pressed With Merits of the Proposal.

The civic "Greater Toronto" committee yesterday made a good start in the discussion of the problem of the railway approach to the new Union Station. Unanimity was shown in supporting the recommendation of the city's experts that the tracks should be raised from the Humber to Sunnyside and should be depressed from that point to the Bathurst-street "diamond"; also, in approving the plans of the Union Station proper as amended in the report.

Controller Hubbard was the only one present who came out in positive sup-port of the city engineer's recommenation for a series of bridges. Ald. McMurrich advanced the proposal that the viaduct be built south on Lake-street, but the city engineer argued otherwise.

There were present Controller Harrison (chairman), Controller Hubbard, Ald. McGhie, Ald. R. H. Graham, Ald. Chisholm, Ald. Adams. Ald. McMurrich, City Engineer Rust, City Solicitor Chisholm, and Assistant City Wants the Viaduct.

Controller Harrison announced that plan, but that he saw objections in the board of trade's plan, which practically shut off the west and sacrificed that approach for the benefit of the east. He also complained that no mention was made of the important Strachan-avenue crossing.

Mr. Rust, asked as to what would be done with the Spadina-avenue crossing, said that it would have to be raised a few feet, but that a bridge could be constructed over the elevated tracks. The main objection was that the bridge would have rather a steep drop on the south side.

The chairman suggested that the question of removing the dangers of the level crossings on Yonge-street Avenue-road, Brock-street and Bloor-street should be taken up in discus-sion of the whole problem of level crossings in and around the city, and it was argued that these particular matters should be taken up later.

Ald McMurrich's Idea.

Ald. McMurrich suggested that the viaduct be constructed as far south. as Lake-street. His opinion was that, if the city expropriated the property between Esplanade-street and Lake-street, the revenue therefrom would defray a large portion of the cost.

Mr. Rust returned that the city now owned two-thirds of this property, and that a part of it was leased out. The nearer the viaduct was to the street bridge, as provided for in the Berrian report. Controller Hubbard interpreted the report to mean that the waterfront would be shut off from York-street to Spadina-avenue. He contended that the scheme of bridges would not impede waterfront traffic. a; practically all the freight by boat was received at the Yonge-street, Geddes wharves and the city dock, there being no traffic worth mention-ing east of Jarvis-street. The removal of John-street bridge would cut off communication with the water-

The city engineer admitted to Ald. McGhie that a viaduct would eliminate the shunting between Yongestreet and Parliament-street, but pointed out that the factories to the east would require to be served on the

The city engineer is firm in his attitude in favor of bridges as a solution of the Esplanade problem. Hesays that both he and C. B. Smith started out with a bias for the viaduct scheme, but that investigation proved its impracticability. The project would entail huge expense, would cisorganize shipping, and would not remove the danger of level crossings, as shunting would have to continue on the level.
