

THE LITERARY and HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF QUEBEC, founded in 1824, is the senior learned society in Canada, and the Governors-General have always been its Patrons. The building in which its library is housed was formerly the gaol of Quebec. Among its historical relics are a piece of the katt from which Wolfe directed the attack on the Montmorency Heights, an effigy of Wolfe made in 1771 for an English butcher by a French-Canadian wood-carver, the handle of the first Printing Press in Canada, the last Pillory in Canada, and a model of the ROYAL WILLIAM, called after H. M. King William IV, which ship was built in, and sailed from, Quebec, and was the first vessel in the world to cross the Atlantic entirely under steam. This pioneer voyage was made in August, 1833. The Royal William was built by
