

Page.

(b) that Messiah is the Word of Jehovah; (c) that the Word of Jehovah is also God himself: the witness of Rabbi Solomon Yarhhi, of Rabbi Uzziel...	83
Jehovah-the-Word is, according to the old Synagogue, a distinct Person from Jehovah-the-Father, who addresses Him as a distinct Person...	83
No less than eighty times is the Messianic name "The Word" substituted by the Synagogue as a perfect equivalent for the name of Jehovah and for other unmistakable names of God himself, in the Pentateuch: list of passages in question...	83

III.

According to the Synagogue Messiah is the Eternal Son of God

"The Bud of Jehovah:" the witness of Rabbi Kimhhi, of Rabbi Isaac Arama	83
"The Word of God, the Angel of the Covenant, emanates from God:" says Rabbi Behhai...	83
Let us make Man: "these words were addressed to the Father by the Nurseling of the love of Jehovah"—the witness of Rabbi Simeon...	84
Rabbinic commentary on Ps. 2 and on Is. 6' 3...	84
Rabbi Solomon Yarhhi, on Mich. 5' 2, affirms the eternal filiation of Messiah as the Son of God...	84
Testimony of the Thikkune-Zohar...	84
Messiah is "the Personal Image of the Ancient of days"—and belongs to "the Divine Essence"...	85

IV.

According to the Synagogue Messiah is both God and Man, or God Incarnate

The Synagogue agrees with Isaiah that "the little Child" to be born of "the Virgin" is rightly called "the Mighty God"...	86
The Son of Man whom all nations will adore, according to Daniel (Dan. 7' 13, 14, 27), is Messiah in Person, says the Synagogue	86
The Hebrew root "Basar," which means "flesh," is the common basis of the two verbs, "to inflesh one's self" and "to announce the glad tidings," or the Gospel...	86
The Scriptural Divine Name "Jah" means Jehovah "abbreviated," God making himself little, becoming a "little child" (Is. 9' 6)...	87
God says of the Jews, "My flesh shall come from them" (Os. 9' 12): the witness of Jewish authorities...	87
The Synagogue's Discipline of the Secret...	87
According to the Synagogue herself, the Scriptural terms "the Beginning, the Celestial Wisdom, the Eternal Wisdom, the Word; the Word of Jehovah, Jehovah, Messiah"—are interchangeable and designate the same Divine Person of the Christ or Messiah...	88