Following the services, the body was interred in Fernhill.

Another Real Estate Deal. That the boom in St. John real estate is not confined to the Courtenay Bay district is evidenced in the fact that yesterday a deal was put through in the parish of Lancaster involving the transfer of about 12 1/2 acres of land. The sale was made at a figure which paid an unusually generous profit to the vendors, who had purchased the property several years ago.

Scouts on a Sleigh Drive. The Boy Scouts of Trinity church turned out in force last evening and enjoyed a sleigh drive. The boys on their return assembled in the church school room where they enjoyed a lunch. There were addresses by Rev. Robt. A. Armstrong, the pastor of the church, Rev. REFUSED $10,000 FOR CRUIKSHANK PROPERTY

Big Price Offered for Property on Which County Once Held Option for Prison Farm. The enterprising firm of Armstrong & Bruce is not the only firm which believes in, and is working for, a great future for St. John. At the time the firm of Armstrong & Bruce were making arrangements for the sale of the Duncan McLaughlin property, on the Red Head Road, for $25,000 or more, an offer of $10,000 for the Cruikshank property was refused by A. P. Barnhill, trustee for the estate. Not many months ago the county obtained an option on the Cruikshank property when it was proposed to establish a prison farm, for a mere fraction of what is now offered for the property. The county option has expired, and in view of the applications for purchase of the property is not likely to be renewed unless the county authorities are prepared to offer a much bigger price than they were some months ago.
