

Women's Canadian Club Plans For Garden Party

Annual Function Will Probably Be Held On June 12 At the Western University Grounds.

Plans were made for the holding of the annual Women's Canadian Club garden party at a meeting of the executive of the club held this week at the home of Mrs. A. T. Edwards. Weather permitting, this function, which has become an important and attractive event in the year's program, will probably be held at the Western University grounds about June 12. A most interesting program is being prepared by the executive. Other business of the executive included the appointment of Mrs. T. H. Benson and Mrs. May Greenslade to go to Woodstock on Friday of this week to present the Canadian Club shield, won by the Woodstock Collegiate in the inter-collegiate debating championship.

Committees for the coming year were also appointed including the following: Lecture committee, Miss Ethel Teasdale, Miss Susan Blackburn, Miss Marjorie Tolhurst, Mrs. William Beattie, Mrs. O. A. Hunt and Mrs. C. B. King; social, Mrs. Mungo Nelles, Mrs. T. H. Benson, Mrs. E. H. Jeeves and Mrs. A. T. Edwards; press representatives, Mrs. C. B. King, Mrs. A. T. Edwards and Mrs. F. W. Hughes; memorial tower committee, Miss Grace Blackburn, Mrs. A. T. Edwards, Mrs. Harry Coleman and Miss Mary Grant.

Plans will begin in the fall towards raising funds for the erection of this tower at Springbank in memory of the men who died in the Great War. The intention is that the tower will be built of rugged stone, round in structure like the Irish towers, and that inside will be placed memorial tablets to the regiments of Western Ontario and the men who died during the war.

Service in the Great War. The tower was proposed some time ago by Miss Grace Blackburn and she will act as convener of the committee.

Your Home and You

By HELEN KENDALL.

TAKING CARE OF HERSELF.

By HELEN KENDALL.

Last week I spent a day or two with an old school friend, who now lives out in the suburbs with her charming family of boys and girls, not to mention the man himself. The countryside was lovely in its spring green and blossoming, and during the late afternoon we walked down by the banks of a narrow but swift little river, which ran near their home. As we reached the stream we heard voices around its hidden bend, and a moment later a canoe slipped into sight, in which sat my hostess' little girl and a boy from a neighboring country place.

My natural bump of caution rose up at once.

"Do you let her go canoeing in that rocky, swiftly little river?" I inquired. "Isn't it dangerous? A canoe upset would be a fearful thing to let her go out in that fragile affair, in water that is almost rapids."

"She has been taught to take care of herself in emergencies," replied the mother, quietly. "I made up my mind early in my parenthood that if I was going to be afraid for my children and hold them back from risky experiences, they would never acquire self-reliance and resourcefulness. So within reasonable limits, they are given a free rein. Of course I don't let them go into actual, unmistakable danger, but when the risk is slight, and I can see that the danger is and how to avoid it, I let them do almost anything."

"Belay has been taught how to handle a paddle. She knows how to swim. She can tip a canoe over in the water, right it, and get back into it. She knows the dangers of rapid water and of hidden rocks, and has been taught to steer her canoe through them. We try to acquaint her with the danger in every outdoor sport and how to meet the danger, but we let her get experiences (her scares now and then), instead of coddling her up in cotton and never letting her learn to take care of herself."

"I have had to train myself not to worry about her and trust her own use of her thinking apparatus and her nerve. She knows that recklessness is not sportsmanlike, and that her father and mother would not be so wise thing, not the daring thing. That being understood, we give her perfect freedom and encourage her fearlessness as well as our own."

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service, New York.)

Children Give Clever Recital

Illustrate Fletcher Method At Institute.

A very interesting and instructive recital was given by the pupils of Miss Hazel Taylor on Tuesday evening at the Institute of Musical Art. The first part of the program demonstrated just what has been taught to the children who have been studying music according to the Fletcher method during the last year.

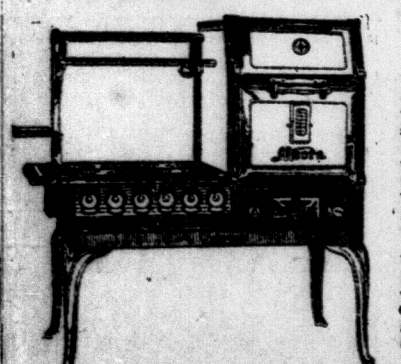

The manner in which the children wrote notes, scales, and chords on the blackboard, took the keyboard apart and built it up again in about three minutes, transposed pieces into all keys and divided series of notes into measures was very clever, and reflected great credit on their teacher. Following this a short program was presented.

