

Most Mexican apparel manufacturers have exclusive sales agents who usually work as employees. In some cases, the manufacturer may fill out its product line by representing lines from other companies, including foreign manufacturers.

Mexican apparel manufacturers are struggling to keep up with market trends towards greater fashion orientation, increasingly sophisticated distribution systems, and growing demands for customer service. They are open to joint ventures with foreign manufacturers who can contribute technical and marketing expertise, in exchange for access to the Mexican market.

Participation in trade shows is an effective way for Canadian apparel suppliers to introduce their products and meet potential customers, agents and partners. A list of apparel shows is provided in the Key Contacts in Mexico section of this summary.

THE REGULATORY ENVIRONMENT

NORTH AMERICAN FREE TRADE AGREEMENT (NAFTA)

To qualify for favourable tariff treatment under the NAFTA, goods must comply with the rules of origin specified in that agreement. The rules for apparel are somewhat more complex than for most other products. In general, the rules of origin are "yarn forward".

All products imported into Mexico must be supported by a certificate of origin. The exporter must consult the detailed rules of origin for the product involved.

Under the NAFTA, there is a provision for certain goods made with imported fabrics to be exported duty-free up to each country's Tariff Preference Level (TPL). This is an expansion of the Tariff Rate Quotas (TRQ) program included in the former Canada-U.S. Free Trade Agreement (FTA). TPLs must be listed on a Certificate of Eligibility issued by the country of export.

LABELLING

Mexico has regulations governing the labelling of all consumer goods. The label must be in Spanish, affixed "at the source", and must contain specific information set out in the regulations. Textiles, clothing and accessories must also meet additional labelling requirements which are enforced at the border. Apparel labels must also meet the requirements of the official Mexican standard NOM-004-SCFI-1993.

Draft amendments that are expected to become effective in mid-1995 will include several important requirements for apparel labels, including more extensive instructions for product care.

STANDARDS

A wide number of products are covered by mandatory product standards known as Normas Oficiales Mexicanas (NOMs). Mexican official standards. Textiles. apparel and accessories are covered by NOM-004-SCFI-1993. Products subject to NOMs must be tested in Mexico and a certificate of compliance obtained from the Secretaría de Comercio y Fomento Industrial (SECOFI), Secretariat of Commerce and Industrial Development. The certification number must be included on apparel labels, along with the NOM logo.
