictures. The Motion Picture Producers' Association raised $70,000, and between 3,000 and 4,000 individuals Mrs. Samuel Goldyn, Miss Pickford and between 3,000 and 4,000 individuals Mrs. Samuel Goldyn, Miss Pickford and District the girls by rules and have put the responsibility for their constitutions. ontributed from $200 up. ### arrivals are put down, and if a girl begins to make a practice of arriving late Miss Williams takes the matter up with her personally, pointing out the perils of late hours to one's health. Miss Williams says there is much less tragedy among the actresses and would-be actresses than there has been. The improvement has been brought about gradually and by earnest effort on the part of various organizations, among them the Y. W. C. A. and the Motion Picture Producers' Association.

And, too, actresses look upon smoking as a necessity. Therefore, Miss Williams says, these problems have to be handled differently. The honor system has been pressed into service most successfully, she says, and only a few general rules are required.

For example, no smoking is permitted in the public rooms. The house committee, made up among the girls themselves, inspects the rooms to see that the girls keep them in condition, but the occupants have complete freedom in such matters as smoking. With

OFFICIAL VISIT TO BRUNSWICK LODGE

Mrs. Reynolds, Grand Trustee, Honored by Members of Ladies Organization

Mrs. Reynolds, of Medford, Mass., Grand Trustee of the Ladies' Society of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, paid an official visit to Brunswick Lodge No. 392, on Tuesday and yesterday was the guest of local members at supper before leaving on the Boston train to return to her home.

Afternoon and evening sessions of Brunswick Lodge were held in Prentice Boys' Hall on Tuesday and the members appeared in their new white gowns for the first time. Mrs. Murray Campbell, president, was in the chair and all of the floor work was carried out most impressively. A public meeting was held for installation and the initiation ceremony and the members of the Brotherhood were guests. A very pleasing incident of the meeting was the presentation of a handsome buffet set and a lovely bouquet of flowers to the honored visitor. The presentation was made by Mrs. William Cornfield and Mrs. Reynolds replied in a very gracious manner. At the close of the evening refreshments were served by an efficient committee of which the following were members: Mrs. Bert Kirkpatrick, Mrs. George Lee, Mrs. William Cornfield, Mrs. Ru-dolph Phillips and Mrs. Everett Shea.
