Detto and Sultan Warn Americans to Leave Country.

Capture of Leader of Ladrone's Who Cut to Pieces Seven Soldiers.

Manila, June 21.—Col. Baldwin, commanding an American force in the island of Mindanao, has communicated with the Sultan of Bacolod, indicating that it is the intention of the Americans not to interfere with the religion, number of wives or property of the natives, and has received the following reply:

"Detto Tanandanan and Sultan Bacolod to the cavalry general (meaning Gen. Chaffee) and colonel: 'We ask you to retire from Malabang because you are not wanted in Lanao. You must follow our religion and customs or otherwise be responsible for all the Dattos making war.'"

Col. Baldwin says that Bacolod must be conquered before peace is possible.

NOT A STREET CAR WHEEL TURNS IN TORONTO TODAY

And People Trudge to Business in a Pelting Rain.

COMPANY'S OFFERS REFUSED

By a Vote of 545 to 273—Company Will Not Hear of Arbitration—Mr. Ames' Liberal Offer.

Toronto, June 21.—The street railway employees have decided to strike, and all negotiations are off. The meeting lasted from midnight until after 8 o'clock.

The street railway employees, shortly after 5 o'clock this morning, decided to strike, and as a result in the city this morning. The morning was wet, and tens of thousands of people had to walk to work through a drizzling rain.

NOT A CAR WHEEL IS TURNING

The company has two or three hundred men on hand, brought from various out-of-town points, to operate the cars, but so far not a car has been run out of the barns.

A LONG SESSION.

The striking employees remained in session till after 8 o'clock, and then announced that they would meet again at strike headquarters at noon.

A rumor was put in circulation that some men who desired to get out of the meeting (which was held behind locked doors) were prevented from doing so lest they should go over to the company. A sergeant of police visited the meeting at 6 o'clock, but found nothing to justify interference.

TWO POINTS.

The dispute has practically narrowed down to two points:

The company offered a scale of wages beginning at 17 cents and going up to 21 cents an hour, according to length of service.

The men (who at first asked for a flat rate of 25 cents an hour for all employees) offered to accept 18 cents for first-year men, and 20 cents an hour for all over one year in the company's employ. They also made a strong stand for the appointment of a permanent grievance committee, which the company in its ultimatum as strongly refused to grant.

MR. A. E. AMES' OFFER.

Before the vote was taken, President E. Ames, of the board of trade, addressed the meeting and declared that if the men would accept the company's offer he would be glad tomorrow to give them a personal check for $10,000, to be placed to the credit of the pension fund of the employees of the Toronto Railway Company, to be held there for one year, and if at the end of that time there had been no strike the president of that company would hand over the money to the control of a committee appointed by the conductors and motormen.

SIMPLY AS A CITIZEN.

"I simply offer this," said Mr. Ames, in conclusion, as an evidence of the interest I take as a citizen of Toronto." (Cheers.)

A vote by ballot was taken on the company's offer, and the result, as shown on the ballots being counted, it was found that the offer had been rejected by 545 votes to 273.

Most men went into executive session and voted strike.

Meanwhile the board of trade committee made a final effort to influence the men to consent to arbitration, but without success.

COMPANY'S FINAL OFFER.

At 9:30 General Manager Keating announced that no effort would be made to operate cars today, and in explanation issued the following notice to the men:

"Inasmuch as the company recognize that their men are exhausted by their long conference, and therefore physically unable to operate the cars today, the management wishes to state that all the men desiring to continue in the employ of the company are expected to report for duty tomorrow (Sunday) at 7 a.m. and will receive full pay for Saturday." This is the company's last appeal to the men.

PERISHED IN HER BURNING HOME!

Sad Fate of a Lone Woman in Hamilton.

BUFFALO SHOOTING AFFAIR

Ottawa Woman Wheeling on the Devil's Strip Crushed to Death by Car.

Hamilton, Ont., June 21.—Mrs. Hattie Stewart (colored), who lived alone in a small house, 112 McNab street north, was burned to death in a fire which consumed most of her small stock of furniture and a portion of the house. The remains were found by the firemen. Mrs. Stewart was a widow, and acted as cook and domestic for one of her neighbors. Her only surviving relative is a son, on the Cleveland police force.

