Wheat—There was an early spurt in the wheat market, encouraged by a better tone to the Liverpool cables which, however, was very short lived. The advance was productive of heavy and excellent selling, which gradually but surely undermined the buying power of the market, which has been more or less shattered in the past few days and resulted at the close in the loss of 1%c from the high price. The export situation is depressing, practically no business being consummated of consequence. Short in-should be profitable.

Ennis & Steppani wired to J. L. Mitchell at the close of the market:

Wheat—Strength in coarse grains and an unexpected advance at Liveryool imparted a firmer tone to the market during the early trading but the volume of parted a firmer tone to the market during the early trading, but the volume of business was so small that buyers soon became discouraged and endeavored to liquidate early purchases, which resulted in turning the trend of the market downward. A fractional recovery from the lowest resulted. We see nothing to cause us to change the tenor of our opinion, and look for further reaction. Exports reported business dull.

Hay—Twenty loads sold at $19 to $22 per ton.

Wheat—Liverpool closed % to id higher, owing to showery weather in the Argentine and firmer La Plata offerings.
