

THE
S T A T E
OF THE
North-American Trade, and Settlements considered;
With a particular ACCOUNT of
NOVA SCOTIA.

GREAT-BRITAIN has enjoyed the Benefit of a most extensive Commerce, since the Discovery of America, which, if properly attended to, will contribute more to its future Interest, than any other Branches of Trade, by enlarging the Demand for all its Manufactures, and increasing the Means of its Naval Force.