Thursday evening was the occasion for a most delightful mid-summer picnic served on the grounds of R. W. Balloch by the ladies of the Episcopal Sewing Guild. Large tables, laden down with everything luscious as only the ladies in these parts can serve them, were attacked from front, rear and flank at sharp six o'clock by all the towns "Hungry Hanks," and surely all were more than satisfied. The collection taken at the table netted $51, which is to be used towards a fund for the renovation of the church's one foundation. It was rumored during the evening that more of these feasts were to follow. We hope so.

Thursday evening's storm performed a successful operation on the face of the Centreville Hotel. The posts of the fine ornate balcony across the front have been a bit treacherous and uncertain for some time, and the added weight of the heavy shower with a sharp little breeze, effectually razed it. It did a very neat job indeed and did no added damage except one broken pane of glass in the ladies waiting room.

Mrs. Scott and Miss Thelma Scott of Aroostook Jet., are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wiggins.

F. D. Tweedie of Woodstock spent Wednesday and Thursday in town.

David Lament of Glasville was in town last week on business.
