Victoria, B. C., Oct. 12th, 1903. To the City Board of School Trustees: Dear Madam and Sirs:-As a member of the first Colonial Board of Education which laid broad and deep the foundations of free education in British Columbia, as a former member and chairman of the Vicfurther, as one who has three members of his family attending the schools in this city. I venture to enter a remonstrance

I am informed that on Thursday, the 1st inst., in at least one of the departments of the Central school in this city, the names of the several candidates for the assembly were written on the blackboard, and blank papers were issued to the pupils, who were instructed to select four names from those on the board, write the four names on the cated. When all had voted, the ballots were counted, and the result announced.

With the result of the balloting I am no concerned, but I wish to offer my individual opinion that a school system which permits the introduction of political polemics among mosities will be engendered by a continuance of this practice which may be main-

Supt. Eaton explained that there were some teachers who when an election was taking place used a ballot purely for educational purposes. He read a letter from Mr. Gillis, in which he explained that a poll which was secret had been taken. This, he understood from the dis-cussion in the past, would have been allowable. Mr. Eaton did not think that attempt made to take advantage of the ballot for any purpose.

Trustee Jay did not think that the taking of a ballot in the schools had been abused, and he did not think that the board should be saddled with the expense of having ballot papers pre-pared. He did not approve of a poll in the schools during election time.

Trustee Jay also thought that the ANNIVERSARY GATHERING.

Social Reunion at the Calvary Baptist Church Thursday Evening.

The members and friends of Calvary Baptist church gathered Thursday for their anniversary social and reunion. On each anniversary of the first reception to Rev. J. F. and Mrs. Vichert a similar gathering has been held, and that of last evening marks the fifth of these. The school room, which had been very tastily decorated, was crowded.

After some time spent in social inter course the pastor called the gathering to order and the programme was intro-duced. Mrs. H. R. McIntyre played very effectively Rider's setting of "Old Hundred." Greetings from a large number of absent members were read, after which a vocal solo, "Could I," by Tosti was sweetly rendered by Miss Zoe Bucknam, and Miss Maude Underhill gave a selection from "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" with such effect that she was enthusiastically recalled and recited a pleasing little poem entitled "Dreams." Addresses were given by Deacon A. J. Clyde and the pastor. Mr. Clyde spoke on behalf of the church and board of officers. Mr. Clyde was one of the charter members of the church, and as such has seen a number of pastors come and go. He commented upon the fact that the present pastorate exceeds in length any previous one. He spoke of the kindly relations that have existed throughout between pastor and people, and voiced, he was sure, the sentiments of all, when he expressed the hope that the present relationship might long continue. A kindly and appreciative reference was also made to Mrs. Vichert, who is absent on an extended visit to Eastern Canada length upon the changes which have constant pieasure. The financial prosperity of the church was cause of congratulation and particularly the successful effort at the present time to deal with the debt. The total amount is not large, but owing to the arrangement which had been made the payments were extended over a long period of years. A settlement has been effected, and now the church is at liberty to pay it off as quickly as it can. The past was able to announce that considerably over $500 is in hand for a payment on principal, and four repetitions of similar payments will abolish the debt.

At the conclusion of the pastor's address Miss Bucknam again sang, rendering "Home They Brought Her Warrior Dead," by Lindsay, very acceptably. Refreshments were then served, after which the gathering dispersed.
