Good Health and Success

GO HAND IN HAND WHEN THE BLOOD IS KEPT PURE AND RICH BY

D. Chase's Nerve Food.

Red blood means health, strength, courage, cheerfulness, power of endurance and a well-nourished brain that likes to accomplish things.

The secret of health is, after all, in the blood, for with an abundance of rich, red blood the nervous system is nourished and sustained, the lungs, heart, stomach, liver and kidneys are filled with the vigor and energy necessary to accomplish their work; and there is no room for weakness and disease.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food builds up, strengthens and invigorates the whole human body, because it actually forms rich, red blood.

Indigestion, sleeplessness, nervous headache, irritability, nervousness, lack of energy and strength and failure of the bodily organs to perform their functions are almost invariably the result of poor, weak, watery blood.

The use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food completely overcomes these symptoms, and by filling the whole system with new vigor gives new hope and confidence and replaces weakness and disease with health and strength.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Miscellaneous.

FLEABANE.

The weed sent us by Morris McMurray, Middlesex Co., Ont., who found a patch of it in his pasture field, is the common fleabane (Erigeron Philadelphicus). Having a small root, it can easily be pulled, if occurring in small patches. It is most frequently found in meadows, and the frequent breaking up of meadow land should tend to keep it under control. Though not a very pernicious weed, it is, of course, better out of the land.

REMOVING STUMPS.

Would some of your readers let me know of a cheap and practicable way of removing a number of birch and maple stumps, which are from one to two years dead? Could saltpetre and coal oil be used to advantage in burning them, and how is it applied?

SIMCOE READER.

Ans.—Anybody who knows a better method than blasting or pulling with the stump-lifter would oblige us and our inquirer by sending it to this office. We doubt whether the stumps would burn well yet, though it would do no harm to try fire some time when they are good and dry (taking precautions, of course, to keep the fire from spreading). The only way we know in which kerosene would be useful is pouring a little over the stump and the kindling before setting fire. As for the saltpetre, we do not see how it could be used to advantage in any way.

CEMENT WATER TANK.

How much material would be required to build a cement water tank about 8 ft. long, 20 in. deep, 3 ft. wide? Would you recommend a cement tank for outside work in connection with a windmill, to be exposed to weather?

A. C. H.

Ans.—Calculating upon a basis of 8x3 feet outside dimensions, you would require to provide about two cubic yards of gravel, a small load of field stone (principally to work into the foundation, the bottom of which should be about three feet below the surface of the ground), three or four bushels of sand for plastering the inside of the walls, and for putting the finishing coat on the floor, and about 1½ bbls. of Portland or 2½ bbls. of rock cement. Having had no experience with such a tank, we are not in a position to recommend it, though see no reason why it would not be all right. To avoid danger from freezing, we would bank it up well with earth, and have the inner face of the walls flaring upward and outward. Has any reader had experience with a tank of this kind?

SWEET CLOVER.

A year ago I had a piece of low land plowed and seeded. Sweet clover came up. I cut it down, and kept it from going to seed. The seeding did not take; so, last fall, I top-dressed it, dragged it, and seeded it again. The seed took well. It is fine this spring, but the sweet clover is worse than last fall. Can you tell me any way to get rid of it without plowing, for I want the land for pasture?

A. K.

Lennox Co., Ont.
Ans.—It is not often we hear of sweet clover being troublesome in fields, although in many localities it fairly monopolizes the roadsides. Your land must have been full of the seed, possibly washed there from surrounding points. As it is a legume and improves the soil it grows upon, and as cattle will learn to like the young plants, its presence in the pasture will not prove an unmixed evil. Keep it eaten down rather closely and do not worry about it. To actually rid the field of it, plowing and thorough cultivation to germinate and kill all the seeds in the ground would be necessary. It may be just as well to use the scythe or mower to prevent any plants going to seed. There are many worse weeds than sweet clover.

Mr. John Deane Willis, of Bapton Manor, Codford, Wiltshire, England, is recommended by the Dominion Shorthorn Breeders as judge of Shorthorns at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, first week in September.
