Clarke & Co. of New York: Market has; been inclined to weakness all day. There was a small sprut early in the morning, but the market met free selling on the advance and declined again.
The Cammack-Gould interest has liquidateds pretty freely and is working on the side of the however, and we think a rally will show up before the close to-morrow. Reported damage to spring

J. J. Dixon & Co. received the following from their correspondents in New York to-day: Speculators gave more attention to grain market than to stocks to-day. Two or three prominent operators who last week began to neglect stocks in order to help along the boomers of wheat have been enjoying an expensive experience and there is every likelihood that most of them are quite ready to get back into stocks again. The engagement of something over half a million gold for export to day gave bear contingent on Exchange an opportunity for effective activity, and the result has been that conspicuous stocks have he ad soft quotations all day long. The close to-night is almost featureless. Important interests known to be in for a determined and continuing campaign upon the bull side of stock market are apparently for the moment holding aloof from business.
