The Bylaw Carried.

The vote of yesterday is further evidence the direction of the further restriction. and then the extinction, of our greatest social curse. But for reasons already stated we do not regard this particular measure as one that will reduce the con sumption of liquor. But it will drive it into other channels, and into the hands of less reputable men. The temperance party ought, rather, to have attacked the evil in its worst form, the unlicensed groggeries Crooks act. and the jug and bottle department of the saloons. But as the people have declared that the liquor trade must be separated from the grocery business we accept their

But how is it to be realized? The city council must frame and pass a bylaw embodying the declaration of yesterday's vote that the two businesses must be separated. That bylaw, furthermore, must be passed before March 1. To-day is the 26th of the month. They have less than four days to do it. It will be necessary to call a special meeting, and to suspend the regular rule of procedure, so the measure may be put through at one sitting. The rule is: 58. Every bylaw shall receive three several readings and on different days previous to its being passed, except in urgent and extraordinary occasions, and upon a vote of two-thirds of the members present, when it may be read twice or thrice, or advanced two or more stages in one day.

The duty of the council then is clear. They ought to give effect to the wish of the Crooks act is a very peculiar one. me of the most stringent provisions of the McCarthy act have been appropriated bodily, and the framer of the bill has frankly intimated the source from which he obtained by indicating it in the bill

The most important change introduced is compelling the commissioners to evidence for or against applications for license. The date of their meeting and a list of the applicants are to be published the latter containing also a description of the place for which in each case a license is asked. This provision will enable those who are opposed to the granting of any particular license to take steps to prevent it, and to submit such evidence as they think likely to weigh with the commis-

Closely connected with the above provi sion is the recognition, to a limited extent of the principle of local option, while the ratepayers in the same polling sub-division to the number of ten, have a right to petition against any proposed license, to state the grounds of their objection, and to furnish evidence, it is permitted to a majority of the parliamentary electors of the subdivision to absolutely prevent the issue of the license by signing a petition for that purpose. This will be found to be one of the most useful provisions of the measure for the restriction of the traffic in towns and

The bill proposes to make the separation general between the grocery trade and the liquor traffic. This will take away from municipalities a responsibility which they have found very irksome, and do away with whatever injustice the present system inflicts on unlicensed grocers.

The penalties for breaches of the license law are made more severe, and the license inspector is required to prosecute for a second or subsequent offence when the offender has really been convicted of former offences. In addition to allother penalties the very formidable and appropriate one of forfeiture of license is introluced—the forfeiture to be for at least two years for a third offence.

When the Crooks act was made law, th licensed victualers did not like it. They sent a deputation to Sir John Macdonald. look-out for support, caught them nicely. He told them that Ontario had no right to make a license law; that the dominion had students with unequal attai the right, and would exercise it if the victs would vote for him. They voted for him and Mr. McCarthy drew up a law. But Sir John wanted the support of the temperance men as well as that of the victualers. So he said to them: We are going to pass a dominion license law that will be more stringent than the provincial law, and we want your support. They also gave it, tem. form boy is wanting. perance men as a body approving of the McCarthy act, though of course some o l with the question. So Sir John kept his promise to the victs by making a kill far more people. inion law, and to the temperance men by making a more stringent law than any vet passed.

Now what do the Ontario governmen do? They introduced a bill yesterday, the North to see the marai gras festivities effect of which is to make the provincial law as stringent as the dominion law, using is infested with cut-throats. The effect of all which is that the victualers are be- ate, and robbed the visitors without re tween two mill-stones, each one a government, and each one doing its utmost to grind them into powder.

The fire insurance companies both here and in the United States are complaining that their business is carried on at a loss or an altogether discouraging rate of prefit. They say risk is increasing while fire protection is diminishing. As a consequence there has of late been a steady effort to increase rates, especially for the kind of property needing most insurance and said to be subject to the greatest risk. The result of higher rates will be to reduce insurance in stock companies and encourage the mutual plan.

There must be something wrong in management when fire insurance companies cannot make a profit without charging rates which destroy their business. If there is nothing wrong in management, then the business of fire insurance by stock companies has had its day. No really first-class beer, which compares fabusiness can be conducted without a profit. and no business can be conducted success-But who will be bound to carry out this fully on a plan which is to a material exbylaw? The license commissioners ap- tent more costly to customers than another plan which is within easy reach.

An examination, made by the New York Times, of a table showing the percentage of the finest and most exten in the matter? They do not seem to have of losses paid and of expenses of manage- sive establishments in the dominion much to be expended in conducting the business, and there is too much variation in the ratio of expense to be explained by legitimate causes. Although we have no ssification of these expenses and cannot say what they are for, it is evident that one cause of the trouble in fire insurance is that the business is too expensively managed, and the cure is to be found rather in economy of management than increase of

A Bunting Boom

The rumor is revived that Mr. Bunting of the Mail is to fill the vacancy in the senate caused by the resignation of Mr. Dickson of Niagara, and it appears that the idea finds little favor in the conservative ranks. It is asked what Mr. Bunting has done that he should be singled out for an honor to which neither his social nor commercial standing at all entitles him. He is and puncheons, all full of the finest ales and porter, which for purity, flavor and general excellence of quality, cannot be done that he should be singled out for an an uneducated man whose presence would add nothing to the dignity or usefulness of a chamber which his opponents are declaring "must go." His commercial record has been unsavory. He has not spent anything of his own in the Mail which has thing of his own in the Mail, which has been run entirely with Mr. Riordon's money. He has not made it a better party paper than when he took hold of it. In many respects it is worse—the episodes of the past week have been positively painful. If territorial claims are to be rocognized then Mr. Merritt of St. Catharines has in this particular, as in every other, claims decidedly superior to those of Mr. Bunting, whose connection with the district consists in once having sold sugar at the Suspension Bridge. If parliamentary services are a factor in the choice of a successor to Mr. Dickson there are dozens of men of claims superior to those of Mr. Bunting. Ford Jones of Gananoque, Walter Shanly, for many years representative of Caracial for the choice of the summer. In this department the lager beer is degree the whole establishment. The wash-house is the next place visited, and although the building is about the largest of its kind in Canada, not a foot of space seems to be unoccupied, and every facility in the way of hot and cold water and steam are provided. Two coopers receive constant employment in unheading and repairing casks, thus enabling the less skilled artizan to thoroughly scrub and cleanse the inside of every cask. We now visit the engine-room with its balanced engine, 96 horse power, two boilers, each 50 horse power, numerous pumps, heaters and other appliances.

