ciety has advanced us in the path of virtue, weaned us from sensual and degrading pleasures, diffused benevolence and kindly feeling, and rendered us fitter to enter into that indissoluble Society above, in which, (unlike this) there is neither controversy nor division.

Gentlemen, in the language of the Festive Season which approaches, I wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year when it comes.

JOSEPH S. LEE, the spread of the party but I may be not been all a Second with the second of the second will the forestare of the Club, where we have since the service of the server with the server

Secretary Shakspeare Club.

MONTHEAL, December 23rd, 1844.

Members
asion will
periences,
buildings
tive rudethese exred by too of similar
ncourageMembers,
ral Society
to a Club
cite these Club ever

ny civil

at these rights, which

s of the

in my

e. And

auty and ig into a ir quality

A Club

ber by the t (which by) at the renat this So-