PUGSLEY VERSUS PEARSON, EMMERSON, ET AL.

The Telegraph has completely broken all the peace that remained between the two journalistic wings of the Federal Government party in this province. Not to be outdone by the Sun's references to "buccaneers," "mercenaries," "parasites," "predators," "barbarians," "skunks," "traitors," and things of that kind, the Telegraph pays its compliments to the Sun and the interest it represents. Thus we learn that the Sun is the "mouth-piece" of "Nova Scotia adventurers" who wish to feather their own nests, that it has repeatedly threatened the Government for refusing to pay its price, and that it is willing to harm the Liberal party to serve the ends of the middlemen. The Telegraph makes a suggestive reference to Mr. Pearson's intercolonial land sale and to his "deal in railway ties." It follows Mr. Carvell in advising the Liberal party not to tolerate any longer Mr. Pearson's journalistic ventures, which are continued only in the hope that someone may buy them off.

Further the Telegraph charges that the Sun "was influential in causing the resignation of Hon. H. R. Emmerson," and is now using him as a club. It warns the Sun and the other Pearson newspapers that they cannot hope "to blackmail the party into a further contribution for the prolongation of their existence," which suggests that they have already blackmailed to some purpose. Finally the Telegraph declares that the Sun "has long since forfeited any claim its owners and backers may once have had to decent consideration," it asserts that its silence will not be paid for and that it will not be allowed to use the Liberal party as a cloak for the schemes of its owners and backers.

More significant than this declaration of war to the knife, is the notice served on Mr. Emmerson, whose recent criticism of intercolonial management is in line with these of the Sun. The Telegraph proposes to wait for developments to show whether Mr. Emmerson has allied himself with the persons who have planned to seize the intercolonial. "If . . . events should show that he has become the associate, the tool, or the spokesman of the insatiable middlemen, he will be recognized from one end of Canada to the other as a political suicide." After calling attention to these significant passages in the organ of the Minister of Public Works, The Standard here prints the article in full. It is headed "The Adventurers":—

"Mr. Graham is honestly desirous that this experiment should be judged on its merits. The Sun is honestly desirous so to judge it and to assist the Government in coming to a definite decision regarding the worth of the system.—The Sun.

"On the contrary, the Sun is dishonestly desirous of having the Government listen to the wild scheme of the Nova Scotia adventurers whose mouthpiece it is, and who have been mad enough to hope that they might possess themselves of the $80,000,000 intercolonial, its revenue, its patronage, and its influence for the feathering of their own unfeathered nests. It is for this purpose that the persons who are trying to bluff the Government into surrendering maintain in Nova Scotia newspapers which support the Liberal administration and in New Brunswick newspapers which have repeatedly threatened it when the price they demanded was denied them.

"Their enterprise is not political. The Sun has shown often enough that its masters do not care what harm is done the Liberal party if only the ends of the middleman may be served. The Liberal party has frequently been called upon in the past to keep the Nova Scotia-owned organs in that city alive, but that has not prevented their masters from attacking the party in the very hour of battle. Such are the journals which daily make profession of pure and lofty motives and of desire to advance the public welfare—a profession to which their own record, and the records of the middlemen who inspire them, give the lie.

"Let no one suppose that the seizure of the intercolonial by this group of patriots is possible. The magnitude of the transaction gives some measure of the enormity of those who have long been tentatively proposing it. But they will not find it so easy as a land sale or a deal in railway ties. The Liberal party in New Brunswick was warned against these adventures some months ago by Mr. F. B. Carvell, M. P. Well informed Liberals knew at that time that every word Mr. Carvell said was abundantly justified, and since his warning was published the nature of the Sun's and its backers' activities has lent additional point to all that he said. Nova Scotia contrives to keep these influences from becoming offensive. They are alien to New Brunswick, and New Brunswick Liberals ought no longer to be asked to tolerate their interference or contribute longer to the support in this province of journalistic ventures for which there is no longer any decent excuse, and which are maintained only in the hope that some day their activities may seem troublesome enough to warrant buying them off.

"The Sun, which in the course of one of its previous issues was influential in causing the resignation of Hon. H. R. Emmerson, is now using that gentleman as a club in its attack upon the I. C. R. board of management. Judgment upon Mr. Emmerson's motives, and speculation as to his intentions, may well await developments sufficient to show whether or not he has in any way allied himself with the persons who have planned to seize the intercolonial. If Mr. Emmerson has constructive criticism of the I. C. R. to offer, if he has gained fresh knowledge of its problems since he was Minister of Railways, his voice must be heard as that of an honest man desiring his country's good. If, on the other hand, events should show that he has become the associate, the tool, or the spokesman of the insatiable middlemen, he will be recognized from one end of Canada to the other as a political suicide.

"The intercolonial is not for the middlemen. Nor can their newspapers in this city hope to blackmail the party into a further contribution for the prolongation of their existence. The Sun has long since forfeited any claim its owners or backers may once have had to decent consideration. No one will buy its silence or the good will of the men whose crazy schemes it seeks to promote. And, it must be made clear that these owners or backers of the Sun cannot be permitted to use the Liberal party of this province as a convenient cloak for their operations."

