

Farmer-Labor Seen In East Middlesex :: Mayor's Salary Held At $1,800 Yearly

LABOR IN LONDON WILL MEET U.F.O.

East Middlesex Candidate Will Be Chosen Following the Toronto Convention.

A Progressive-Labor nominee in East Middlesex is quite possible in the opinion of many London Labor men in the next federal election. On April 10 and 11 the Ontario branch of the Dominion Labor party meets in convention in Toronto. A large and representative delegation from the U. F. O. will be there and a united Progressive-Labor candidate will be suggested and discussed.

No public pronouncement will be made by either party until after the convention.

Now that the Tories have made their choice and have selected King Hodgins of Lucan as their standard-bearer, the other parties will soon be under way.

Neither John Colbert nor Arthur Mould, presidents respectively of the London trades and labor council and the London Labor party, have considered standing, nor have they been approached, although their names have been mentioned as possible candidates in East Middlesex under the dual banner.

It is generally thought that Archie Hodgins, the present U. F. O. member for East Middlesex, has had enough of the federal arena and that he will not again be a candidate.

That there will be a three-cornered fight in this city and urban riding is certain. All parties are confident that this arrangement will send their man back to Ottawa and organization and preparation are the order of the day with every worker in each of the four parties.

STUDENTS' EXHIBITION TO BE OPENED TONIGHT

Annual Technical Display Will Continue Until Wednesday Night.

The annual exhibition of students' work at the London technical school will open tonight and will continue until Wednesday night.

Tonight will be parents' night, when the staff and students will unite in welcoming the fathers and mothers of those attending the technical school.

An opportunity will be offered any parents who wish to consult with Principal H. B. Beal the heads of departments or any of the instructors to do so with regard to the work being done by their children or the course to be taken up by the individual student.

The exhibition of students' work is always one of the outstanding events of the year at the technical high school, and this year's exhibition will be no exception to that rule.

The school will be thrown open to the public on Tuesday afternoon and evening, and also on Wednesday afternoon and evening in order that the citizens may become familiar with the work being accomplished at the technical school.

HORSES SHOW EFFECTS OF "SNOWBALL" DIET

Humane Inspector Keeping a Wary Eye For Ill-Fed Animals.

Inspector George Tustin of the Humane Society is not particularly impressed at the manner in which some district farmers have wintered their horses. On Saturday morning the inspector ordered seven farm horses from the streets and seized two other nags that looked as if they had been fed on snowballs all winter.

"Some of the horses didn't look as if they had a decent meal all winter," declared the inspector. "I warned the farmers with poor-looking animals on Saturday, and if I catch them again, I will have them appear before Magistrate Graydon."

HUSBAND STILL MISSING WOMAN SEEKS CHARITY

Mrs. Thomas Barnes, Edward Street, Unable to Cash Pension Checks.

The disappearance more than a week ago of Thomas Barnes from his home at 126 Edward street has caused his wife to seek the aid of charitable organizations for her maintenance. Barnes, who is a returned soldier and patient at Westminster hospital, wandered from his home a week ago. Police aid was enlisted in an effort to locate the missing man, but, according to Chief Birrell, no word of his whereabouts has as yet been received at the police department.

Mrs. Barnes is unable to cash her husband's weekly pension checks without his signature being affixed, and as a result she is practically destitute. She appealed at police headquarters again this morning, and asked that a picture of her husband be sent in circular form to Western Ontario centers.

The police station took on all the appearance of an old-time barroom this afternoon when License Inspector Walter Bolton and Inspector "Bud" Lucas prepared a large consignment of recently seized wet goods for shipment to Toronto.

There were numerous bottles of whiskey, both good and bad, ale and beer, and dozens of cans of alcohol. A large motor truck backed up to the police station door and carted the liquor to the C. N. R. where it was forwarded to the license department at Toronto.

FLOWERS OUT IN WEEK.

The flowers around the C. P. R. station will be blooming in another week if the weather continues fair. Already many tender shoots of brilliant green have sprouted on the northern side of the tracks where the sun is warmest.

The spring flower planting program of the railway will be carried out shortly, but there are a few hardy perennials that will bloom before the others are planted.

HUGE DAMAGE CAUSED BY N. ENGLAND FLOODS

Thousands of Dollars Loss When Buildings Collapse—Washouts Block Trains.

Associated Press Despatch. Boston, Mass., March 30.—Snow, hail and floods of rain descended on all New England yesterday, causing thousands of dollars' damage and at least one death when an automobile driver, whose vision was obscured by snow, ran down a man on a Providence, R. I., street.

Randolph, Vt., was the community which suffered the most. Six buildings slid into the swollen waters of the second branch of the White river; a tenement which had been weakened by burning so that it might not clog the stream; two dams were carried away with attendant loss of power to factories, and the water mains of the town burst.

