BOWLING.

City League Plans.

Hon. J. B. M. Baxter and Commissioner Thornton will officiate at the opening of the City Bowling League on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock and will oppose each other for the first two frames of the opening game, which will be between the Lions, last year's champions, and the Seacres, who have in other years won the championship. The other teams composing the league this year are the Ramblers and the Nationals. They will bowl on Black's Alley. If possible they will endeavor to excel the scores made in previous years but this will be no easy task. At present, all the Canadian bowling records are held by the City league bowlers and have been made on Black's Alley.

Commercial League.

The G. E. Barbour Co. team took three points from the C. P. R. team in the Commercial League game bowled on Black's Alley last night.

BASKETBALL.

Y. M. C. A. League Organized.

The organization of the basketball teams of the seniors of the Y. M. C. A. House league took place last night and from the various line-ups, there should be some real basketball played this season. There was nearly double the number of players to be chosen from this year and most of the men are novices at basketball. They should make a good showing in matches with the City league teams. Because of difficulty in fitting in times, only four teams were organized and their managers were chosen as follows: Harry Webster, Roy Willet, Andrew Malcolm and Clayton Ureghard. The seniors' schedule starts on Monday, October 31. The captains of the business men's teams in the Y. M. C. A. House league also met last night and selected their teams, arranging for a schedule of games to start on Monday afternoon, November 14. The Y. M. C. A. membership is already well up to last year's total figures and promises to be a record breaker. In all there are 1,100 members and 600 are seniors.

AT THE UNIQUE

Picture Answers Question.

"What's a Wife Worth?"

William Christy Cabanne's new super-special production "What's a Wife Worth?" opened at the Unique last night and met with the unqualified approval of a large and enthusiastic audience. "What's a Wife Worth" is a comedy drama of the highest type. While it sends the audience away with something to think about it cannot be called a sermon or a preachment. It discusses a problem of every day life and while the title puts a question, the picture answers it. The theme of the picture has to do with the marriage of the son of a wealthy house and a street girl of a small village. A dyspeptic father and several parasites and wealth-seekers succeed in destroying the happiness of the pair and a divorce follows. The son marries again and this time is the girl of his father's choice. He is badly stung and soon realizes that his true happiness lies with the village girl, his first wife. Just how a reconciliation is brought about is interesting and the strong climax of a splendid picture.

"HARD DRINKING" OASIS

BEFORE THE CABINET

But No Action is Taken on Reform Societies' Complaints Against Tiajuana's Tourist Lure.

Washington, Oct. 25.—The Cabinet considered briefly but took no action on the "many complaints" with respect to conditions growing out of the unlimited use of passports from San Diego, Cal., to Tiajuana, Mexico. It was said that the question was not regarded as one with which the government could deal at this time.

The Mexican town was represented as attracting many thousands of visitors who were described as going there "for no good purpose." Officials explained that the use of the 24 hour passport could not properly be limited on "moral grounds" and the cabinet therefore laid the complaints aside.

Tiajuana, a border town of Lower California, it has been charged, has attracted tourists with its opportunities for racing, gambling and hard drinking. No announcement was made of the sources of the complaints which resulted in cabinet attention, although it was said that they had come "from several quarters" and formal complaints previously have been filed with the State Department by American reform organizations.

SHOE-MAKING PLANTS

OPERATING AT CAPACITY

(Toronto Mail and Empire).

That few, if any, of the principal shoe manufacturing companies are now in a position to accept orders for delivery in less than six weeks' time and that manufacturers' prices are firm may even advance, were statements made on Thursday by S. Roy Weaver, manager of the Shoe Manufacturers' Association of Canada.

"Within the last month," he said, "there has been a notable improvement in buying, due in part no doubt to the change in season. Many merchants had let their stocks get low and there has been a sudden rush to buy goods. There are practically no job lots outstanding and the majority of the manufacturing plants are operating at capacity. Orders calling for deliveries in less than six weeks' time are being refused."

PANIC IN THE N. Y. SUBWAY

Smoke and Electric Flashes Scare Passengers—Several Hurt in Scramble.

New York, Oct. 25.—Panic seized the passengers in a subway train at 110th street last night and they fought and trampled on one another to make their escape when a short circuit in one of the cars filled the train with smoke and electric flashes. The confusion became worse when the current was shut off, throwing the subway station into darkness.

The train doors were forced open by guards while men and women struggled to get out by way of the windows. Three men were removed to the hospital suffering from bruises and internal injuries while a score of men and women were treated in the station for minor injuries. Half an hour elapsed before traffic was resumed.

CURIOUS SERBIAN STAMP.

Death Mask Found on the First King Peter Issue.

The recent death of the former King Peter of Serbia recalls attention to an unusual set of postage stamps used in 1903 to commemorate Peter's accession to the throne. A few months prior to that event a new set of stamps with the portrait of King Alexander had been prepared, but just before they were ready to be put on sale Alexander, his Queen, the Minister of War and three or four others were assassinated. As the country was then very short of stamps for postal use, the portrait of the murdered king was overprinted with the Serbian arms, completely obliterating the portrait. These stamps did duty for a bout a year.

In 1904 came the new set of stamps, which soon caused more than ordinary interest in philatelic circles through the report that the central design contained, secreted as in a puzzle picture, the mask of the former king. The stamps were oblong in size, the centre containing two portrait medallions, the upper one of King Peter and the lower one of the King of the Turks in the early part of the nineteenth century, and superimposed on the portrait of King Peter. The latter was the chief representative at that time of the dynasty founded by King George, or "Black" George, as he was sometimes called. Besides commemorating the coronation of Peter, the stamps also commemorated the centenary of the Karageorgevitch dynasty, founded by "Black" George, a hero of 1804 and 1806 being placed on either side of the portraits.

With the memory of the late assassin's death so clear this set of stamps did not at first attract very great interest, but when the report of the secret design of the stamps was circulated there was a great demand for them. The so-called death mask stamp was placed on the top of the stamp upside down. The two chiefs of the monarchy formed the forehead of the murdered king, the mustaches, the eyebrows, the nostrils, the eyes, while King George's eye formed the mouth of the death mask. The portrait stands out very clearly, but the engraver, M. Mouchon, indignantly denied that he had made any effort to introduce the secret portrait into the design. It was evidently one of those accidental freaks that often occur in the course of the printing process.

A year or so later the first regular portrait issue of King Peter appeared, depicting him in an oval medallion with an ornamental frame. In 1911 this stamp was replaced by one showing the king in military uniform. Early in the late war Serbia issued a set of stamps showing the king seated on a boulder attended by his staff, watching the progress of a battle. Seven values were prepared, but only the 5, 10 and 20 para values were issued when Nisch fell into the hands of the Austrians, and the Serbian success was effectively stopped. The higher values were captured by the Austrians, who promptly sold a large number of them to dealers. The last Serbian issue depicted Prince Alexander as Regent on some values, while others portrayed the late King Peter.

CHESS MATCH IN ENGLAND

HAS 400 PLAYERS A SIDE

Details of a monster team chess match, to establish a new world's record, have come to hand from London, where, on Sept. 24, 800 players sat down in a contest, 400 on a side, between the North of the Thames and South of the Thames Chess Clubs.

Sign of thirty-five games on total of 217½ to 182½. Comparatively few games were adjudicated.