Those who were participants in this recital were: Betty Fraser, Marion Marsh, Marion Lewis, Marjorie Lewis, Catharine Plesford, Lorene Short, Florence Wilson, Verona Wilson, Jean Hall, Helen Dyson, Mata Taylor, Annie Shannon, Norma Taylor, Jack Babb, Hartnell Calcott, Jack Bisset, Jack Taylor, Charles Sherlock, Maurice Taylor, Fred Smith and Larry Taylor.

ON THE SQUARE
IT'S AN
ALL-ROUND REMEDY
MALTBY'S
THREE-IN-ONE
HEADACHE POWDERS
Gives Instant Relief
25c a Tube
At Your Druggist

ENTERTAINMENT AGED PEOPLE.
The inmates of the Agri People's Home, Richmond street, enjoyed a delightful entertainment Monday evening, when the concert party from Queen Alexandra Sanatorium visited the home. A clever sketch was presented by a number of the men, and music was provided by the sanatorium orchestra. The evening's program was greatly appreciated by the guests.

Moore's ELECTRIC RANGES
Advanced Design
The Moore Electric Range is several steps ahead in construction. The flush reciprocating switches, automatic pilot, the electric welded enamel oven; for cleaning; combination burners; All special features in Moore's Electric Ranges.

The D. Moore Company, Limited, Manufacturers, Hamilton, Ontario, for 75 years in stove building. Guaranteed by the makers. Have a cool kitchen this Summer. No heat wasted.

LONDON BLIND PEOPLE COST INSTITUTE $5,000

Mrs. John I. A. Hunt Presents
Appeal From Mrs. Adams of Toronto.

Mrs. John I. A. Hunt makes an earnest appeal to the citizens of London that they support with their money, the L. O. D. E. Tag Day in aid of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, which is to be held in the city next Saturday. Mrs. Hunt, while visiting the Caledon Club during the past week, met Mrs. Adams of Toronto, who began the Institute for the Blind work in Canada. And through contact with her she has become most enthusiastic in the cause.

According to Mrs. Adams $5,000 is spent each year by the Canadian Institute to educate the blind of this city, of whom there are 48 receiving treatment and instruction. A resident teacher is employed in the city training adults to be self-supporting. In spite of this large expenditure in London, Canada has never contributed any money to the support of the Blind Institute. An opportunity is being presented by the L. O. D. E. on Saturday next, however, and it is hoped that a splendid sum will be raised.

Mrs. Hunt explains that until this work of the Institute was organized no blind people of the community over 13 years of age were trained to be self-supporting, or even partially self-supporting. These blind citizens are an asset to the community. All children born blind are registered, and after seven years of age they were sent to the Blind School at Brantford until 18 years of age. Other blind people were simply not considered.

Now, however, under the splendid teaching system of the National Institute for the Blind, these older blind men and women have become an asset to the community, producing quantities of white ware by the use of high power sewing machines, very fine basketry and brooms of perfect workmanship. All this work from Vancouver to Halifax is marketed in Toronto.

Mrs. Hunt, who has become most enthusiastic over the work, expects to go to Toronto within the next few weeks to see how everything is accomplished.

Mrs. J. McNevin Is New President

Elected First Officer of Hale Street Club.

A new executive was installed at the annual meeting of the Hale Street Mothers' Club, held Monday evening, when the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. J. McNevin; vice-president, Mrs. Robert Nevin; secretary, Mrs. Tomlin; assistant secretary, Mrs. E. Henshaw; treasurer, Mrs. J. Johnston; social convener, Mrs. Beamish; program convener, Mrs. Hoskin; pianist, Mrs. F. Bell; visiting committee, Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. J. Johnston; and Mrs. T. Lashbrook, and child welfare convener, Mrs. J. Hoseny. Mr. M. Garrett, the principal, presided over the election.

A collection, which was taken up, as a means of raising money in place of holding a garden party this year, amounted to $30. Plans were made for a picnic to be held July 10, at Springbank. Blocks were distributed among the members for a crazy quilt, to be made during the summer months, and disposed of in the fall. This quilt will be monogrammed, and made in the school colors.

WEDDINGS

BAGNALL-GLENN.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Glenn of Galtwhor, Ont., on Wednesday, May 23, at 2 o'clock, when their daughter, Mary Louise, was united in marriage to Mr. Earl Wilfred Bagnall of St. Marys, Ont. Rev. W. J. Eccleston, rector of Christ Church, Galtwhor, officiated. The bride, prettily gowned in ivory, carried a shower bouquet of roses and valley lilies, entered the living room leaning on the arm of her father. The bride couple took their places under an arch of roses and apple blossoms, to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by the bridesmaid, Miss Anna Bagnall. The bridesmaid, Miss Anna Bagnall, sister of the bride, wore a pink crepe and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Louise Hyndman, niece of the bride, was in pale pink tulle and carrying a basket of butterfly roses and snapdragons. Mr. Keith McPherson supported the bridegroom.

