

Sectional views showing about one-half of the Experimental grounds at the Ontario Agricultural College.

tive experimental work which they have continued from year to year. This experience and this enthusiasm have enabled many to conduct the work with commendable accuracy, and with marked success and to the decided advantage of both themselves and others.