THE DOCK PROGRAMME.

The deputation which will wait upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues on Tuesday will have strong influences on their side. They will have no trouble to show that the thing they desire is immediately practicable. The right people on both sides of the ocean are concerned in the enterprise, for if the Standard is not mistaken the three companies who have the largest fleets sailing between Canada and Europe are associated with Harland and Wolff. No one will raise the question whether this combination of transportation and shipbuilding interests is in a financial position to go forward with the programme and carry it through.

The Government policy is to have docks and shipbuilding plants established. If the originators of this dock and construction scheme are not encouraged to go on with it, the Government must look elsewhere. Where else will they find a combination so strong, so capable, and having such interest in making the project a success? All governments in Canada have had experience with promoters who began and were not able to finish, and it is not probable that Sir Wilfrid wishes to add to these experiences. He will recognize in such concerns as Harland and Wolff, the Canadian Pacific, the Allan Line, and the Dominion Line, a group of corporations which usually finish what they begin.

The delegates may point out the merits of the point selected for these works. But they do not need to make much argument on this point. The locations were chosen by skilled and experienced agents, who had no interest in one port more than another. The selection is not political. It is not patronage. It was made by strangers who did not take the people of St. John into their confidence while they made their examination. These are not the only places on our extensive coast where docks and shipbuilding plants might be operated, but have been selected on the ground of merit by unprejudiced, impartial referees. Sir Wilfrid would gain nothing by overruling this choice, even if he had some desire to do so, and there is no reason to suppose that he has any objections. The line of least resistance runs through St. John and Lewis.

THE CASE OF DR. COOK.

The people are getting tired of the Peary-Cook controversy, but it is plain that Dr. Cook is losing the advantage which Commander Peary's attack gave him. Dr. Cook knows that a great body of enlightened and fair-minded people doubt his veracity and are sceptical or at least in a state of hesitation concerning his achievement. He ought to consider seriously what is involved in this attitude among people who would be pleased to find his statement true. It means that a large proportion of the most worthy and most intelligent people fear that Dr. Cook is one of the most pitifully mean swindlers that the world has ever seen—a wretched creature who has gained fame and some money by false pretences, and who has tried to steal the glory that belongs to another. If Dr. Cook has deliberately and carefully concocted a falsehood about his ascent of Mt. McKinley and another about his journey to the pole, he is a baser man than most of the prisoners in Sing-Sing. He ought to have the moral sense to see this, and should be hard at work establishing his claim. The Mt. McKinley matter must be easy to clear up. At least it should be easy to meet Barrill face to face to bring to light the persons who have heard Barrill say that Dr. Cook climbed the mountain with him. It was certainly possible to get permission from the University of Copenhagen, for him to make his claim good in his own country, and to establish his right to hold up his head among decent people before sending his records to Denmark.

These are demands that Dr. Cook's honor should have place in the preferred class. But, as the New York Nation points out, he is allowing these matters to wait while he writes popular accounts of his journey and sells them to the press, and while he goes about delivering lectures which bring him in a great deal of money. Dr. Cook is rapidly losing the confidence of those who believed him, and he does not seem to realize it, or else he does not value the confidence so much as he does money and brief hurrahs.

THE REFINERY.

The sugar refinery proposal, cleared of its Courtney Bay land bonus, and explained in detail, begins to take practical form. It is easier to find sugar refinery sites than dock sites, and Mr. Durant has found that he does not need to blast out ledges of rock and excavate a basin at Barrack Point in order to get a place to establish his plant on the waterfront. Much money can be saved by leaving these ledges for a future when land can not be had elsewhere, and leaving Courtney Bay for transportation purposes. The Standard has already said that a new industry of importance would be warmly welcomed in the city of St. John, and one such as Mr. Durant proposes will not find the citizens ungenerous in their treatment. An addition of three hundred or even two hundred able men to the industrial population of the city would be a great gain.

The constitutional British view is that the King cannot be held personally or officially responsible for the misgovernment of the country. This is also a fair view because the ministry is in fact as well as theory responsible. But a group of orators much heard from just now are trying to hold King Edward responsible not only for what happens in Britain but for what is done in Spain.

The October term of the Supreme Court which meets at Portland granted thirty-six divorces. Of these, fourteen were sought on grounds of desertion; thirteen on charges of cruel and abusive treatment; six for confirmed habits of intoxication, and three for adultery. Four petitions were dismissed, and two were denied.

The Sun has the floor this morning. We shall now hear something about the "buccaneers." It would not be surprising if the facts set forth in a certain affidavit, which the Sun has sometimes mentioned, will be useful to that journal in connection with the history of the banditti.

The Sun has said that the Minister of Public Works is not one of the owners of the Telegraph. The recorded ownership of the Telegraph is not known to this journal, but Mr. Pugsley was one of the men who helped buy and pay for the paper when it changed sides last.

It's economy to buy glasses judiciously—get the style that will best suit the purpose for which you intend it. It's not economy to buy glasses where they are cheapest, if that is their greatest recommendation. It's better to buy glasses at a high price and to know they are right, than to be in doubt.