After the marriage ceremony a wedding dinner was served in the dining-room. The tables being beautifully decorated with roses and valley lilies. All the immediate relatives were present. The bride and groom were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts. Among the gifts were several checks and a cabinet of cut-glass from the Hurley Co., Limited, Chicago, with whom the bride had been associated for some years. The groom's gift to the bride was a sunburst of pearls. Mr. Bagnall left amid showers of confetti by motor car for a short trip and on their return will take up their residence in St. Marys.

JACKSON-MOWAT.

A wedding of much interest was solemnized in Woodstock Thursday, May 24, when Miss Robina Mowat, granddaughter of Mrs. William Stewart, Komoka, was married to Mr. Leon W. Jackson of London. They are spending their wedding trip in Detroit and Leamington.

COPE-BARKER.

A quiet wedding took place on Thursday, May 24, at the Methodist church, Beavville, when Cora Adeline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Barker of Embro, became the bride of Douglas James Cope, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Cope, also of Beavville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. C. Raymer, and the happy couple were attended by Mrs. L. E. Totten, and Mrs. Barker, brother of the bride. The bride wore a suit of navy blue tulle, and was accompanied by her bridesmaid, Miss M. Cope, who wore a pink dress. The bridesmaid's bouquet was of pink roses.

The happy couple left to spend their honeymoon in London, and upon their return will reside in Detroit.

MRS. J. M. McEVROY.

president of the London Presbyterian, who is spending this month and the coming month visiting the district W. M. S. meetings of the Presbytery. Yesterday she addressed an important meeting held at Ivan.

PRESBYTERIAL TO ASK INCREASE IN GIVINGS

Raise Budget For 1923 To $15,000 At Yesterday's Executive Meeting.

A letter from the finance committee was read at the meeting of the London Presbyterian executive held yesterday afternoon, asking for a 5 per cent increase in the givings of all auxiliaries, making the objective for the budget for 1923 $15,000.

Mrs. F. Ballantyne reported that the supplies were ready for the new hospital at Hearst, in Northern Ontario. An appeal was made by Mrs. J. Middleton, library secretary, for two well-known publications to be sent to the hospital.

Mrs. W. A. Tanner, in the absence of Mrs. M. McEvoy, Mrs. S. R. McIntosh presided.

Fashions by Wire

Special Copy To The Advertiser.

Paris, May 23.—Cotton crepe is by no means disdained as a material for suits this season. The suits may be either sport or semi-formal. One of the latter seen today was of coral crepe, embroidered in black. The collar had a hint of the crown.

Must Have Flowers.

Paris, May 23.—Flowers are in such vogue today as trimmings, both for dress and millinery, that the quaint garland of flowers has returned to modishness once more. Afternoon gowns as well as evening gowns have trailing flowered vines hanging over the shoulders or down the skirt.

Narrow Skirt Looks Wide.

London, May 23.—A skirt which is narrow but gives the effect of being wide is an advantage understood only by the designer thereof, but nevertheless a chick idea—uses panels effectively. Upon a yoke over the narrow skirt, the panels are gathered at the waistline.

A Hot-Weather Hat.

London, May 23.—A delightful hot-weather hat shown here today is very wide and deep, with a high crown. It is of yellow straw, faced with pale blue georgette, the unusual trimming is black lacquered leaves arranged on top of the crown.

Still Newer Earrings.

New York, May 23.—The newest kind of earrings, at a time when there is a new kind every day, is of treated crystal. The ornament is a big oblong on a tiny chain of crystals. In the center of the oblong is a clear, star-shaped space.

Bathing Suits Are Loud.

New York, May 23.—It is not likely that sharks will trouble bathers this summer. No shark would attempt a mouthful of orange and purple, done in the latest fashion, with stockings of purple and orange, done in even more batik fashion, and a turban also batik of orange, purple and bright green.

Walking Stick Fashionable.

New York, May 23.—A walking stick is not absolutely compulsory with a sports suit, but judging from her rather the suburban roads today it seems advisable. The head of the stick usually matches in color the handbag, if that is red or green or some striking shade.

REBEKAHS, I.O.O.F. LODGE MARCH TO CAYUGA CHURCH

Special To The Advertiser.