The roof of a three-story building in Manchester, N. H., collapsed under the weight of water. No one was hurt, but the damage was estimated at $20,000. Lightning played its part in the havoc. At Glenove, Rock, and Me., a bolt entered the power station, plunging five towns into darkness. Another bolt struck the water tower of a mill at Union, N. H., crippling the plant. Several high-pressure lines in England were made inoperative by washouts, and trains in several instances were delayed.

Boys, In Great Head Work Score Two Real Knock-Outs

No one except the boys themselves knew what the trouble was. It must have been serious for they decided to fight it out. Two bouts were required to settle the dispute. Both boys scored a unique knockout in the last round of bout No. 2. The fight was called a draw. It happened this way.

One afternoon last week, Archie Ramer, assistant physical director of the Y. M. C. A., had just finished putting some school boys through their exercises in the gym when he came across a couple of lightweight boxers exchanging body blows and uppercuts in the morning. The boys were fighting with a spirit and technique that he had never seen before. They were more than made up with enthusiasm.

With the idea of protecting the boys under his care, Mr. Ramer parted them and told them to forget it. This they refused to do. They began again and again. They began to get head on head. They were separated once more and their trainer in the physical department told them to come back Friday if they wanted to finish the battle. He supposed that they would forget the incident.

They did nothing of the kind. On Friday they arrived at the Y. M. C. A. together, determined that the fight would be fought to the finish. There was nothing to do but let them have the fun they were promised.

Trainers, seconds and spectators gathered and the gloves were brought out. When the gong sounded the pouncing started. The spar-ring of the nimble featherweights put the boys in a position to cut the air while the spectators waited for the fighters to come in contact with something solid. It came at the end of the round.

The battlers were flinging their arms about in a flail fashion, hoping against hope that they would connect with the solar plexus of the opponent. Then a strange thing happened. Each man measured his arms about his head and then they both missed, but the force of the swings carried them forward at a giddy pace. They met head on like two charging billy goats. They reeled with the impact. The referee counted ten. The fight was over.

HUSBANDS MUST CUT "ROUGH STUFF"

London Township Man Is Warned That Prison Term Awaits Him.

Married men in the county of Middlesex have got to behave. They cannot swear at their wives, "treat 'em rough" or use even the semblance of cave men methods under the home roof. If they do, and it comes to the attention of County Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw or High Constable Wharton, these erring husbands are due for an extended trip to the county jail.

William Bell, a resident of London township, will be yanked back to court if he allows his temper to drift away with him and says words that he shouldn't every time his wife mentions the word "work" to him.

"This is your last chance," Magistrate Hawkshaw told Bell. "Magistrate Hawkshaw told Bell. 'You will be allowed out on suspended sentence and if you do this again, you won't drive a team for quite a long time. You will get all that the law allows. Do you understand?'"

Bell said that he understood.

Mr. Bell was charged with neglecting to provide for his wife and was also charged with using bad language.

"I plead guilty to swearing, but I haven't been able to work for 10 months," he told the court. "I have lumbago and other things wrong with me. I couldn't work."

"Your wife goes out and works and scrubs, and then when she goes home you swear at her," observed the magistrate.

"She nags all the time at me," protested William.

"You were offered a job at 23 a day and wouldn't take it because it wasn't enough, didn't you?" queried the court.

"No, couldn't work that day," replied the prisoner, who had been languishing in the jail since Friday night. "She nags me and I lose my temper."

"As soon as I mention work to him, he starts to swear," said Mrs. Bell. "It is not very nice in front of the children."

"Well, what are you going to do, are you going to work or to jail?" asked the court.

"Work," promptly replied Bell. "My boy is going to get me a team and I start to work on April 1."

"Don't fool yourself about it then," came back the court.

"If I had a separation, I could live in peace," stated Mrs. Bell.

"You go ahead and start to work, and if you don't behave properly, your wife will have to do will be to notify the high constable and you can be brought back here and sentenced," declared the magistrate.

NURMI NOT HELD AS IDEAL ATHLETE

"Y" Physical Director Admits Finn's Greatness, But Is Against Copying Him.

While admitting that Nurmi, the flying Finn, was a wonder and the greatest athlete of all time, J. H. Crocker, director of the Y. M. C. A. at Toronto, advised members of the London Rotary club today that Canadian athletes should not copy him.

"It is his spirit rather than his muscle that makes him break records," he said. "Nurmi himself says it is his mind and will power. Ever since he was a boy he has set his mind on being the world's champion runner, and he has succeeded. Still I would not hold him up as an ideal athlete. He is not an all-round man."

Mr. Crocker spoke to the Rotarians today on the 1921 Olympic games, showing a number of pictures on a screen of the various events and athletes.

