

A very pretty and important social event of the week was the marriage of Miss Louise Robinson to Mr. Charles Robinson, son of Mr. T. B. Robinson of this city.

The marriage took place at Trinity church at 3:30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. The Rev. J. A. Richardson officiating.

The invited guests included only the near relatives of the contracting parties, but long before the hour appointed for the ceremony the spacious edifice was filled with friends anxious to witness the nuptials of the popular young couple.

Precisely at 3:30 the bride entered the church, leaning on the arm of her father. She was richly gowned in cream satin, the bodice being heavily trimmed with chiffon and real lace. The bride veil was caught with orange blossoms and white heather. The bouquet was of white roses, myrtle and white heather. The bridesmaid, Miss Elsie Holden, looked pretty and girlish in a costume of cream serge with white satin and gold braid with Neapolitan hat of cream felt with ostrich plumes; she also carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The maids of honor were Miss Kathleen Holden, sister of the bride and Miss Lenore Allan of Fredericton, a relative of the groom's. These little ladies were daintily attired in costumes of cream serge, similar to that of the bridesmaid and also wearing Neapolitan hats. Mr. Robinson was supported by his friend, Mr. Charles D. Shaw. Messrs. Bowyer, S. Smith, Guy Robinson, C. H. Allen and F. A. Kinslear ably fulfilled the duties of ushers.

As the bride party entered the church the choir sang The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden. Prof. Strand presided at the organ, and at the conclusion of the ceremony the customary wedding march was played.

After the tying of the nuptial knot the guests were driven to the residences of the bride's parents on Charlotte street, where a reception was held and a dainty luncheon served.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson took the early evening train for Newcastle, where they will make their home. A large number of their friends assembled at the depot and with rice and good wishes made things merry until the departure of the train. Both young people were popular in this city's society and will be greatly missed, but they will no doubt be a valued addition to Newcastle's social circles.

The toilettes of the guests were very handsome. Mrs. Holden wore a beautiful and becoming gown of purple silk with black net overdress, a purple velvet hat and grey ostrich boa completed the costume.

Mrs. T. Barclay Robinson, (mother of the groom) in a rich grey silk with jet ornaments, feather boa and dainty bonnet was sweet and dignified.

Mrs. George Blair (Miss Marjorie Holden) was gracefully and stylishly attired in cream serge with heavy lace, satin and gold trimming. She wore a pretty black hat which set off the costume to perfection.

On Monday evening Mr. Percy MacNutt gave a sleigh drive to a number of his young friends. It is almost needless to say that the ride was thoroughly enjoyed by those present. The evening was pleasant and after driving a short distance from the city the guests were entertained at the residence of Mr. P. S. MacNutt, Queen Square. Refreshments were served and dancing indulged in for a short time. Mrs. Frank Beer and Miss Maud Dienstadt acted as chaperones to the young people.

Among the guests were: Miss Ethel Smith, Miss Elsie McLean, Miss Jennie Roberson, Miss Zillah Rankine, Miss Beatrice Lockhart, Miss Florence Bowman, Miss Minnie Girvin, Miss Jean Macaulay, Miss Margaret Dienstadt, Mr. Charles McKivie, Mr. Robert Morgan, Mr. Walter Belting, Mr. Fred Campbell, Mr. George Lockhart, Mr. Harold Purvis, Mr. William McNeil, Mr. Roland Skinner, Mr. Harold Magee, Mr. Roy Likely.

The return of the soldier boys was an event of interest during the week. On their arrival in the city they were received with enthusiasm. Right here it might be out of place to mention that when the reception committee at Halifax was drafting a programme for the entertainment of the heroes, among other things asked of the people was that they "cheer" the boys as they marched along the route of procession. We should be thanking that no such hint was needed in our city and that, the reception accorded the boys in khaki was marked with loyalty and patriotism.

Ross, from St. Paul's Church." The Rev. Wm. A. Macdonald on behalf of the choir and congregation, made the presentation in a very witty and complimentary address. An enjoyable supper was served.