Cayuga, May 23.—The members of the local Rebekah and I. O. O. F. lodges, with a number of their members, marched to Knox Church for service Sunday afternoon. The procession was headed by the town band. A masterful discourse was delivered by Rev. W. G. Blake. Music was rendered by a union choir, the solo, "Leave it with Him," by Mrs. E. H. Hoshal, being most beautifully rendered.

Mothers and Their Children

WHERE FAULT LIES.
I feel that it is unfair to correct my child for a fault when I commit a like one. I realize that many of the unpleasant traits in her character are inherited from me, and I owe it to her to get rid of them myself. I have known a mother to punish her child for lying, when the child knew her mother was habitually untruthful.

Miss Stewart Ventures Into the Wilds of India

London Presbyterian Missionary Visits Villages Never Before Visited By Missionaries—Is Well Received.

Miss Irene Stewart, daughter of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. R. Stewart of Dutton, and one of the missionaries sent by the London Presbytery to Central India, writes home an interesting account of her first tour among the hill villages as a travelling missionary.

Of all the experiences a new missionary has in India, she writes, the first tour among the hill villages is, perhaps, the most fascinating. From the day when one must rise early in the morning to see that one's tent and baggage are loaded on the carts in a way that will resist the jolting over rough country roads, to the time when one arrives home tired after a tedious drive over these same roads, every hour is filled with interest.

Our first camping place was in a beautiful banyan grove at the side of a bit of good road near the bank of a river. The ox cart with our luggage had preceded us, and we found our canvas houses ready for occupation when we arrived.

Pantry On a Limb.

Near our tent was the fireplace made of stones the cook had collected, and hanging from the limb of a tree was a box made of wood and wire-netting and fitted with shelves. A short distance in front of the tent stood the "Hat Pipla" Travelling Dispensary, a small chest which sat on the back of our tonga.

As soon as our tent was pitched the camp became the center of attraction for the village. Only twice had any missionary visited this village, and the last visit was made two years ago, but we found that several of the small boys who haunted us remembered the hymns they had been "bugged" on.

The officials of the village visited us in a body, and inquired after all our relatives. They were particularly anxious to know where our husbands were. When we said they were not east our visitors looked very surprised, and immediately decided that we were "Brahmacharyas" or celibates. We let the matter rest at that.

"We Had 'Khana."

In one village we found that the Patel (chief) was the brother-in-law of the Patel of a village near Hat Pipla, who is very friendly to us and our work. He insisted on making a "khana" or dinner for us, which delayed us considerably, but seemed to afford him a great deal of pleasure.

In another village the wife of the Patel, an elderly woman, absolutely refused to hear us, but after we had had a meeting in another part of the village she came and asked for medicine, apologizing for her rudeness by telling us that she was deaf and didn't understand what we wanted.

In a village about four miles from camp, approached by a beautiful lane with a very bad road, but with green fields on either side, in which peacocks flaunted themselves and an occasional monkey peeped out at us, we treated 60 people for various diseases, and sold all the books we had with us. As far as we could learn, the missionary had ever visited this village before.

Social and Personal

Miss Eileen Boomer is visiting in New York and Atlantic City.

Mrs. Milton Schroder has returned home after visiting in Detroit.

Mr. Becher of Vancouver is a guest with Mr. and Mrs. John Weld, Ridout street.

Mrs. W. Ferrier of Toronto is a guest of her sister, Mrs. R. Neville, Elmwood avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John I. A. Hunt have returned home after a delightful visit at the Caledon Club.

Miss Moore was the hostess of a dinner at the "Kennels" this week. Covers were laid for ten.

Mrs. A. J. Hayes of Windsor was a week-end guest with Mrs. J. F. Hickley, St. George apartments.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Groschow of Detroit were week-end guests of Mrs. J. B. Groschow, Hyman street.

The Soldiers' Wives League is planning a tea and musicale to be held some time in the early summer.

Mrs. Bray, accompanied by her son, Bobby, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Macdonald, Ridout street.

Miss Berte Jackson, Hayman Court, was a week-end guest with her sister, Mrs. M. W. Pollock and Mr. Pollock, Detroit.

Mrs. James Jones and Mrs. L. Gay of Windsor have returned home after a week-end visit with Mr. Henry Maul, 253 Ottawa avenue.

Mrs. C. B. King and family are leaving early in June for their summer cottage at Lake Michigan, where they will spend the summer.

Mrs. Lionel Elliot, Ridout street, entertained at a small bridge yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Niven's guests.