ON THE DEVIL STRIP.

Ottawa, June 21.—Mrs. Dora Vedder, a young woman about 28 years of age, was killed by a street car on Sparks street Thursday night. She was riding east on a bicycle on the devil strip. To avoid a car coming behind her she turned quickly to cross the street, and ran right in front of a Gladstone avenue car going west. The motorman did not see her in time to drop the fender. He reversed the brakes, but the car was going down a grade and it was too late to avoid the accident. Mrs. Vedder was caught under the fender and shoved along the street by the motor until the car stopped. She was quite dead when taken from under the car.

THREE MEN KILLED.

Johnstown, Pa., June 21.—The Cornish mill of the Cambria Powder Company's plant, at Seward, 19 miles from Johnstown, blew up, killing three men and injuring five others, one of whom has since died. Two others are fatally hurt. The explosion occurred as the men were loading a pot of powder on a wagon. A strange feature of the accident was the fact that one of the men killed was able to walk 300 yards from the scene of the explosion before he fell dead from his terrible burns.

SHOOTING MYSTERY.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 21.—Dr. Jacob F. Meyer, one of the best-known surgeons of this city, was shot last night and almost instantly killed. His wife and almost first person to inform the police of the shooting of her husband, is at an east-side police station. No charge has been made against Mrs. Meyer. The police say she is being kept under surveillance, because of her nervous condition. Mrs. Meyer has made several disconnected statements about the shooting, referring to a scuffle between herself and her husband. Mrs. Meyer is a Toronto woman.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

Carbondale, Pa., June 21.—Robert Meaker, a student of Syracuse University, was killed by a freight train on the Delaware and Hudson Railway yesterday. With him was a classmate, Willis Gardner, of Syracuse. The young men had marked out a hundred yard course along the railway, between the main track and the siding. Meaker was sprinting when the train appeared. Evidently thinking it was on the siding, he kept on running. The engineer vainly blew the whistle several times. Just as the train was abreast of him Meaker sprang to the main track in front of the locomotive. He apparently imagined he was jumping to safety.

For the first time in 70 years the cathedral bells in Peterborough were rung recently.

the aeronaut fainted, and when he came to his senses the earth was 20,000 feet below him. He was a prisoner in an uncontrolled balloon, with the car dangling beneath him, and he was, to add to the horror of the situation, suffering intense physical pain and beset with a sense of impending doom. He brought his character alive and well out of such a situation would be accused of absurd extravagance; yet Col. Templar is alive and well today, and has done yeoman service in the war. Who else among living men can say that he has been carried four miles high entangled in a rope?

Col. Templar's name recalls a mystery of ballooning which never has been and never can be solved. It was he who, twenty years ago, ascended in a balloon with an M. P., who has never since been seen. It was one of the rare occasions when the House of Commons has issued a writ on a presumption of death. Mr. Powell, M.P., was a daring and enthusiastic balloonist, and, with Col. Templar and a mutual friend, he made an ascent in the south of England with a government balloon. When over Weymouth the balloon, through some failure of machinery, fell rapidly to the ground, and two of the aeronauts fell out. Just as suddenly, and just as unexpectedly, the airship rose again—before Mr. Powell had alighted. The M. P. was carried back towards the skies, and from that day to this his fate has been a mystery. Since the moment when Col. Templar, half senseless by his fall, cried to him to descend, nobody has ever seen Mr. Powell, M.P., and not a trace has been found of the balloon.

Hythe has its balloon mystery as well as Weymouth. Nobody has ever heard of the aeronaut who ascended at Hythe in July, 1885. Mr. Percival Spencer, one of the most successful English aeronauts, whose ascents from the Crystal Palace have been witnessed by enormous crowds, was at one time supposed to have disappeared in mid-air. He ascended at Calcutta, in the presence of the governor-general and a quarter of a million people, and the next news of which England was a telegram announcing his disappearance. "He was last seen sitting in the sling at the height of about a mile," ran the telegram. "A fresh wind was carrying him towards the southeast, in the direction of the Sunderbuds. Then, as it grew dark, the local authorities dispatched telegrams to all stations in that direction, but nothing has yet been heard of the balloon or its occupant."

