

This is the favourite resort of the sweet-faced maids and matrons of Nazareth. On Easter Sunday they wore their gayest garb of bright crimson, purple, white or yellow silk, harmonizing with their dark eyes and Madonna-like expression. Here the

SHEIK'S TOMB—"A WHITE SEPULCHRE."

Virgin Mary and the child Jesus must often have come for the daily supply of water for the village household. Most of these women are Christians of the Greek or Latin Churches and do not veil their faces like the natives of the country. Cut on page 433 shows the graceful garb of these Nazarene women. The head-