Miss Minnie Walker of Port Huron was a week-end visitor in town with her sisters, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. J. B. Groschow and Miss R. Walker, Hyman street.

Mrs. J. M. McEvoy and Miss Margaret Johnston, a June bride-elect, Miss Jean Jarvis arranged a charming bridge at her home in Elmwood avenue, yesterday afternoon. Four tables were in play and following bridge tea was served. Mrs. W. F. D. Jarvis presided over the tea table, and Mrs. Fred White cut the cake. The guests were: Miss Margaret Johnston, Mrs. Arthur Brickenden, Mrs. C. B. King, Mrs. Kenneth Greene, Mrs. Van Gordon, Mrs. Olat Reichtler, and Miss Shirley Weiss, Angela McPhillips, Jessie Gillespie, Gwen Scandrett, Doris Belton, Lorraine White, Connie Masurett, Babbie Chisholm, Kathleen Coles and K. White.

Complimenting Miss Margaret Johnston, a June bride-elect, Miss Jean Jarvis arranged a charming bridge at her home in Elmwood avenue, yesterday afternoon. Four tables were in play and following bridge tea was served. Mrs. W. F. D. Jarvis presided over the tea table, and Mrs. Fred White cut the cake. The guests were: Miss Margaret Johnston, Mrs. Arthur Brickenden, Mrs. C. B. King, Mrs. Kenneth Greene, Mrs. Van Gordon, Mrs. Olat Reichtler, and Miss Shirley Weiss, Angela McPhillips, Jessie Gillespie, Gwen Scandrett, Doris Belton, Lorraine White, Connie Masurett, Babbie Chisholm, Kathleen Coles and K. White.

The members of the nursing staff and medical staff of the Ontario Hospital are arranging a banquet on Thursday evening of this week in honor of the graduating nurses, Miss Irene Sproule, Miss Eva Whittaker, Miss Christine Sutherland, and Miss Eva Sinclair. The dinner, which will be held in the amusement hall of the hospital, will be one of the outstanding events of the year.

WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

The Women's Christian Association has been doing splendid work in the renovation of the Aged People's Home, North London. The whole building has been redecorated, and a new superintendent, Miss Little, is now in charge. Miss Margaret Johnston, Mrs. Arthur Brickenden, Mrs. C. B. King, Mrs. Kenneth Greene, Mrs. Van Gordon, Mrs. Olat Reichtler, and Miss Shirley Weiss, Angela McPhillips, Jessie Gillespie, Gwen Scandrett, Doris Belton, Lorraine White, Connie Masurett, Babbie Chisholm, Kathleen Coles and K. White.

LIBRARY CLUB MEETS.

Mrs. Roy Dingle gave an interesting address on "Hergesheim" and his works, at the meeting of the Library Club which was held Monday evening. This meeting, which was presided over by the vice-president, Miss Dorothy Walter, will be the final meeting for this season.

KNOX CHURCH W. A.

The young girls of the church took charge of the program of the Knox Church Women's Auxiliary meeting held Monday afternoon, Mrs. W. E. Kelly in the chair. The chief feature was an attractive missionary pageant. Vocal numbers were given by Miss Clara Brighton and Miss Gladys McEvoy.

TEACHING MORALITY.
By ANGELO PATRI.

"It seems to be very difficult to get boys and girls who are honest," said the businessman to the school-masters, and he said it with an air of reproach. "They are not truthful, not trustworthy, not dependable."

The reproach deepened into grievance.

"You school people ought to teach morality. You are failing to teach character."

Grievance had become resentment.

"No? You should train children toward fine character. We do teach morality. We teach a high standard of ethics—only to be laughed at for our pains!"

"What, sir? Who laughs at teaching morality?"

"The businessmen, the 'red-blooded' men, the captains of industry, the hustlers, the 'go-getters.' School boys morality is a joke to them, and you can't expect a boy to stand up and do that sort of thing. He admires the leaders of the real world. School, morality is not the real world. You businessmen have said that very often, you know."

"I don't understand you at all, sir. Not at all."

"No? You know the school code of morality or ethics, I'm sure. It has been faithfully taught in every school in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy."

"The old gentleman wringed a bit in his chair. 'Why? Why not? We are decent enough, I hope?'"

"But does the boy's code fit? Does what the teacher taught him work? Could the boy live one day in your office and keep the code and his job?"

"Of course he could. I'd like to have one that tried just once. He could have anything in the place, sir."

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"

"The schoolman dug out a little book from under the piles of paper on his table and read this note: 'I in the land. Tell the truth and shame the devil. Honesty is the best policy.'"