For three days the balloon was missing, and Mr. Spencer was spoken of as dead. "Seldom," wrote an Indian paper, "has Calcutta been thrown into a state of greater excitement and consternation than during the last two or three days, and the unwelcome tragic end of Mr. Spencer has filled society with intense gloom. Wherever one goes he hears nothing but a burst of grief for the brave Englishman who, from a mistaken sense of honor, literally gave a sacrifice of his body to the winds." The gloom was soon lifted from society. Mr. Spencer, who had ascended at a late hour rather than disappoint the large crowd which had assembled, had descended on an island among the natives, three days removed from communication with the world. His ascents and those of his brothers are real contributions to the science of ballooning.—St. James' Gazette.

SOME TALES OF BALLOONS

Thrilling Stories of Adventures in Mid-Air.

Odd Experience of a Daring English Aeronaut.

There is an Englishman still living, the hero of many ascents, who will read the story of M. Severo's death with a thrill of gratitude that he was once saved from such an end. Col. Templar, who has done such excellent work with the army balloon in South Africa, was the subject, many years ago, of perhaps the most remarkable escape ever recorded in the annals of ballooning. He is probably the only man who has carried himself to a height of more than 20,000 feet. To this day he bears on his face the mark of a marvelous experience he can never forget. A sudden gust of wind had blown his companion from the car, sent up the balloon with the colonel alone, and dashed the car against the ornamental ironwork at the top of a gasometer. The collision had a disastrous and tragic effect. The ropes were cut in two, causing the balloon to hang on its side, and the whole of the unsecured instruments to drop out; and a piece of ironwork cut deep into the colonel's face, tearing his cheek.

The balloon, revolving rapidly in mid-air, rose to a great height, the severed ropes twined round the colonel, and he was in the most frightful position the mind can conceive. Then

FOREST FIRES RAGING

IN KING COUNTY, WASH.

Several Towns in Danger of Destruction—Number of Lives in Peril.

Tacoma, Wash., June 21.—The fire department of this city has sent men, engines and hose on a special train to Buckley, in this county, which is threatened with complete destruction by forest fires raging between that town and Enumclaw, King county.

The mountain mill, two miles east of Buckley, has been burned. Undoubtedly many lives of mountain campers and loggers have been lost.

At Buckley the efforts of 100 men are concentrated to save a residence at the east end of Main street, eight blocks from the center of the town. If this house shall burn, with the gale now blowing from the east, the town is doomed.

Enumclaw is threatened with destruction by forest fires. About 40 women and children are shut off by fire from reaching the town and are suffering greatly from heat and smoke. Twenty buildings and a large mill are burning.

Inner Skin Purifying by

Powley's Liquefied Ozone

Gives the complexion a clear, healthy bloom.

The tissues that lie under the inner layer of your skin contain minute sweat glands, fat cells and nutriment arteries. Finely adjusted functions they are too. The least blood impurity throws them all out of order; the congestions affect the inner skin, which in turn communicates its distress to the outer. We call the affections boils, carbuncles, pimples, skin or blood disease, and generally use salve and ointments; leaving the real cause of the disorder to look after itself.

Powley's Liquefied Ozone removes the impurities from the blood and soothes the irritated tissues of the inner skin. By acting on the sweat glands and cleansing the tissues, the impurities are completely expelled—the skin made clear and pure.

EASTERN CONSOLIDATED OIL CO.

Has Paid $75,000 in Dividends at the Rate of 2 Per Cent Monthly on the Investment.

42% Advance in Price 6 DAYS MORE AT 50c A Share in One Week

IT is a fact that those who buy Eastern Consolidated Oil Co. stock this week will make a shrewd and profitable investment, for it positively advances to 50c a share Monday, June 30. Every dollar put in this week will be worth $1.42 in six days. It is a fact that those who bought this stock when it was selling for 25c a share are now receiving nearly 3 per cent monthly in dividends, and now, because of advance to 50c a share, are about to double their money.

Not a speculation, but a certainty. Enormous oil production from 57 active oil wells; thousands of barrels of oil sold monthly to the Standard Oil Co. for cash; 21,000 acres of rich oil lands, scarcely one hundredth part developed.
