

- of Edith, 242; his meeting with Richard, 286; his dexterous swordsmanship, 289; impressive description in his banquet-tent, 308; strikes off the Templar's head, 310; declines Richard's challenge, 313
- Saracens, 8; their reception of Richard, 284
- Schwanker, Jonas, Leopold's fool, 118, 129, 258
- Scotland, relations with England, 25, 70, 417
- Scots, 'fair and false,' 160, 417
- Sheerkohf. See Saladh:
- Simpson, Sir J. Y., 415
- Spruchsprecher*, Leopold's, 118, 129, 258
- Stradlots, 250
- Strauchan, Sir Kenneth's squire, 77, 90
- 199, interrupts Courade's confession, 298; death of, 310, 418
- Thafurs, or Trudentes, 414
- Theodorick of Eugaddi, attacks Saladin, 33; his cave, 37; account of his life, 39, 189; leads Sir Kenneth into the chapel, 45; intercedes for him, 176; stops Gilsland, 185; foretells danger to Richard, 186; dismissed by the Grand Master, 298
- Tristrem, Sir, and forest laws, 260, 418
- Trudenes, or Thafurs, 414
- 'Twas near the fair city of Benevent,' 273
- Tyre, Archbishop of, advises Gilsland, 86; cross-examines El Hakim, 88; his agitation, 92; has audience of Richard, 193; intervenes between Richard and Courade, 256
- VAUX, Thomas de. See Gilsland, Thomas of
- Venetian proreditore, 251, 255
- WALLENRODE, Earl, 127
- Wilderness, of the Dead Sea, 1; of the Temptation, 26
- Wood-stall, Henry, English soldier, 216
- ZORAU, legend of, 29
- Tales of the Crusaders*, ix
- Talisman*, the novel, x
- Talisman, Saladin's, 181; presented to Sir Kenneth, 314. See also Lee Penny
- Templars, character of, 233
- Templars, Grand Master of, described by Richard, 66; personal appearance, 100; visits Richard, 101; plots against him, 106, 202; charges him with arrogance,