States than the desire now evinced to assist rather than thwart public service commissions in the discharge of the question of taking steps to preto the duties now so generally entrusted to them. Last week President Gillichrist of the National Electric Light Association, as noted editorially in The Wall-street Journal, in his annual address, laid especial stress upon the desirability of every public utility company cultivating cordial relations with the commissions under which they must operate. He referred to the continuing increase in the number of these commissions and expressed the opinion that, in the majority of cases, the commissions and expressed the opinion that, in the majority of cases, the sale any land a plan of which has not boards are honestly desirous of arbitrating fairly between the companies and the people. So in a paper read recently before the Southwestern Electrical and Gas Association, Mr. C. W. Kellogs, fr., declared "it was the simple adaptation of the golden rule that should be sought, the public demanding and expecting good service at reasonable cost and the company receiving a liberal reward for its labor and investment." Had the public services and utility companies in the United States and Canada pursued the more enlightnessed for subdivision in activation and investment." Many and various are the amusing stories attributed to Abraham Lincoln, and like all good story-tellers, he became the butt of many funny yarns himself. It is told of him that at one of his early public receptions, a man qame up and shook his hand. The man proved to be his shirt-maker, but Lincoln did not recognize him, and told him so.

"Oh," said the man, "I made your shirts."

In the noise and confusion, Lincoln did not recognize him, and told him so.

the doubt should be resolved in favor of the defendant and the conviction quashed. As to costs and protection, it is the rule of the court to go as far as possible for the protection of non-professional magistrates, but the present police magistrate is a lawyer and a K.C. The proceedings were very irregular, and I think the conviction should be quashed with costs to be paid by the magistrate, and that on these being paid an order for protection will go, but not otherwise.
