CAPT. McNEILL OF THE LETITIA DEAD

Commander in Donaldson Line Service, Well Known Here, Passes Away in Glasgow

Montreal, Nov. 20.—A cable has been received here from Glasgow announcing the death of Captain William McNeill, formerly commander of the Anchor-Donaldson steamer Letitia. He died on Nov. 16.

Captain McNeill was one of the best known and most popular men that visited this port and his death will be mourned by a host of friends. He first came here as commander of the Donaldson liner Lakonia in the year 1908, but had been a master in the Donaldson line service since 1903. On December 9, 1913, his twentieth anniversary in the service was celebrated, while he was in this port, and at that time a large number of friends assembled to congratulate him.

His last charge was the Letitia, which was wrecked at a Canadian port in August. At the investigation he was completely exonerated from all blame. After the enquiry he sailed for Glasgow and was confident that he would be given another command. At that time his health was good and local shipping men looked forward to seeing him here during the winter port season.

While sailing to this port Captain McNeill was commander of the steamers Warwick, Amantia, Lakonia, Athens and Letitia.

The Letitia was launched in 1912 and when completed was turned over to Captain McNeill. He made his first trip to this port in her in December, 1912. After the outbreak of the war she was taken over by the admiralty and was fitted up as a hospital ship, and saw service in the Indian Ocean and in the Mediterranean Sea. Owing to numerous rescues made on her voyages the company's national fame and was considered one of the best steamers in the service. It is thought that the loss of this fine ship may have caused Captain McNeill considerable worry and thus his health became impaired.

The Man In The Street

No, so far as we know, the mild weather is not caused by the heated political discussion.

The slightly worried look noticed in the eyes of political speakers on both sides seems to be due to the fear that they will forget and pull some of the old campaign stuff of other days, with disastrous results to the new alliances.

But the famous performance of the lion and the lamb has nothing on the exhibition of cordiality brought about by union.

The "straight" Liberals seemed to have at least wavered in their straightness when they found it necessary to nominate a Conservative to carry Sir Wilfrid's banner.

There has been some discussion among the Laurierites as to which division of the Liberal party has the "heart and brains." It does not seem necessary to argue which has the backbone.

Having selected a Conservative candidate it was not surprising that the Laurier Liberals should also choose a Conservative election agent; but why not choose one who knew something about the election law?

Party lines don't seem quite so important when the life of the nation is at stake. Did you ever hear of a drowning man worrying about the politics of his rescuer?

When old Joe looks down at the approaching British army and notes the steel helmets, the corselets and the bare legs of the outfit, she is liable to reflect that military styles have not changed so much since the last crusades.

How would a Liberty Loan bond-buying contest do as a test of the loyalty of the rival political factions?

That's what comes of a reputation for untruthfulness. Berlin admits losing more ground and almost makes us believe that she must have won a victory.

Common counsel love trouble; just as things were quieting down here they go and appoint another city engineer.

Our young friend says the only thing wrong with the Peddlers' Fair is that the dolls are not for sale. Generous youth!

That Hindenburg line must be beginning to look like the diagram showing the vibrations of an earthquake.

Y. M. C. A. FUND IS NEARLY $50,000,000

New York, Nov. 21.—The National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. announced here today that the grand total of the nation-wide war fund is $48,209,411. This exceeds by nearly $15,000,000 the $33,000,000 goal set at the beginning of the campaign on November 12.

HORSE FALLS AND GETS INTO HOUSE

Fire alarm Box No. 56 was rung about 1.30 this afternoon when a horse, the property of Thomas Wistard, slipped and fell while going down Winchester's Alley, Waterloo street. Coming against a door, the animal went through and into the house. After some trouble he was extricated very little the worse for the accident.

LANGFORD AND WILLS
BARRERED IN TOLEDO

Toledo, Ohio, Nov. 21.—The local boxing commission, at a separate meeting last night, made a ruling barring Sam Langford and Harry Wills, negro heavyweights, from further participation in bouts in the Toledo ring. The two men appeared here a week ago and the commission ruled last night that the bout was not on the square.

APPEALS FROM THE TRIBUNALS

Sir Robert Borden's Statement and Its Local Application

A citizen of St. John county has complained to the Times that in his opinion the military tribunal has refused to grant exemption in some cases where it should be granted, because the young men were not only producers and therefore rendering the country invaluable service, but for family reasons were needed at home.

In today's Times appears a statement by Sir Robert Borden dealing with this very matter, and pointing out that there is first an appeal tribunal and then a central appeal tribunal to which all such cases can be referred; and the premier urges that this be done. In some of the first tribunals are charged by some with being too severe, and in others too lax. The appeal tribunals are provided for the very purpose of correcting any errors of judgment on the part of those who first deal with applications for exemption.

They will be given allowance of quarters and rations according to army rates, in addition to their pay, and will wear the same uniform. The need is for three chief operators at $125 a month, nine supervisors at $74 twenty-four long distance operators at $60; fifty-four operators at $60 and ten substitutes at $50. Employment will be for the duration of the war. Those qualified are asked to apply by mail to the first lieutenant, Signal Corps, U. S. R.
