

MORE QUAINP PICTURES FROM THE CANADIAN FRONT

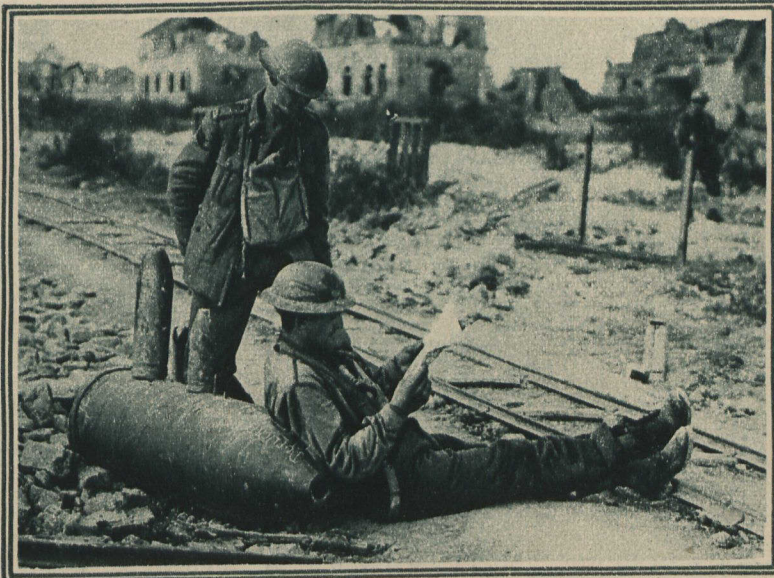

Tree trunk used as an O.P. Note the peeping Tommy within.

"At the sign of the Sewing Machine." A Canadian tailor having dug up an ancient sewing machine immediately opens up shop.

German sniper's helmet. Made of $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch Krupp steel, it is so heavy that it can only be used when resting on some object.

Though not exactly as soft as down, this "dud" German shell makes an excellent cushion for a weary Canadian.

The gas alarm man. When the gas is signalled, the sentry rings the bell.
