Packed House at the Nickel Theatre.

One of the finest stories of its kind is "The Glorious Fool," which attracted huge audiences at the Nickel Theatre yesterday. It is a story of pathos and humour and deals convincingly and realistically with the career of Jane, a probationer, and the other inmates of a big city hospital. It is a picture that will bring tears of sympathy to your eyes, and smiles of amusement to your lips. You will go away from "The Glorious Fool," feeling you have seen a great deal that goes on in this old world—all in one evening.

Miss Gladys Redstones singing was a feature of this program, well deserving comment. Her renditions were faultlessly delivered. Watch for Max Linder, the noted French comedian and was hero in his great picture, entitled "Be My Wife." Another coming attraction is "Cameron of the Royal Mounted," the biggest picture turned out by Ernest Shipman to date. For more particulars watch the advertising space in this paper.

The crowd all say

And Earnestly pray

To-morrow, Thursday

The 2nd day of May

Will see the last of Coakerism.

Coaker candidates come back to St. John's downhearted.

They admit the Government's defeat.

The North will throw off the stigma that hung to its name for the past eight years.

Bennett will have at least twenty-six seats.

St. John's will give Morris's majorities to Cashin, Lingar and Hunt.

And the highest votes ever polled in St. John's East will be given to Higgins, Fox and Vinicombe.

The Coakerites will not bet that they will get two men in all the Conception Bay districts.

Their last hope was Carbonear, now they refuse to wager against Moore.

In 1919 Dr. Modell and Daily Star in big type were betting thousands of dollars on Squires and his candidates.

In to-day's issue of Telegram they have a chance to make big money.

Twelve thousand five hundred dollars ($12,500) is bet on Bennett and his candidates.

Campbell made much more than this since he secured his snap in the Executive, yet he will not take a chance.

Squires wouldn't miss this amount from the enormous sums given him in 40 months but he is deaf to all challenges.

What about McGrath, Hibbs, Coaker, Barnes, Modell and Warren, who shared in the one and a half millions, bailed out to them since 1919, who, if they think Squires has a chance, would not refuse to add to their little bank accounts.

Last, but not least: What about the Reids who got $16 million dollars from Coaker and Squires. Here's a chance for them to get new automobiles.

But nothing doing. They all see the handwriting on the wall.

They know the people's wishes.

The country refused to be bluffed with scare stories, with deceit and fabrications.

The country does not want another 4 years like the three and a half we have had under Coaker and Squires.

The first count to-morrow night when loyal old Port de Grave will start the ball rolling for Bennett and Better Times.

MacKay is Fort de Grave's choice.

His election with a big majority is certain.

Coaker and Squires lost in every round.

Bennett will beat them badly on points and they are now groggy.

The knock-out blow will be dealt to-morrow.

Up guards and at them

Newfoundland is coming into her own. The country will shout as it never did before.

Committee.

STRAIGHT TICKET TRIO CAN'T LOSE.

At the East End Committee Rooms last night the final arrangements for polling day were completed. The agents and outside workers were addressed by Mr. W. J. Higgins and given final instructions on the duties to be performed. There is absolute assurance that St. John's East will roll up a tremendous majority for the Bennett candidates. The whole country is in line for a change. You can hear it in the air. Bennett and Better Times.

There are 4 grades of roofing felt selling in Newfoundland, "BARRETT'S" is guaranteed the highest grade.

"Barrett's" 1, 2 and 3-ply felts have been in use in Newfoundland for more than 50 years.

The best roof known in America is a "Barrett" roof, "Barrett's" felt ONLY is used in putting on a "Barrett" Roof. Ask any Architect.

"Barrett" 1, 2 and 3-ply felts are really made of felt saturated with genuine coal tar--the 2 and 3-ply felts have a layer of coal tar pitch between each ply.

"Barrett's" felts are made to give good wear, therefore they cost more than roofings made of paper saturated with diluted asphalt.

If you use "Barrett's" felt instead of common felt, a new roof covering for your house may cost you $2.00 more for the whole roof.

Roofs covered with "Barrett's" felt are secure, the extra cost of one or two dollars (for the entire roof) is money well spent.

Which felt do you intend to use?

Architects, Builders and Contractors prefer "Barrett's" Felt.

The Bells of Poland.

One of the strangest caravans ever seen has recently made its way from Russia into Poland. It consisted of 20 large waggons containing 1270 church bells, all of which had been taken from Poland by the Russian troops during the wars of the last few years and were now returned to their former owners by order of the Russian Government.

Their arrival in Warsaw was the occasion of great rejoicing, for many of the bells were of considerable historic interest, dating back to the fifteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, and it is a matter of much satisfaction that, in view of all the destruction that has occurred in recent years, these historic treasures should have escaped the mullion factory and not been melted down for brass.

Instead of booming out death and destruction, as they might have done, they will once again be able to ring out merry peals of joy and hope.

The Slavonic people, amongst whom both the Poles and the Russians are included, are the greatest bell-lovers in the world. Small village churches all over Russia and Poland possess bells that would do honor to an English Cathedral. As a country of bells, however, Russia easily ranks first, and some of the biggest bells in the world are found there.

The hanging of a bell in a town or village church has always been a great ceremony among the Slavs, and no doubt there will be scenes of great solemnity and rejoicing all over Poland when the 1270 returned bells are once again placed in position in their church towers.

Shoeblack to Cabinet Minister.

Mr. James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor in President Harding's Cabinet, gives some interesting personal details in a New York paper. He says: "When I was a boy in Sharon, Pennsylvania, I looked in a pool in the brook and discovered a lot of fish. I broke some branches off a tree, and with this I brushed the fish out of the pool."

"I sold them to a teamster for ten cents. With this I bought shoe blacking and a shoe brush and spent my Saturday blacking boots for travellers at the depot and the hotel."

"I had established a boot-blackening business which I pushed in my spare time for several years. My brush and blacking represented my capital."

Alluding to the fact that he is a Welshman, he said: "I didn't want to leave Wales when my parents were emigrating. When my father signed his American naturalization papers he made his mark, for he could not read nor write. The official wrote in his name, spelling it Davis, and so it has remained."

"When I was sleeping five in a bed with my brothers, there was one
