Notes and Queries.

The information sought by the query in last month's GAZETTE, will be found in the following note:

The writer of the Patience of Hope, a small work in prose with a strong religious tone, is Dora Greenwell (b. 1821). She began her career as an author by publishing a volume of poems in 1848. This is a list of her subsequent writings: The Power of Faith, exemplified in her life (1849); Stories that might be true (1851); Two Friends (1862); Covenant of Life and Peace (1867); The Patience of Hope (1867); Carmina Crucis (1869); Education of the Imbecile (1869); Colloquia Crucis, a sequel to Two Friends (1871); John Woolman (1871); Songs of Salvation (1873); Soul's Legend (1873); Liber Humanitatis (1875); Camera Obscura (1876); Basket of Summer Fruit (1877).
