When you buy a standard na tionally advertised article face are protected with a double guarantee.

Added to the warrant of the manufacturer you have the protection of your own merchant.

In a sense your storckeeper is your attorney in the transaction. He will make good to you and in turn look to the manufacturer to protect him.

It is always best to do business with the merchants of your own town when they have the goods you want.

town when they have the goods you want.

They are in duty bound to see that you are satisfied. In choosing your home merchant it is the part of wisdom to patronise those who advertise.

They are "daylight men" who have put themselves on record in print. They know they can make their advertising pay them only by making it pay you.

As a rule their prices are lower than the others because the advertising brings them a much greater volume of business enabling them to buy in larger quantities and thus at lower prices.

There is no better guide for the thrifty pocket-book than the advertising columns of this newspaper.

Widow of James Bailey, of Circus Fame, Left Her Only the Income of $10,000.

White Plains, Feb. 16—Mrs. Annabelle Hutchison, of Bridgeport (Com.), today won her suit to set aside the will of her sister, the late Mrs. Ruth Louisa Bailey, widow of James A. Bailey, long associated with H. T. Barnum in the ircus business. The will left Mrs. Hutchison an income of $10,000 a year, but by setting it aside she will receive thout $400,000. The estate was valued a about $4,000,000.

The action was brought on the rounds that the executors exerted undue influence on Mrs. Bailey and that she was physically and mentally incompenent to make a will. Mrs. Bailey died ther home in Mount Vernon, March 1, 1912.