And now to the lager beer brewery we repair, and there we find as we pass through the double doors a chill caused by the immense body of ice, which makes the whole brewery a gigantic refrigerator, the temperature of which ranges from 36 to 40 degrees all through the heat of the summer. In this department the lager beer is Ford Jones of Gananoque, Walter Shanly, for many years representative of Grenville, and others have received no recognition of party services of a lifetime. Adam Brown of Hamilton is another gentleman whose claims in every particular are superior to those of Mr. Riordon's agent in the Mail office, whose ambition in life it would seem to be to show physiologists to what an extent a man may inflate himself without bursting. His success in that particular line is phenomenal. If the services of the Mail are to count for anything then let one of the Mr. Rior lons receive the son

And now we have Nova Scotia asking for better Iterms from the dominion When all the other provinces are appeased it might be well to investigate as to whether it would not pay Ontario to buy them outright, and annex them to this province, instead of supplying the funds to keep them in good humor under the present federal system.

THE DAVIES BREWING AND MALT.

The business of the Davies Brewing and Malting Co. was commenced in 1849 by the father of the president of the new company, who succeeded to the business after the death of Mr. Davies, sr., in 1869. The brewery, which originally was but a small place, was rebuilt in the year 1868 under the superintendence of the present Mr Thomas Davies, and from that time for ward the business steadily increased, and in the centennial year, 1876, the lager beer brewery was added to the already extensive premises, and the firm have ever since enjoyed the reputation of turning out vorably with the best brands of Milwankee or New York beers. Still the business in creased until the year 1880, when Mr. Davies resolved to pull down and rebuild and further extend the brewery and malt house, which has now become one as yet considered the question. The clause ment to the total receipts from premiums A visit to the brewery will occupy about of a number of old established companies two hours, and the first place we enter is 44. The council of any city, town, or village, may, by bylaw to be passed before the first day of March in any year, reduce, within any limit by this act provided, the number of hotel, saloon and shop licenses to be issued therein, for the then ensuing year, or for any future license, or until such by-law is altered or repealed.

How is this clause to be interpreted by the license commissioners of the dominion? Does to separate the grocery from the liquor business mean to reduce the number of liquor business mean to reduce the number of licenses? If it does not, then the dominion commissioners will license whatsoever grocers they see fit, and the conflict of authority will be brought to a head, and the point of supremest importance in this issue settled, namely—in which of the two, the provements and modern appliances of the day, are capable of malting 175,000 bushels during the season, the larger half of which is available for export, the balance being required for the company's own use for ale, porter and lager beer brewing. From the malt-house we visit the ale and porter brewery, and here again we find porter brewery, and here again we find everything in most convenient shape—iron tanks for water, and copper ones for mashing and boiling the wort (extract of the malt). The mash-tub is provided with an iron mashing machine, built by C. Kaestner & Co. of Chicago, and was about the first of the kind introduced into Canada. The refrigerator for cooling the wort is composed of a large number of copper pipes, and is, we believe, the largest of the kind in the dominion of Canada. In the cellars and vaults under the brewery we cellars and vaults under the brewery we

In this department the lager beer is fermented in tuns and stored in immense oaken puncheons, numbered by the score, from which it is daily drawn to quench the thirst and strengthen the hard-worked mechanic and laborer. We were shown a certificate from Dr. W. H. Ellis, the public analyst, in which he hears testimony to lic analyst, in which he bears testimony to the purity and good quality of the ales, porter and lager turned out by Mr. Davies porter and lager turned out by Mr. Davies and cheerfully recommends them all. A certificate from the inspector for the city waterworks shows that the company have used at their brewery during the past year the enormous quantity of over 9,000,000 wine gallons of city water.

To the Editor of The World. SIR: The attention of the charitable is called to a case of distress. Two maiden ladies formerly in good circumstances, but in later years supported by the earnings of the younger one at dressmaking, are in destitute circumstances. A few weeks ago the worker broke her wrist and since then they have been mainly dependent upon what charitable people have given them through the exertions of a lady who is no longer able to continue them. Will the editor allow such money as may be contributed for them to be sent to him, and see himself that it reaches these ladies? Their name is Biggar, and they live over 417 Queen street west.

Among all our charities we have none for refined respectable women like these when they come to want. We need a home for the friendless here combined with an old ladies' home like they have in Detroit.

Competition, Not Gobble. From the Owen Sound Advertiser (Ref). The fact is, it will be better for every body that the Canadian Pacific should run through the business part of Ontario as it does at present, beginning at Owen as it does at present, beginning at Owen Sound, and afford competition to the Grand Trunk, than that any exchange should be made whereby the former road should be run out of Ontario, or at least pushed to the northern part of it. Whatever the government will do in the way of promoting such a state of things will gain for them strength throughout Ontario, whereas any concession in the other direction to the Grand Trunk will call forth general condemnation.