Professor Osborne of the university of Michigan, who is expected to be the greatest athlete in the games. He won the high jump at five feet and a half, and later jumped five feet eight inches, a world's record. He was also the winner of the decathlon with a score of 7,110 points.

"We are inclined to think that Finland has only turned out Nurmi, a single runner," he said, "but the woods in the Finn's country are full of runners just as promising as Nurmi was fifteen years ago. The marathon was won last year by Steen Ross, another Finn, 38 years old. They practice running as we practice basketball and hockey, and perhaps some of Nurmi's records may yet be broken."

Mr. Crocker had a good word to say for London. He said that he broke the world's record in the quarter-mile, making it in 47 and 3-5 seconds.

Upwards of $300,000 will be spent this spring by the C. P. R. in the London division. April 1st will see a gang of 300 men out on the lines doing general repair work and putting in new ties.

It is expected that 300,000 ties will be used this spring. Two months will be occupied in carrying out the work. The ties cost from one dollar to two dollars each, according to the quality and whether they are treated with creosote or not.

F. M. Rutter, superintendent of the London division, said today that the present plans do not include any new bridges or buildings. For the time being only maintenance work will be carried out.

Much of the work will be done around the lines from Guelph Junction to Goderich. St. Marys, St. Thomas, Port Burwell and on the Toronto and Windsor lines.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Correspondent. Toronto, March 30.—A reduction in the federal tax on liquors sold by government dispensaries in Ontario is urged by A. W. Gray, Conservative member for Leeds, in a resolution which he has placed on the order paper in the legislature.

He asks that the house petition the dominion government to levy on liquors sold in dispensaries only the tax of $2.40 a gallon which is now imposed on liquor used in the manufacture of patent medicines, etc., instead of the tax of from $9 to $10 which applies on all other liquors.

R. H. Kemp, Progressive member for Lincoln, asks whether anyone was convicted at North Bay last December for transporting liquor by truck; whether a fine was imposed and paid; whether the liquor was confiscated, and if not, why not.

UNIONISTS TO HAVE FIXED ASSOCIATION

Members in North London Will Hold Social Evening Friday.

The unionist Presbyterians of North London intend holding a social evening next Friday night in Ryerson public school.

The intention, according to an official of the church union association of New St. James' Presbyterian church, is to form a permanent organization and name it the Church Union association of North London, merging into it the association which was originally formed in New St. James' church, but which has broken up lately owing to the fact that so many of its members have joined other churches in the city.

A further purpose of the meeting also is to appoint a treasurer, to whom the unionists of the association, some of whom are still attending New St. James' church, may hand their contributions for missions in order that some of the funds can be diverted to assist anti-union congregations in London presbytery and elsewhere, as has been done in St. George's Presbyterian church and other churches in the presbytery. The funds thus paid to the treasurer of the association will then be forwarded to the missionary headquarters of the Presbyterian church in Canada at Toronto.

P. J. Thompson, president of the New St. James' union association, will preside at the meeting.

NEAR-WHITE FAVORED FOR STREET CLEANERS

Question of Uniforms Will Be Dealt With at Committee Meeting.

London's street cleaning corps, now clothed in garments of various styles and colors, may become "white wings" or "near white wings" this year. A plan will be introduced at tomorrow night's meeting of No. 2 committee of the council whereby the street gang may be outfitted with regular uniforms.

Policemen, firemen and other city officials have uniforms. The street cleaning gang, with about two dozen men on the regular pay roll, wear all sorts of nondescript clothing.

"Make the uniforms from a gray cloth," suggests the mayor. "It would wear well and wouldn't show the dirt so quickly as white stuff."

Samples of suitable uniforms have been shown to the mayor and city officials and they are well pleased with the outfits.

Tentative Estimate For Salary Is Placed At $1,800 For Year.

WILL NOT TAMPER

Several Declare Amount Should Remain the Same For Present.

The mayor of London will receive an $1,800 stipend for 1925, according to the tentative estimates, which come before the council for final ratification tonight. Several aldermen today declared that there would be no move to tamper with this figure and that no increase would be forthcoming for his worship this term.

For a number of years the regular stipend for a chief magistrate has been $1,800 per annum. After the December elections last year, the council, by a narrow majority of one, voted to permit payment of extra expense, amounting to $1,200, to Mr. Wenige. The method of procedure gone through was the cause of the greatest in council circles in months, the wrangle extending over the holiday and e-tight being dodged by the new council. The mayor finally got a total of $3,000 for 1924 expenses, though a bylaw has never been passed to ratify the payment.

During the estimates discussion aldermen have steered clear of the touchy salary question and there has been no move to tamper with the original figure of $1,800 for his worship.

It is understood that a query will be made at a council meeting in the early future to insist that a bylaw be brought in to legalize the payment of $3,000 to the mayor last year.
