AT THE FAIR

ECOND DAY DRAWS LARGE

Upwards of two thousand people ncluding a large number from the outports, visited the Mercantile and Industrial Fair at the Prince's and Curling Rinks yesterday. Amongst those present were a large number of distinguished citizens, besides many prominent business men and clergy of all denominations. On entering the rinks visitors are immediately struck with the artistic layout of the booths, and on going around to pay each a visit it can readily be seen that the greatest pains have been taken to make the most attractive display that has been seen here in years, while se in charge of the various booths are most courteous, and visitors who desire information readily receive it.

The dancing platform in the Curling Rink was well patronized last night. The music rendered was of a very high order, and helped to make the time pass enjoyably for all who attended. The Methodist Guards Band rendered appropriate airs in the Prince's Rink from early evening until close up time, which helped greatly in enlivening the proceedings for the large crowd: A double passage way is built between the two rinks somewhat similar to the former custom, so that everybody can pass from one to the other freely. All those present last night were loud in their praise of the entire exhibition.

Following the plan carried out last year by the Telegram, we are giving a detailed account of the booths daily until the whole exhibit is covered. The F. Fawcett, Sackville, have two booths first of these accounts are published

AYRE AND SONS.

Booths 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Messrs. Ayre and Sons occupy Booths Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4, situated near the main entrance in the Prince's ticles that the firm are sole agents for. #### MARSHALL BROS.

The enterprising firm of Messrs. Marshall Bros. has a booth showing a dainty assortment of ladies' wears, of silk and crepe de chene and Canton crepes. In the centre is a ladies' hat designed and handworked by Miss Gallishaw of the Millinery Department. The hat is American shape, trimmed with silk velvet, with a lace scarf to match. This is a fine example of what can be accomplished in this country in the way of home millinery. The feature of the exhibit is a hand painted silk evening dress of beautiful design and colour. The booth has a pretty background, decorated with silk sateen of blue and gold colours, and in keeping with the class of goods

In Memoriam

ARTHUR HISCOCK

While October leaves were falling By the breeze blown here and there; God upon our friend was calling, Death lay loitering cold and near. But he was prepared to meet it, For his soul no terrors knew; Brave and truly he did greet it For his heart was good and true.

Those who first had claimed to meet him, On this day their thoughts partake Memories; like when they did greet him Down by Quidi Vidi Lake. Ah, what thoughts around them hover There they spent bright hours of joy With those far from Terra Nova, Who shall see his face no more.

We must bear life's tribulations Which God sends us from on high; And accept His dispensations With no murmur, or no sigh. Such was done by him, our brother For he knew that God is Love, Trusting in Him, and no other, Now he dwells with Him above.

Oft in memory we shall view him When Regatta Day comes round; Thinking on him, as we knew him On the old Regatta ground Then, in fancy, we shall wander To the hours we once enjoyed, Of the grand deeds we'll grow fonder Of our dear old friend that died.
